Milk Price Cut of Cent Started Here

Independent Dairy Acts; Other Firms Expected to Join in Decrease by April 1

By V. R. Montanari
Post Reporter

One independent dairy will reduce its milk prices by 1 cent a quart today, and a general (1-cent) reduction in District and Maryland prices is expected by April 1, it was learned last night.

Announcement of the immediate reduction by the Embassy Dairy, largest Greater Washington independent, came yesterday as another milk firm, Thompson's Dairy, advertised a similar cut for April 1. Price decreases will not be effective in Virginia unless approved by the Virginia Milk Commission.

The April 1 reduction by Thompson's will be "due to a decrease in price of locally produced milk," reported to amount to 50 cents a hundredweight. The lower price to be paid to producers was reported to have been unofficially agreed upon by the Maryland & Virginia Milk Producers Association.

Three distributors have asked the Virginia State Milk Commission to authorize the reduction for the Arlington-Alexandria milk market, and the commission has set a public hearing on March 29 to consider the proposal.

Officials of other dairies buying through the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association said yesterday they probably would have similar announcements to make in the near future. They indicated that Thompson's had "jumped the gun" in announcing the price change yesterday.

James J. Ward, owner of the Embassy Dairy, said one exception to his 1-cent cut will be in the price of plain homogenized milk, without vitamin D. This milk will be delivered beginning today, for 18 cents a quart, a reduction of 2 cents, he said.

Ward said he was reducing his prices because "prices are dropping everywhere." A major opponent of the Producers Association, he said he pays his producing sources the same price paid by association members and has been anticipating the drop expected on April 1.

Bruce B. Derrick, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland-Virginia producer group, declared the producers would "go along with whatever the Virginia commission decides." Some dairymen indicated they would wait until that decision before they changed their prices for District and Maryland consumers as well as those in Virginia.

Asked if the decrease in prices to producers had not been agreed upon, in view of the Thompson Dairy announcement, Derrick said:

Air Crash Victim 2 Days Reaching Phone to Call Aid

Maryville, Tenn., March 20 (U.P.).—An injured man reached an isolated telephone tonight after two days of painfully dragging himself through the woods and reported he and three companions had been hurt in a plane crash.

Highway patrolmen, doctors and volunteers began working through rugged country to rescue the other four.

The man who made the call was brought to a hospital here. His condition was not serious, but he was delirious from shock and exposure and could not give a clear account of the crash. He was identified as Stephen A. Walker, of Detroit.

He said his companions were all seriously injured. A helicopter pilot sighted three persons beside the plane, one apparently a woman. Food, blankets and medical supplies were dropped to them.

Veteran Held In Estranged Wife's Killing

MRS. LUCILLE ROBERTSON

A 34-year-old Washington truck driver was being held by police last night on charges he shot and killed his estranged wife and critically wounded her Marine companion early Sunday.

He is Clarence W. Robertson, a driver for the Washington Gas Light Co. and a veteran of World War II, who lives at 1123 11th st. nw.

The dead woman was attractive 24-year-old Mrs. Lucille Pulley Robertson, a waitress at Benny's Tavern, who lived at 1125 11th st. nw., next door to her husband.

The critically wounded Marine is Pfc. Everett Flagg, 23, of Des Moines, Iowa, who has been stationed at Quantico, Va., since last November. He is under treatment at Emergency Hospital.

The shooting occurred about 1:45 a. m. Sunday in Mrs. Robertson's

Taft-Hartley Act Aids Troop Use, CIO Says

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

State troops and police are being used increasingly for strikebreaking purposes as a result of the Taft-Hartley Act, the Congress of Industrial Organizations charged yesterday.

Arthur J. Goldberg, CIO general counsel, declared that the Taft-Hartley Act—which organized labor bitterly opposes—has in effect "completely altered the course of labor relations."

The CIO asserted that not only was the law in itself injurious to labor unions, but that also the Taft-Hartley Act "molds anti-union attitudes and destroys the basis of sound labor relations even when it is not actually resorted to by employers."

In the wake of the Taft-Hartley Act, Goldberg said, the issuance of "anti-labor injunctions limiting and frequently outlawing all picketing" has become a matter of "routine" in both State and Federal courts.

The 127-page CIO statement, released yesterday, will be presented this morning before the Kelley Subcommittee of the House Labor Committee, holding its final day of hearings on the Thomas-Lesinski bill. This measure, backed by the Administration and the major unions, would repeal the Taft-Hartley Act and restore the Wagner Act with certain "improvements"

The statement gives in detail the CIO's objections to the Taft-Hartley Act, and, in the words of Goldberg, draws a "detailed picture of the vicious effects of this law

Rail Unions Get Pay Hike, 40-Hr. Week

16 Nonoperating Groups End Fight; Railroads Set Cost At 640 Millions

Chicago, March 20 (U.P.).—The Nation's railroads and 16 nonoperating unions settled an 11-month-old dispute today with a formal agreement giving one million workers a 5-day week and a third-round wage boost of 7 cents an hour.

The settlement was expected to set a pattern for a parallel wage-hour dispute involving employes of the Railway Express Agency, owned by the railroads.

Express workers, members of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, usually follow the lead of nonoperating rail employes in contract settlements. Their dispute has been marked by alleged slowdowns and company layoffs in New York City.

The shorter work week for nonoperating, employes will give them 48 hours' pay for 40 hours' work, but will not take effect until next September 1. The flat wage boost of 7 cents is retroactive to last October 1.

These major provisions were agreed upon last week, but negotiations worked around the clock since yesterday to iron certain "fringe" issues before signing the agreement at 5:30 a. m. today.

The chief fringe issue involved yardmasters, who originally were exempted from the 40-hour week. In the final settlement, they will remain on a six-day week, but get a 10-cent hourly wage boost instead of 7 as compensation.

While both sides agreed to the principle that workers will get two consecutive days off in the shorter work week, the railroads said they won the right to split the rest days under certain circumstances—generally when penalty overtime payments would be unavoidable.

Under the agreement, the workers are entitled to overtime pay for all hours in excess of eight hours a day, and for work on the sixth or seventh day of a week.

Contracts between individual railroads and the unions still must be signed on the basis of today's settlement, but spokesmen said no difficulties were expected.

The cost to the railroads of the shorter work week and wage boost was estimated at 640 million dollars a year.

Rail spokesmen said the settlement marked the first time under the National Railway Labor Act that disputants wrote into an agreement the general proposals of a presidential fact-finding board. The board originally recommended the 40-hour week and the seven-cent wage increase last December.

Negotiations dragged on, however, chiefly over the method of applying the five-day week to the far-flung night and day operations of the railroads.

Service Paper Sees Threat to Marine Band

Under the heading of "Oops!," a story in The Armed Force reported in its edition released this weekend the following:

"The Marine Corps Band—oldest of all military musical organizations having statutory authority—will be abolished unless a House Armed Services subcommittee conducting hearings on legislation to increase service pay modifies lines five and six on page 113 of HR 2553.

"This section was intended to repeal that provision of law which authorizes special pay for band members for playing at White House and other ceremonial functions. It so happens, however, that this is the only statutory authority for the existence of the Marine Corps Band."

SPRING THRILL—Miss Mary Ann Smith, of George Washington University and Davenport, Iowa, peeks at a pansy on the first day of spring

Spring came to Washington at 5:49 p. m. yesterday without any springlike fixings.

Aside from the clock, there actually was little to indicate the arrival of the new season. For one thing, it was topcoat weather ranging from 30 degrees at 6:10 a. m. to 46 at 3:37 p. m.

No lambs gamboled on the village greens, no lassies sang tra-la-la, and apparently no one felt like going swimming in the Potomac—a sharp contrast to a year

Trans-Jordan Asks British Israeli Curb

Amman, Trans-Jordan, March 20 (NYHT).—The government of Trans-Jordan has formally requested military assistance from Britain for defense of the southern Negev Desert border against reported Israeli incursions, it was learned authoritatively today.

Trans-Jordan suggested that reinforced British army units stationed at Aqaba Port on the Red Sea be permitted to send patrols northward along the Palestine frontier. The patrols would reinforce small Arab Legion units up to the southern mouth of the Dead Sea.

Military officials in Amman said the decision to seek British assistance followed complaints by Arab district governors in the border regions of small Israeli forays into Trans-Jordan.

Guard Units For 'Internal' Use Planned

Project Corresponds Partly to Proposals Made Last Year to Secretary Forrestal

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

A project to frame "internal security forces" within the National Guard is under study by the Army Department, the Washington Post learned yesterday.

This project, it was understood, would carry out in part the recommendations of the Office of Civilian Defense Planning Board which were submitted to Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal last year. Shortly after the report was issued, Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of District police, announced that he was organizing a "police reserve" to carry out the recommendations of the board. Barrett's reserve was disbanded after Defense Secretary Forrestal said it had not been requested by the National Military Establishment.

The present plan was suggested to Maj. Gen. Kenneth P. Cramer, chief of the National Guard Bureau, by Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, commanding general of the D. C. Guard. The essence of Cox's recommendation was contained in one paragraph which said:

"That the commanding general of the militia of the District of Columbia be authorized to form cadres and unrecognized units for 'internal security' purposes."

General Cramer told The Washington Post that the plan submitted by the D. C. National Guard was similar to those submitted by the Guards of several States. The D. C. Guard's recommendation was dated last February 15.

Under the program now being studied by the National Guard Bureau, Cramer said, units would be organized within Regular National Guard establishments; for instance, an extra rifle platoon would be set up in each rifle company. This platoon would be left behind, if the guard were mobilized, to form the nucleus of an internal security force.

"These men," Cramer said, "would be those not eligible for general service. A lot of them would be former servicemen."

Cramer said that a large proportion of the "internal security" units would be in military police infantry organizations. The D. C. National Guard has two military police battalions. Cramer did not attribute this new project directly to the recommendations in the Civilian Defense report or to those from State National Guard units. He said:

"The organization of the Air National Guard is now 95 per cent complete and that of the Army National Guard better than 80 per cent complete. Having reached this point, we felt it was time to think about a trained force to be left behind in case the Guard is mobilized."

In most of the States during World War II, home guard units were hastily organized to take the place of National Guard organizations called into Federal service. The District of Columbia had no local Guard but depended for internal security on the Military District of Washington.

West Berlin Bars Red Money; Howley Urges Blockade's End

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

BIG NEWS TO BERLIN—Traffic is jammed as a sound truck announces that the U. S., Britain and France have outlawed the Soviet eastmark in the blockaded sectors of western Berlin

Berlin, March 20 (AP).—The American commandant in Berlin called on the Russians tonight to admit the failure of their policy and lift the blockade.

"Let them shake the hand which we've never refused to give them," said Brig. Gen. Frank L. Howley at a news conference.

His invitation, on the first anniversary of the Russian walkout from the Four-Power Control Council, coincided with the outlawing of the Soviet Eastmark by the United States, Britain and France in the blockaded sectors.

The monetary action means the city's economy is completely split. Money good in one part of Berlin is no good in the other part. Western Berlin is on a single-money basis for the first time in nine months.

"It must be obvious even to the most dense Communist that their tactics have failed," Howley told

Army Planes To Transport 25-Ton Tanks

New York, March 2 (NYHT).—Ordnance developments of great strategic value to the United States were disclosed here today by military scientists charged with new weapon research.

Army tanks weighing up to 25 tons and ready for combat can be carried "with ease" inside cargo plane types already on quantity order, it was learned at headquarters of the First Army on Governor's Island. (The Sherman tank of World War II weighed 35 tons and the Pershing tank 45.)

Weight is the prime consideration in working out new theories of air transportability, according to these experts, and in the last few months striking progress has been made in designing tanks and heavy artillery which employ light alloys in their basic structure.

The Army Ordnance Department's research and development division, of which Maj. Gen. Henry B. Sayler is chief, has discovered aluminum alloys stronger than ordinary steel

The weight of the Army's 105 millimeter howitzer carriage has been reduced from 5000 to 3450 pounds. Magnesium castings are being tested on the Army's 20 millimeter aircraft rapid fire gun mount. Rocket launchers, machine guns and other weapons are being studied to find out how lightweight alloys can be introduced without impairing their effectiveness.

Government Parties Lead French Returns

Paris (Monday) March 21 (U.P.).—Government coalition parties were leading in seats won in Sunday's nation-wide county council elections but individually trailed both the De Gaullists and Communists in popular vote percentages, incomplete returns showed today.

Unofficial returns from 436 contests of the 1509 seats at stake showed the governmental parties leading with 189. Running second with 95 was Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Rally of the French People while the Communists lagged behind with 11.

However, an unofficial count of the first 2,000,000 popular votes showed the RPF far in front of all other individual parties with the Communists second. The RPF had 28 per cent, the Communists 23 per cent. Of the coalition parties the Socialists had the highest, slightly more than 17.5 per cent. As a group, the coalition had 34 per cent.

Tabulations at 4 a. m. (10 p. m. Sunday EST) gave the governmental parties: Radical Socialists, 83 seats, Socialists, 76, Popular Republicans, 19, Republican Party of Liberty, 11, for a total of 189; RPF, 95; Independent Republicans, 72; Independents and other parties, 59.

Sen. Connally Sees Quick Approval by Committee

Doubts Expressed On U. S. Arms Aid Preclude Guess at Ratification Time

By Coleman B. Jones
NYHT News Service

Quick approval of the North Atlantic security treaty by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was forecast yesterday by Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.), although he was unwilling to guess how long it might take the Senate itself to act on ratification.

He told reporters that the committee would take up the treaty soon after it is submitted to the Senate for ratification by President Truman. The President's recommendation for ratification is expected to follow immediately after the pact is signed by the western European and North American foreign ministers participating in the defensive alliance at a ceremony here early in April.

The date of the signing has not been fixed, but most of the foreign ministers are expected to reach Washington in about two weeks, and April 4 has been suggested as a likely date for the signing ceremony.

Doubtful Are Expressed

Senator Connally's hesitancy about predicting the length of Senate discussion of the treaty was based, presumably, on doubts expressed by some influential members as to obligations of the United States to furnish weapons and supplies to help the European allies rearm and strengthen their military defenses—and the wisdom of such action in the light of possible Russian interpretation.

Experts are already working on details of legislation that will be needed to implement the treaty with rearmament supplies, but no indication has been given by the Administration as to when this proposal will be submitted to Congress.

Some advocates of the treaty are privately expressing a hope that the arms program will not be placed before Congress until the Senate has completed its debate on ratification, lest it provide opponents of the alliance with additional details to lengthen their arguments.

Representative Carl Vinson (D., Georgia) chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, expressed belief yesterday that the bill to authorize arms shipments to the North Atlantic allies would be approved quickly by his group and the House itself.

This legislation is expected to call for shipment by the United States of arms and other supplies, chiefly from surplus stocks, to enable the signers of the pact to

Alaska Acts to Set Up Eskimo Scouts To Watch Russia

Juneau, Alaska, March 20 (AP).—The Alaska Senate unanimously passed a bill today to establish territorial National Guard units of Eskimo scouts along the coastline facing Russia across the Bering Sea.

Simultaneously, the House rescinded last night's refusal to accept a "non-Communist oath" measure from the Senate. Agreement to act on the bill was voted, 18 to 3, but its adoption today was blocked by amendments which leave final action until Monday.

The National Guard bill provides for two scout battalions along the far western and northwestern coasts for training as "eyes and ears" of the military. It carries a $92,000 appropriation.

Early Soviet Move to Smash Tito's Power Predicted Here

By The Associated Press

American officials are now convinced that Premier Stalin will make a major effort this spring and summer to smash the power of Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia and return that heretical state to the Communist fold.

Responsible opinion here is based mainly on two considerations. One is a steady flow of rumors and reports into Washington from European capitals over several months to the effect that the Russians are preparing heavy actions against Tito.

The other is the fact that Yugoslavia stands like a gaping hole in the Red solidarity of eastern Europe. Stalin and his Politburo colleagues will have to try to plug the hole for reasons of political and military strategy.

Authorities say they are convinced Russia, acting through the Cominform and through the satellite states of Albania, Bulgaria and Hungary, will use internal political intrigue, economic pressure, and the threat of force to try to overthrow Tito's regime and promote the seizure of power by a Communist loyal to Moscow.

Tito broke with Moscow last summer apparently because he was unwilling to follow the Kremlin's orders blindly. Since then he has proclaimed himself a true Communist, but has refused absolute obedience to Moscow directives.

There have been rumors of troop movements on both sides of Yugoslavian borders, but informants here say those reports have not been confirmed. There have also been rumors Tito has purged his own followers in order to block any Cominform fifth column action.

What puts the heat on the Soviet Union now, with respect to Yugoslavia is completion of the North Atlantic Treaty. Moscow, which calls that alliance aggressive, faces a unifying Western World with a major weak spot in its own Eastern front.

3 Ousted From Cabinet Of Bosnia-Herzegovina

Beigrade, Yugoslavia, March 20 (U.P.).—The government today announced a cabinet shakeup in the republic of Bosnia-Herzegovina one of the six states that make up Yugoslavia.

It coincided with predictions in well-informed foreign quarters that the Communist Bureau of Information soon would intensify its cold war against Marshal Tito in an attempt to undermine his regime.

In Bosnia-Herzegovina three cabinet members were removed and two others shifted in ministries. No reason was given.

Rude Kolak, chairman of the State Control Commission; Radovan Papitch, Minister of Education, and Kaji Kapetanovitch, Minister for the Timber Industry, were ousted.

Grand Rapids Mayor Assails 'Agricultural' Rule of Cities

By Lee Grove
Post Reporter

"Boston tea parties" to free American cities from the control of unsympathetic State legislatures dominated by "agricultural oligarchies" was suggested here yesterday.

The suggestion came from Mayor George W. Welsh of Grand Rapids, Mich., president of the United States Conference of Mayors. The organization, in which 250 of America's largest cities are represented, opens its three-day annual conference today in the Hotel Statler.

Mayor Welsh in his report to the conference, scheduled for delivery this morning, predicted the downfall of State governments as important agencies unless they take steps to make their legislatures more truly representative of the majority of the people.

"The cities," he says, "are creatures of State governments that are controlled by agricultural oligarchies.

"Most of our cities were literally built for the horse and buggy age and are struggling to adjust themselves to the auto age. They have no power to solve their problems without the consent of dictatorial State governments which are neither sympathetic nor benevolent toward the problems of urban citizens."

Mayor Welsh said a survey by the organization indicated that "59

Scores Hurt as London Reds Battle Blackshirts and Police

London, March 20 (U.P.).—Communists, police and blackshirted pro-Fascists fought a series of pitched battles with fists, broken bottles and steel ball bearings tonight.

Eight policemen and scores of rioters were injured in the bitter street fighting. Thirty-five persons were arrested.

The battles began when members of Sir Oswald Mosley's fascistic "Union Group" sought to parade through the streets of Tottenham, a strongly Communist district in northeast London.

A Communist "command post" set up near the starting point of the parade quickly mobilized a crowd of some 500 leftists, who marched on the Mosleyites.

Foot police, their arms locked, stood across the road to keep the two mobs apart. Mounted police charged the Communists, and the Communists fought back.

Mounted police charged to scatter them and the crowd retaliated by throwing ball bearings and marbles under the hooves of the charging horses.

Men and horses milled about in the street for nearly an hour, while behind the police line the parade got under way. At least one policeman was pulled from his horse by Communists, who threw his helmet in the air in triumph.

Police diverted the paraders from their planned route, but Communist motorcycle "dispatch riders" followed the marching column and directed leftists to new points of attack.

While patrolmen battled the leftist mob, the Mosley men dispersed and slipped away.

Rent Debate Seen New Truman Test

By David McConnell
NYHT News Service

The opening of Senate debate on extension of Federal rent controls today is viewed as the first test of the ability of Administration leaders to bring Northern and Southern Democrats together after the filibuster fight of the past three weeks.

Threatened by a possible coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats against many major Administration measures, President Truman will confer this morning with House and Senate leaders on strategy to carry out the already buffeted "Fair Deal" program. Among the President's top requests has been one for extension of a strong rent control act for the next two years.

Besides the problem of rent controls, the White House session also will be confronted with the following:

Pension Bill Due Tuesday

1. How to handle the controversial veterans' pension bill sponsored by Representative John E. Rankin (D., Miss.). The measure, providing for $90-a-month pensions for veterans of both World Wars, is expected to be called up for consideration in the House on Tuesday.

2. The problem of meeting Republican demands that Administration Democrats prove their charges that the coalition-sponsored anti-filibuster rule passed last week in the Senate is unworkable and dealt a death blow to hopes of passing civil rights legislation. Senator Kenneth W. Wherry, of Nebraska, Republican floor leader, said yesterday that he would demand that Administration leaders call up a civil rights measure—preferably anti-poll tax legislation—at this session, or, if necessary, "at a special session" to test the new rule. He predicted the legislation would pass with the end of the anti-filibuster rule.

3. How to maneuver through both the House and Senate the Administration's legislative program calling for repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law, a strong public housing measure, the President's desire for a national health insurance program, extension of social security and a bill to increase the minimum wage from 40 cents to 75 cents an hour.

Extension Predicted

With the present rent control law due to expire March 31, Republican and Democratic leaders predicted that some type of extension measure would be approved. Many Senators indicated yesterday that they favor giving either the State or county governments the right to decontrol their own areas.

The Senate bill would extend controls for 12 months, but provides for an additional 3 months during which a tenant could insist on no rental increases. The measure also would permit State governments to remove controls; would provide for some rent increase of 10 per cent, and continue "hardship" provisions for landlords. The rent increases provide for two automatic rent raises of 5 per cent each on October 1 and again on April 30, 1950, provided they do not place rents more than 15 per cent above the level of June 30, 1947.

The House already has passed legislation extending controls for 15 months with provisions that State and local governments may order decontrols themselves. The House bill also contained provisions for increases to guarantee a "reasonable return" on "reasonable value" of property.

Two foes of rent control, Senator John W. Bricker (R., Ohio) and Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.)) are expected to argue for a series of amendments to the bill. Among them are proposals to limit the extension period to six months, but give tenants an additional six months "buffer" period during which they could resist rent increases without being evicted.

Senator Cain also will seek to ease the eviction controls provided in the Senate bill and will ask that tenants and landlords be permitted to sign "voluntary" leases at any rent figure they chose provided the lease runs at least until September 30, 1950.

Buyers' Market

Slight Drop Reported in Production

The postwar seller's market has declined in nearly every line of commodities except automobiles and metals, the Commerce Department reported yesterday.

It said the turn toward a buyer's market was accompanied by a slight drop in production of goods and services in January and February from 1948's all-time highs. But this has not greatly affected total personal income which stayed at an annual rate of about 221 billion dollars.

The department estimated that 3,221,000 persons were unemployed in February, about 1,250,000 more than at the beginning of the year. It emphasized, however, that February employment still was greater than a year ago.

The Federal Reserve Board reported, meantime, that unemployment continued to increase in early March, although not as fast as in January and February. It also observed that wage increases recently have been denied or have not been sought in some industries.

An article in the board's March bulletin said that recent declines in employment have been "very widespread," especially in the manufacturing field.

The Commerce Department attributed rising unemployment, at least in part, to slower demand at the retail level, and a cutback in new orders at the wholesale level.

Coudert Seeks Induction Change For Selectees

Representative Frederic R. Coudert, jr. (R., N. Y.), announced yesterday that he would introduce today an amendment to the Selective Service Act to permit youths liable for induction to select the date they will enter service.

The only restriction in the amendment would require possible inductees to set the date for their entry into service before their twenty-third birthday. Once they reach 23, they would be subject to call for the 21-month training period without restrictions.

The purpose of the amendment, Coudert said, is to "humanize the impact of compulsory military service upon the few who are required to serve for the many." He believes that, if adopted, the amendment will enable potential inductees to complete plans for their education and will make it possible for families to adjust temporary loss of services of a son helping on the farm or in business.

Small Business Group to Oppose FEPC Program

The National Federation of Small Business, Inc., reported yesterday that 90 per cent of its members balloting in a poll oppose proposed Fair Employment Practices (FEPC) legislation.

The FEPC is a major cog in the Administration's civil rights program that brought on the Senate filibuster. Such legislation would require employers to select employes without regard to race, creed or color.

A statement from the Small Business Federation said the membership of independent business and professional people were more united in opposing the FEPC than on any other subject raised in a poll.

Taft Would Raise Taxes For Big Deficit

By The Associated Press

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) said yesterday he may support an increase in taxes if there is any "substantial" Government deficit on July 1.

Taft, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, told a reporter he thinks the country now has attained such a balance in its economy that—with the possible exception of some credit controls—there is no need for further anti-inflation legislation.

But the Ohio Senator said that if any large Federal deficit appears at the end of the fiscal year June 30, new taxes may become necessary.

"I would support some reasonable tax increases if there is a substantial deficit," he said.

He added that, for practical purposes, any such rise probably would have to be shouldered both by individuals and business.

"We'll have to wait to see what Congress does about some of these programs that have been proposed," the Ohioan said. "We don't know yet whether any economies will be made and we have only vague reports of how much it might cost, for instance, if Congress agreed to arm Europe."

Although Senate Republicans can be outvoted by Democrats on strict party matters, Taft's viewpoint often reflects that of those who hold the balance of power where the majority is divided as it now appears to be on the tax question.

President Truman and his leaders have asked for four billion dollars in new taxes. But some influential Democrats like Chairman George (D., Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee have made it clear they want to wait several months for any decision to see how close revenues come to balancing outgo.

George told reporters that if Congress decides to help arm European democracies, this and other foreign outlays may force a boost in taxes later.

COMING SOON...GIANT SKY FREIGHTER FOR AMERICA'S AIR FORCE!

Millions of men...and millions of tons of vital supplies were transported by air during World War II. Right now our reserve of transports is being strained to the utmost to carry on the Berlin Air Lift.

The need is for larger, faster air transports. And to meet this need, Douglas is now building a fleet of giant new air freighters for the U. S. Air Force.

Designed with unique built-in nose ramp, the new Douglas C-124A will be the only airplane able to transport such typical loads as: (a) 13-ton high-speed tractor plus 8-inch howitzer M1 on carriage M1; (b) two General Motors busses fully loaded plus 56 additional equipped troops; (c) three fully loaded ordnance maintenance trucks, each 2½-ton, 6 x 6; (d) 50,000 lbs. of any kind of emergency or peacetime cargo.

There can be no compromise with preparedness. And that is why Douglas continues to apply its quarter century of skills and experience to the pioneering of ever faster, more dependable air transports. Whatever the task, wherever the mission—Douglas airplanes are on the job!

Soviet Radio Assails Pact Dozen Times

To Talk Peace

Soviet Art Unit on Way To Conclave

London, March 20 (U.P.).—A Soviet delegation, including Composer Dmitri Shostakovich, left Moscow today for New York to attend the forthcoming International Cultural and Scientific Conference on World Peace, the Moscow Radio reported.

The broadcast said the Soviet delegation was headed by Alexander Fadeyev, general secretary of the Soviet Writers' Union; Alexander Oparin, member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences; Piotr Pavlenko, writer; Mikhail Chiaureli and Sergei Gerassimov, artists, and Ivan Rozhansky, identified as secretary of the delegation.

The conference is being sponsored by the National Council of Arts, Sciences and Professions.

London, March 20 (U.P.).—Moscow Radio poured out thousands of words of denunciation today against the Atlantic Treaty and against the possibility that a similar pact might be negotiated to cover the Pacific.

Twelve times in 18 hours, Moscow alternated protest, threat and ridicule and said that if Russia were given the chance she could lead the world to peace.

In the broadcasts Moscow virtually called the roll of the countries on the fringes of the Atlantic Treaty. The broadcasts made the following points:

ITALY—If Italy signed the Atlantic Treaty she would violate her peace treaty. But the treaty already has been violated because the United States is operating airfields in Italy's former North African colonies and units of the American Navy are "based at Italian ports." The Italian peace treaty provided that all occupation forces should leave the country.

AUSTRIA—Reports that Austria might be invited into the Atlantic Treaty have "evoked strong indignation from progressive-minded people in Austria."

SPAIN—The United States is trying to sneak Spain into the Atlantic Treaty and already has established air bases there and is shipping equipment from German arms plants.

SWEDEN—Maj. Gen. Nils Svedlund, chief of the Swedish general staff, is trying to "push Sweden into the embrace of Anglo-American imperialism" by making statements "in violation of the truth."

PACIFIC PACT—This would be a "supplement to the Atlantic pact as a tool for aggression . . . one of the links in the general plan to establish Anglo-American world domination. Moscow named Canada, Australia, India, New Zealand, Pakistan and Ceylon as possible members who would be "obedient tools" of Anglo-American "warmongers."

West Red Menace On Protestants' Conclave Agenda

Evanston, Ill., March 20 (U.P.).—Representatives of 30 million United States Protestants sought ways today of marshaling Christian forces "to break the deadlock between the West and communism.

International affairs were scheduled to be high on the agenda of a three-day organizational conference of leaders from 29 United States Protestant denominations. The meeting opens tomorrow.

Primarily, the conference will organize formally as the official American arm of the World Council of Churches. It is the first national meeting in this country since the founding of the World Council at Amsterdam last year.

Soviet Paper Condemns Stress on Foreign Tunes

Moscow, March 20 (A').—Russian musicians got another going over today in the newspaper Soviet Art. Among other things, the writer A. Anisimov, complained about:

1. Too many foxtrots, tangos and rumbas being played in Soviet parks, cinemas and on other stages. This overemphasis on Western dance tunes, Anisimov said, is harmful to native Russian melodies.

2. The accordion and the Hawaiian guitar are tending to drive such native Russian instruments as the boyan — a Russian-type accordion—from the Russian stage.

Jap Trade Group Going To South America

Tokyo, March 20 (U.P.).—A Japanese trade mission, sponsored by Allied headquarters is scheduled to leave for the United States on March 28 en route to South America, it was announced today. The mission expected to interest South American countries in buying goods from occupied Japan.

45,000-Ton USS Iowa To Join Mothball Fleet

San Francisco, March 20 (U.P.).—The Navy's "Big I"—the 45,000-ton battleship Iowa—will tie up at Hunter's Point Naval Shipyard Thursday to join the mothball fleet.

The last active Pacific battleship, the Iowa is survived on active duty only by her sister ship, the USS Missouri.

U. S. Would Use Britain As 4-Bomb Base, Red Says

London, March 20 (A').—Harry Pollitt, Britain's top Communist leader, said today the United States wants to use Britain as an atom-bomb base and urged all Britons to repudiate the North Atlantic Pact.

Pollitt, general secretary of the British Communist Party, said in a speech in a Welsh mining town that the Atlantic pact means the United States wants to "use this country as its unsinkable aircraft carrier and base for the dispatch of the atomic bomb."

The Communist press of Europe kept up its drumfire of violent opposition to the treaty.

Red Star, Russian Army newspaper, reported the United States is moving with "feverish haste" to draw up a Pacific counterpart of the North Atlantic defense alliance. The article said the Pacific pact would be an instrument of suppression of "national liberation movements" in Asia.

The Soviet press—in Moscow and throughout the various republics—printed the full text of the pact.

Auto Burns After Sunday Collision . . .

By Gene Jones—The Washington Post

WINDUP—Following a two-car collision at 5th and P sts. nw., early Sunday, the auto above climbed the curb, knocked down a fire alarm box, turned over, caught fire and was demolished. The crash failed to ring the fire alarm, which was turned in from a box at 5th and R sts. Police said the burned auto was driven by Elmer W. Miller, 28, a printer, of 1821 15th st. nw. The other car ifnvolved, police said, was driven by Levi M. McMullen, 35, a carpenter, 2038 Higdon rd. ne. The only person injured was Joseph Taylor, 26, of 2020 Portland st. nw., a passenger in Miller's car. He was in Freedmen's Hospital with head injuries

Poland Says Priests Plot Against State

Warsaw, Poland, March 20 (U.P.).—The government charged today that an "increasing number" of priests is cooperating with criminal and anti-government groups which "are agents of Anglo-American imperialism."

The government also accused some members of the church hierarchy of provoking unrest through pastoral letters and secret instructions.

The charges were made by Wladyslak Wolski, minister of public administration, in an eight-point declaration on the church, issued after discussions with Bishop Zygmunt Choromanski of Warsaw.

It pledged the state not to limit religious freedom as long as the state's laws were not violated.

Economic Pact Signed By Soviet With Korea

London, March 20 (A').—The Moscow Radio said tonight the Soviet government and the Korean People's Democratic Republic have signed an agreement on economic and cultural cooperation.

Premier Kim Il Sung headed the official delegation from the Russian-sponsored North Korean government which negotiated the pact.

Italian Reds, Police Fight For Hour With Guns, Tear Gas

Rome, March 20 (U.P.).—At least 12 persons were injured tonight in an hour-long gun and tear gas battle between Communists and police at Cerignola.

Police arrested a number of Communists and leftwing Socialists on charges of organizing a demonstration against the police.

More than 1000 Communist-led farm hands shouted threats and insults at police who marched past the headquarters after finishing duty at a football game, officials said.

When the crowd closed in menacingly, the police charged with night sticks and tear gas bombs. The farmhands answered with rifle and pistol fire and stones.

Senate debate on the Atlantic Pact will begin Monday and the government is expected to push through approval with comparative ease.

Communists at first threatened another filibuster, but now even they predict that debate probably will end by Saturday with another safe majority for the government.

The Chamber of Deputies voted Friday to authorize the government to negotiate a place for Italy in the alliance after a 51-hour filibuster by the Communists.

Allies Pick 12 Germans To Run Ruhr

Frankfurt, Germany, March 20 (U.P.).—The American and British military governors have selected 12 Germans to run the mammoth Ruhr iron and steel industry under Allied control, authoritative sources said today.

Although the list has not yet been confirmed officially, some Allied officials already are criticizing it as a "collection of innocents" and said more attention was paid to the candidates' political purity than to their ability.

Informants said United States Gen. Lucius D. Clay and British Gen. Sir Brian Robertson selected nine men nominated by German trade unions. Seven of these were suggested by Hermann Puender, chairman of the bizonal executive committee. Five of his selections were rejected because of union opposition.

Thre surprise appointments—from nominations by the Bar Association, the Iron and Steel Association and the Accountants League—completed the Ruhr board, these sources said.

Heinrich Dikelbach, for 30 years the financial wizard of Bereinigte Stahl, largest of the German steel trusts;

Gotthard von Falkenhausen, an Essen banker;

Arthur Menge, a retired attorney, former mayor of Hannover.;

Alfonz Wagner, a refugee Silesian engineer and professor.

Willi Geldmacher, a union choice who is anathema to Puender, now lord mayor of Bochum, he started out as a steel puddler;

Friedrich Harders, an engineer;

Karl Barich, a director in several large firms;

Guenther Henle, a director of the Kloeckner Steel Works;

Heinrich Meier, once a union executive removed from his job by the Nazis;

Herbert Monden, another refugee from the Russian zone where he bossed steel plants in Silesia;

Erich Potthoff, one of the top men in the Labor Research Institute at Cologne.

Chinese Cruiser Turned Over To Reds Sunk by Loyal Airmen

Shanghai (Monday), March 21 (U.P.).—The Chinese cruiser Chungking, formerly HMS Aurora of the British Navy, was a charred wreck resting on the bottom of Hulutao Harbor today after a three-day bombing attack by B-24 bombers of the Chinese air force.

A navy spokesman in Nanking said the ship, which was handed to the Chinese Communists by a deserting crew last month had settled to the bottom of the harbor with only her deck and superstructure above the surface.

An aerial photograph taken after yesterday's air raid, showed the Chungking afire and settling. She was still tied to the dock in the Red-held harbor on the western shore of the Gulf of Chihli, northwest of Russian-held Dairen.

It was not known whether the defecting crew of the Chungking was still aboard after the bombing attacks began, but a navy spokesman said the crewmen had been warned to abandon the ship.

Strong U. S. Is Peace Force, Denfeld Says

San Bernardino, Calif., March 20 (U.P.).—Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Louis E. Denfeld said today that he does not believe another war will come if the American people continue to maintain an adequate military force.

"We hope and pray that another war will never come," he said. "I do not believe that it will, as long as the American people are determined that their national military establishment shall not lapse."

with Aunt Penny

Anne Lawler called this morning about next week's church supper. She wanted each of us on the committee to call a list of people so we'll know how many to expect.

After I'd finished the breakfast dishes, I sat down at the telephone and started calling one person right after another. I was down to the fourth name on my list before I stopped to think of the other folks on my party line. Here I'd tied up the line for fifteen minutes without a break. Supposing someone else on the line wanted to make a call!

Needless to say, I ended my "calling marathon" right then and there. I'll make the rest of those calls later on in the day, one by one and spaced several minutes apart.

$27 Million Gifts Open Jewish Drive

Initial contributions of nearly 27 million dollars yesterday launched the Nation-wide campaign of the United Jewish Appeal for 250 million dollars to finance mass settlement of Jewish peoples in Israel.

At the conclusion of a two-day national conference, held here at the Shoreham Hotel, Henry Morgenthau, jr., general chairman of the drive, said the contributions had "averted a serious crisis in the transfer and resettlement of homeless Jews pressing forward in a steady stream toward the gates of Israel."

In conjunction with the campaign, Henry Montor, UJA drive director, told conferees five special trains will start out simultaneously on April 3 to carry American leaders and Israeli personalities on a three-week tour of more than 150 cities and towns.

Would End DP Camps

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, who spoke at yesterday's conference session, said that if the plan for "ingathering" into Israel of 250,000 homeless Jews in 1949 is realized, it would "mean the final liquidation of the DP camps."

Asserting that America has been historically in favor of a Jewish state, Brannan observed that since its formation, Israel "has handled itself in a manner which can bring credit to everyone associated with it."

The achievement of Israel in receiving 180,000 immigrants during the past ten months, said Brannan was "in many ways, more of a feat than building a government or fighting a war."

Moshe Sharett, foreign minister of Israel, stressed the importance of the United Jewish Appeal, and asserted "the Jews of Israel will provide for her defense. The Jews outside, and particularly those of the United States, must foot the bill for immigration."

"From the moment of its establishment," said Sharett, "Israel became the target of a violent attack and had to mobilize all resources to defeat it. Yet from the very first moment, Israel has vindicated the hopes set on it by throwing its gates widely open to admit all Jews in need of a country.

"When the sons and daughters of Israel fought and fell, they did so in the knowledge that what they were defending was more the rights of exiles to return than the right of those already settled to be free."

Edward M. M. Warburg, chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee, warned that the pace of emigration from Europe to Israel was taxing the JDC facilities to the breakdown point. "At this moment," he said, "nearly 9000 Jews are waiting in the 20 emigration camps the JDC maintains in Marseille for the opportunity to leave."

United Jewish Appeal Launched...

Dr. Wise Is Hailed at 75th Birthday Dinner

New York, March 20 (NYHT).—Dr. Stephen S. Wise was lauded tonight by theologians and leaders in public life as a pillar of democratic principle and as an invaluable contributor to the United States, American Jewry and Israel.

At a dinner in the Biltmore Hotel, marking the seventy-fifth birthday of Dr. Wise, Justice William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme Court led the speakers in praise of the president of the American World Jewish Congress.

"His is the kind of advocacy and leadership the democratic forces need," said Justice Douglas. "The world teems with discontent, unrest and change. These forces of discontent are now energized by powerful ideological campaigns of the Soviets."

Alluding to a letter he said he received recently from Dr. James Yen, founder of the mass education movement in China, Justice Douglas said:

"Dr. Yen had a blueprint, the kind of plan that Israel has executed. It promised to be as infectious in spreading the democratic ideal in Asia as Israel is bound to be in the Middle East."

"But the democratic forces in China compromised, faltered and delayed. The Communists seized on the conditions which Dr. Yen's program for China would have eradicated. They capitalized on the seething unrest and marched to one military victory after another."

Justice Douglas said Dr. Yen had not lost confidence in China and has written to him saying: "In the struggle for freedom I would rather break as jade than be preserved as tile."

Symbolic Difference

"Jade and tile," continued Justice Douglas. "They are symbolic of the difference between the noble and courageous, on the one hand, and the cheap and timid, on the other. Rabbi Wise, like Dr. Yen, is the jade."

Henry Morgenthau, jr., former Secretary of the Treasury and general chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, described Dr. Wise as "a liberal in the highest traditions of Franklin D. Roosevelt." Morgenthau was toastmaster.

Other speakers included Eliahu Elath, Israeli Ambassador to the United States, and Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, head of the Methodist Church in the New York area.

Trans-Jordan Cites Forays

ment between their two nations tonight.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli government was told officially by acting U. N. Mediator Ralph J. Bunche that Syria has agreed to enter into armistice negotiations with Israel.

The place and time of the Israeli-Syria talks were not announced but Israeli authorities in Tel Aviv said they would probably be held soon along the Israeli-Syrian frontier rather than at Rhodes.

(At Rhodes Bunche issued a statement denying a Tel Aviv radio announcement that Syria had agreed to negotiate an armistice with Israel. The U. N. spokesman who released the Bunche statement said "it is not a denial" but the Tel Aviv announcement "is not true." Efforts to clarify the conflicting statements were in vain.)

The Lebanese-Israeli agreement will be signed here Wednesday.

This is the second armistice the young Jewish state has reached with her Arab neighbors. An Israeli-Egyptian armistice was signed at Rhodes February 24.

Israel now is engaged in armistice talks with Trans-Jordan at Rhodes.

The text of the Israeli-Lebanese agreement was not disclosed but it was reliably learned that one of the thorniest problems in the negotiations—the question of Syrian troops on Lebanese soil—was not mentioned in it.

In the interest of obtaining an armistice, Israel apparently waived her original demand that any agreement reached with Lebanon also be binding on Syrian units in Lebanese territory, it was said.

Newsmen were not at today's talks and it was understood they would not be allowed to see the signing ceremony Wednesday.

An exchange of prisoners between the two countries will take place here Thursday. Israel holds 38 Lebanese war prisoners and Lebanon holds 7 Israelis.

After signing of the armistice text, the head of the Israeli group told newsmen he could not say that he was pleased with the terms.

French Count Sunday Vote

ment's majority in the National Assembly were regarded as a test of strength of the bitter Communist anti-American propaganda. In a maneuver to roll up as large a popular vote as possible, the Communists entered a candidate in every canton, or council, regardless how slim his chances of election were.

Results were inconclusive in many cantons, meaning that run-off elections will be necessary next Sunday.

The councilmen elected in each canton or county, are roughly equivalent to members of the State Legislatures in the United States, although their powers are more limited.

Premier Queuille and Secretary of State for Finances Edgar Faure were overwhelmingly chosen over Communist candidates in their cantons, complete returns showed.

The weather was sunny, but when the polls had closed it was estimated that 60 to 70 per cent of the 12 million eligible had voted, a low percentage by French standards.

In a maneuver which Communists hoped would roll up a large prestige-boosting popular vote for the party, 1300 Red candidates were entered, at least one in every canton, no matter how small his chance of election.

It was the first election by direct popular vote since October, 1947.

West Berlin Bars Red Money

his news conference. "Neither the Soviet blockade at the Elbe nor the ice of winter stopped the airlift.

"It must be obvious that it would be to their own interests to discontinue these tactics, which have caused more trouble to them than to us."

General Howley said no Russian retaliation is expected for the outlawing of the Eastmark.

"Anyhow," he asked, "what bigger countermeasures could the Soviets possibly take than the brutal blockade with which they attempted to starve West Berlin?"

The Russians have made it a crime to possess the Western Allies' Westmarks in their areas.

Germans living in western Berlin still may possess Eastmarks and buy what they can with them but no one in western Berlin is required to accept them in payment.

The currency changeover may leave western Berliners holding a lot of Eastmarks. Each person can trade in only 15 Eastmarks for western currency. But they are given a chance to get rid of their savings by permission to buy groceries and pay rent and taxes with Eastmarks for a short period.

Financial experts estimate there are about 400 million Eastmarks in circulation and on deposit in western Berlin, in comparison with less than 250 million Westmarks. When the Westmarks were issued last June, the Americans, British and French advised the Germans to save the western currency as the more valuable money and do most of their buying with Eastmarks.

Australia Offers U. S. Desert Space

Sydney, March 20 (AP).—A government spokesman said tonight the United States undoubtedly would be given the use of Australia's 3000-mile rocket range—if she asked for it.

Thus far, however, no such request has been made, the spokesman said, commenting on a story in the Sydney Sunday Sun that the United States soon will be testing rockets on Australia's big desert range.

The Sun story said the Australian government had given approval, through the British government, to a U. S. request for use of the range and that a formal agreement would be concluded soon.

Jap Men Warned Not to Let Girls' 'Falsies' Fool 'Em

Tokyo, March 20 (U.P.).—Two of Japan's best-known cartoonists today warned Japanese men not to "fall for the glamorous postwar rise in bosoms" here.

Yutaka Aso and Saseho Ono, in a radio broadcast, claimed most Japanese girls are using "falsies" today because they recognize that "curves" are necessary with western dresses and sweaters.

The two men bemoaned the use of "devices" by Japanese women to fool men. They also bitterly denounced the "new look" as looking "ridiculous" on Japanese girls.

McMahon Will Ask More A-Bomb News

By the United Press

Chairman Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) said yesterday he hopes to bring into the open this week a sharp split within the joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee over how much secret information should be made public.

Some members of the committee feel that publication of atomic facts should be "drastically curtailed and restricted," he said. But McMahon himself believes that, if anything, the public should be told more about the awesome new force.

He recently suggested that the Government "consider" telling the world how many atom bombs this country has. President Truman slammed the door on that idea with a blunt no, however.

The whole question of too much or too little atomic secrecy has come in for increasingly sharp debate among scientists, Congressmen and Administration officials, and McMahon believes the time has come for threshing it out in public congressional hearings.

"The Atomic Energy Committee has a problem to wrestle with on security," he told the United Press. "If the committee chairman has his way, it will be in open session starting this week."

Both sides agree on the importance of keeping secret all information of value to a potential enemy, McMahon emphasized.

"The big question is what is information of benefit to an enemy."

He noted that under the law the Atomic Energy Commission is responsible for deciding what can be made public safely and said "it is my personal opinion that it has been, on the whole, wisely done."

Two Principals In College Brawl

Circuit Court To Select Jury In Montgomery

The March term of the Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md., opens today.

First activity will be selection of a 23-person grand jury from the list of 48 persons who have been summoned for jury duty. The remaining 25 will serve as the petit jury for the term.

State's Attorney Walter Dawson has prepared approximately 24 cases for presentation to the inquisitorial body. The smallness of the docket reflects the system under which the grand jury is called back every nine weeks, instead of hearing all cases at the beginning of the two yearly jury terms.

2 Arrested at Soccer Game for Flaying Pact

Copenhagen, Denmark, March 20 (AP).—Two youths—police said they were Communists—were arrested today after nearly starting a riot at a soccer match by demonstrating against the North Atlantic alliance.

The two men entered Copenhagen Stadium during an interval in a game between two Copenhagen teams police said. They carried big placards denouncing the Atlantic pact.

The 15,000 spectators set up a boiling turmoil of hissing and about 20 of them jumped over the rails, ripped the placards to bits and turned on the demonstrators. Police rescued them.

Landmark on 16th Street

Building in the 1100 block of 16th st. nw., used as a coal company office for many years

For nearly a half a century a little one-story brick building on lower 16th st. has stood its ground firmly while a city grew up all around it.

Drowsing between towering brothers, the 18-foot-front anachronism at 1151 16th st. nw. has watched 44 dusty summers of progress go by without batting a gutter-pipe. Modern streamlined buildings surrounded it, but none has Virginia creeper vines climbing over its bricks, or wrinkled window panes that once looked out on a thoroughfare crowded with horses and buggies.

Back in 1904 residents of the growing city began to look askance at a coal and fuel yard located where the Carlton Hotel now stands. So the William King & Son Coal Co. decided to move the business to a less populous neighborhood and build the small 16th st. office.

Here the first clerks wore high celluloid collars as they took orders for fuel. These orders were relayed to the main yard at 2901 K st. nw., a location established and maintained by the firm since 1835. Loaders who met the wagons to carry wood and coal into the homes lounged in the rear of the building waiting to be sent out.

From the time of its construction the building was changed only once. In 1917 expanding business required doubling of its 30-foot depth. By 1947 modern forms of communication and transportation had made the office unnecessary and it was sold to a real estate firm.

Its new tenants have treated it kindly, however, altering it only by removing the clock that told passers-by the time of day for nearly 20 years. With that kind of treatment perhaps it can hold its own another 44 years or more.

Hoey Says Probe of Malmedy Case Won't Be Dropped

By the United Press

Chairman Clyde R. Hoey (D., N. C.) of the Senate superinvestigating committee, scoffed yesterday at reports that efforts are under way to sidetrack a probe of the Malmedy massacre war crimes case.

But he admitted his committee is disputing with the Senate Armed Services Committee over which should do the investigating.

The affair involves charges of "inhuman" third-degree methods allegedly used by United States Army agents in securing confessions from German S.S. troopers involved in the machine-gunning of American prisoners at Malmedy, Belgium, during the Battle of the Bulge in 1944.

Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall announced last week that he had stayed the execution of 12 Germans pending a personal review of the case and congressional action.

Strike Injunction House Vote Seen

By the United Press

Democratic Whip J. Percy Priest predicted yesterday that the House will override President Truman's objections, and give him authority to obtain court injunctions to prevent national emergency strikes.

He said that otherwise the House probably will go along pretty much with the Administration's proposals for scuttling the Taft-Hartley law and replacing it with the old Wagner Labor Relations law, with certain changes.

Possible Curbs

These include curbs on jurisdictional disputes and secondary boycotts.

Priest's prediction was particularly important because, as whip, he will have an important role in steering such legislation through the House.

The present law permits the President to obtain court injunctions to enforce 80-day "cooling off" periods in national emergency labor disputes.

The Administration bill would provide only for a 30-day "cooling off" period. Mr. Truman has argued that injunctions are not necessary; that he already has sufficient "inherent" power to prevent such walkouts if deemed necessary.

Lewis Influence

Priest said the hand of those Congressmen who want to keep the injunction machinery has been strengthened considerably by the two-week coal mine "holiday" called by John L. Lewis.

"Members are demanding that the Gogevnment have some weapon to combat Lewis," he asserted.

The Senate Labor Committee already has approved the Administration's labor bill without change, and it should reach the Senate floor sometime next month. The House subcommittee hopes to wind up its hearings Monday or Tuesday and start writing a bill.

Labor Extension Advocates Meet Wednesday to Plan Drive

Advocates of a Labor Extension Service will meet here this week to organize a drive for speeding the proposed legislation through Congress.

Sponsors and supporters of the bipartisan legislation already approved by the Senate Labor Committee — will discuss campaign plans at a dinner to be held Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. in the Hamilton Hotel.

The legislation, supported by the major unions, would set up an education extension service for some 42 million wage and salary earners, union and unorganized alike, to be operated by the Labor Department.

The labor extension service would be similar to the extension service for farmers run by the Agriculture Department.

The Labor Extension Service would provide information needed by wage earners and their bona fide labor organizations to help them in bargaining collectively with their employers.

The service would also make available information on principles and techniques of management-labor relations, or living and working conditions, on labor law and administration, on economic history and the history of the trade union movement.

The program would be worked out on the basis of requests by the workers themselves.

Some trade unions are running their own educational programs with the aid of 80 colleges and universities. These courses, however, are limited because of a lack of funds.

Sponsors of the Labor Extension Service say the program is designed to aid the workers in studying questions relating to their own problems as a basis for cooperation with business, industry and the community.

The legislation provides there'll be no discrimination in the classes as to race, color, religion. Classes would be open to union and unorganized workers alike.

The Labor Extension plan would be administered by the Department of Labor through a National Labor Extension Council, composed of 12 members—six from union and six from cooperating schools—selected by the Secretary of Labor. The Federal Government would furnish 75 per cent of the necessary funds, with 25 per cent to be matched by the State, cooperating colleges, unions, or individuals.

Gain Seen in 'Bootleg' Union Pacts

By the United Press

Government officials revealed yesterday that an increasing number of closed shop and union-shop contracts are being "bootlegged" in violation of the Taft-Hartley Act and State labor laws.

Furthermore, these officials predicted, the practice may become even more widespread during the vital spring contract negotiating season because many unions and employers are looknig to Congress to legalize "union security" arrangements.

A "bootleg" contract is defined as a hushed-up private agreement between labor and management that a firm will employ only union members. Most of them are simply verbal understandings, it was said although some are written pacts that never reach official attention because neither party challenges their legality.

The Taft-Hartley law flatly outlaws the closed shop, under which only union members can be hired. It permits the union shop, under which all new employes must join the union within 30 days, only if that arrangement is approved in a Government-sponsored election by 51 per cent of the workers.

In 13 States there are more stringent local laws regulating the union shop.

Federal officials draw a distinction between "bootleg" contracts and "illegal" union security pacts that have been signed publicly in open challenge to the law by John L. Lewis' mine workers and others.

The Lewis coal contract and other pacts, covering about 700,000 workers, already have been held illegal by trial examiners of the National Labor Relations Board or the board itself.

Officials estimate that another 700,000 workers may be covered by bootleg pacts that have not yet come to light.

CIO Denounces Taft-Hartley

the press and "highly paid" lobbyists of seeking by every means to give the impression that the Taft-Hartley law is not bad; that labor does not really want it changed; that the Thomas-Lesinski bill will create national emergencies.

He also charged the Nation's newspapers with devoting little or no space to the testimony presented before the Senate Labor Committee by top experts in the field of labor relations who urged the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Conclusions of CIO

The CIO undertook a thorough study of the impact of the Taft-Hartley Act on its affiliated unions, Goldberg said, and came to the following conclusions:

1. The Taft-Hartley Act has "obstructed the organization of the unorganized."

For every 100 union representation elections held in the year before Taft-Hartley Act, only 60 were held in the first year of the law, Goldberg contended.

Goldberg branded as "misleading" the majority report of the Joint "Watchdog" Committee claiming labor union membership has increased under Taft-Hartley Act. The committee's figures are "completely misleading," Goldberg said, because the figures fail to distinguish between increases in membership in organized plants and the organization of new plants.

2. The Taft-Hartley Act has had a stimulus upon organizational strikes.

"Virtually every CIO union has been forced into strikes to obtain recognition and bargaining rights against employers who rely upon the weapons of Taft-Hartley," Goldberg charged.

3. The Taft-Hartley Act has "stimulated disputes over economic issues which could have been adjusted had employers not found the strike-breaking provision so inviting as to protect an impasse to strike proportions."

Easier to Deny Wage Boosts

4. The Taft-Hartley Act has prevented "the closing of the growing gap between workers' living costs and earnings to make it easier for American industry to deny wage increases."

The Taft-Hartley Act has created the following "evils":

5. Encouraged employers to cut contract standards, encouraged the revival of antilabor employer associations, increased the use of strike-breakers, popularized injunctions, stimulated violence against union leaders and their members, undermined the right to strike and picket.

"Transferred from employes to employer the right and power to choose their own bargaining agent, revived company unionism, encouraged on an unprecedented scale discrimination against union leaders and members in union activity, doubled the time required by the NLRB for the processing of unfair labor practice cases.

"Made the Government and the employer censors over the internal structures and affairs of labor organizations, destroyed freedom of contract, substituted Government dictator for free collective bargaining, invited anti-labor State Legislatures to pass and apply repressive legislation; left unions and employers completely in the dark as to the appropriate manner in which to reopen contracts, imposed serious restraints upon the use of political rights, endangered industrial peace by making bargaining rights depend upon the taking of a test oath of political orthodoxy."

Goldberg delivered a withering attack on the campaign of "propaganda, concealment and misrepresentation of the press and well-paid employer lobbyists to keep the millstone of the act firmly bound around the necks of our working people."

In conclusion, Goldberg said:

"This law has not served the needs of industrial peace. It has turned back the clock in progress in the field of industrial relations."

Veteran Charged With Slaying Wife

two-room apartment, while the couple's 2-year-old son was sleeping in an adjoining room. Police said Mrs. Robertson, who had left work at midnight, had returned home with three friends, Pfc. Flagg, Sergt. Paul J. Koszewhik, 20, stationed at Fort Myer, Va., and Nellie Pitner, 34, who occupies another apartment in the 11th st. building.

The four were sitting in Mrs. Robertson's living room when her husband came to the apartment. Mrs. Robertson admitted him and police said the two "had words".

Door Kicked Down

Robertson left the apartment, police said, and returned a short time later. Mrs. Robertson refused to admit him again. Police reported he then kicked the door down, and fired pointblank from a .38-caliber revolver. He shot first at his wife, then at Flagg. All four persons, caught off guard by the sudden attack, were sitting on a studio couch in the living room.

Deputy Coroner Richard M. Rosenberg said Mrs. Robertson had been shot twice. One bullet struck her in the chest and went through the aorta, a large artery of the heart. The other struck her in the abdomen and pierced the intestines. Dr. Rosenberg said death was almost instantaneous.

Flagg was shot in the chest, stomach and right arm.

Mrs. Robertson was pronounced dead on the scene at 1:55 a. m. and Flagg was removed to Emergency Hospital from a glider on the porch. He apparently had staggered outside and collapsed after being shot.

Police said Robertson made no effort to leave the apartment after the shooting. They said they found the gun on the front porch, but could not explain how it got there.

Police said Robertson admitted the shootings.

Mrs. Rachel Rayburn, the dead woman's sister, of 1235 13th st. nw., and her brother, Corpl. Sam T. Pulley, stationed at Fort Meade, said they believed the shooting was motivated by jealousy.

Mrs. Rayburn said, "He'd been trying to get her to go back with hmi. He'd been brooding ever since before Christmas, (when the couple separated.) She said she knew she couldn't ever live with him any more. He said he couldn't live without her."

Mrs. Rayburn said that between his first and second visits to his estranged wife's apartment Sunday morning, Robertson had come to her 13th st. apartment with Corporal Pulley.

Both the brother and sister of Mrs. Robertson said they had talked several times both to her and to him in an effort to straighten things out." Corporal Pulley said he had spent Saturday evening with Robertson, drinking beer. They were waiting for Mrs. Robertson to finish work.

Corporal Pulley said he went with Robertson to the 11th st. apartment shortly after midnight, when the couple "had words." He then accompanied Robertson to Mrs. Rayburn's.

Mrs. Rayburn said, "He (Robertson left here in a hurry. I told my brother to go behind him. He thought she had a date with a Marine. When my brother got there it was all over."

Police said they did not know where Robertson got the gun he used in the shootings. They said it did not belong to him.

Mrs. Robertson was born in Halifax County, N. C., one of ten children. She married Robertson when she was 18. They had lived in Washington for about 4 years, and have a son, Dennis, 2.

Robertson served in the Army during World War II, and was stationed in the South Pacific with a tank company. After his discharge about three years ago, he began working for the gas company.

Mrs. Rayburn said her sister had only worked as a waitress since her estrangement, about three months ago. She had made arrangements for Mrs. Virgie Breeden, 57, to live with her and care for the child while she worked. Mrs. Breeden was not in the living room at the time the shooting occurred, police said.

A coroner's inquest is to be held at 11:30 a. m. today on Mrs. Robertson's death.

Members of Mrs. Robertson's family said they plan to accompany her body to North Carolina tonight for burial.

In addition to Mrs. Rayburn and Corporal Pulley, Mrs. Robertson is survived by another sister, Mrs. J. R. Gale of 2451 S. Scott st., Arlington, Va., her mother, Mrs. Charles Ritchie of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., and three other brothers and two sisters in North Carolina.

Girl, 16, Shot to Death, Recovered From River

Milwaukee, March 20 (AP).—The weighted body of 16-year-old Patricia Birmingham, pretty West Allis High School girl, was found in the Milwaukee River today. She had been shot to death.

A heavy concrete block had been tied to the girls ankles.

A rescue squad dragging for a reported suicide victim brought up the body of the girl, who had been missing since February 10.

A medical examiner said the girl had not been sexually attacked.

$2 Million Dope Cache Seized, 3 Men Arrested at New York

New York, March 20 (U.P.).—Police said today they had cracked a giant narcotics racket with the aid of a woman detective who posed as a maid in the rooming house where the ringleaders stored nearly 2 million dollars worth of pure cocaine.

Detectives seized Ralph and John Lopez, brothers, and Jose Gonzales and described them as "Nation-wide distributors" who sold cocaine to dealers in Chicago, Detroit and other large cities.

In the rooming house, detectives found a large suitcase jammed with 110 to 115 ounces of pure cocaine, which would be worth $1,950,000 when diluted and packaged in capsules.

Police said arrests of narcotics dealers several months ago tipped them off to the ringleaders. In order to keep an eye on the men, Detective Mabel Leonard got a job as a domestic in the building where the men had rented an apartment.

Iraqui Court Sentences Seven Jews to Death

Baghdad, March 20 (AP).—Iraqi military court officials said today they had sentenced to death seven Jews in absentia for "joining the army in Palestine."

The military court officials said that four others—a Moslem, a Christian and two Jews—had been executed for "subversive activities." They were described as top leaders of the underground Iraqi Communist Party.

The officials said "many" Moslems, Christians and Jews had been given prison sentences for "Zionist and subversive activity."

D. C. Man Held For Larceny, Assault in N. Y.

A New York judge yesterday added a new chapter to the crime-plagued life of Joseph A. Wagstaff, 23, 5506 Grove st., Chevy Chase, Md.

Wagstaff

Wagstaff was arraigned in New York Felony Court and held in $1000 bail on charges of grand larceny and third-degree assault.

Police charged that he took an automobile from a 52d st. parking lot Saturday night, and pursued by police and a lot attendant, drove it across town until he collided with a taxicab at 5th ave., injuring four of its passengers.

At the time of his arrest in New York, Wagstaff was free under $2000 bond on appeal from a two-year sentence to the Maryland House of Correction for assaulting his family's maid, and under $300 bond for action of the grand jury here on charges of violating the Marijuana Tax Act.

Wagstaff was convicted in Bethesda Police Court of assaulting Frances Tolson, 30, of 1822 15th st. nw., in his family's home in December, 1948, and sentenced to two years. He appealed.

On March 4, 1949, United States Commissioner Cyril Lawrence ordered Wagstaff held for the grand jury on charges of violating the Marijuana Tax Act. He was arrested 10 days earlier on drunk and disorderly conduct charges. Police said they found a marijuana cigarette in his possession.

Wagstaff received a medical discharge after four years in the Navy. He also served two years in the Coast Guard.

In the five years since his nineteenth birthday, Wagstaff has had repeated brushes with the law. His convictions have varied from driving down Wisconsin ave. at 70 miles an hour, to pumping six bullets into the body of a companion in Las Vegas, Nev., assaulting a policeman, housebreaking and destroying private property.

In the Las Vegas case, he drew a one-year jail term.

CAMELS HAVE BEEN MY BOWLING COMPANION FOR YEARS, JANE! I KNOW THEY'RE MILD. AND THEY TASTE GOOD!
RIGHT, JOE WILMAN! I KNOW BECAUSE I MADE THE 30-DAY MILDNESS TEST!

In a recent test of hundreds of people who smoked only Camels for 30 days, noted throat specialists, making weekly examinations, reported

NOT ONE SINGLE CASE OF THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS

● What's the answer to cigarette mildness? If you're a Camel smoker — you know! Millions of men and women alike have made Camels their brand because they know — by their own tests — that Camels are the mildest, best-tasting cigarettes they've ever smoked.

Why not make your own test of Camel mildness and Camel flavor?

Smoke Camels, and only Camels, for 30 days. Let your own "T-Zone" (T for Taste and T for Throat) tell you what so many smokers have learned... Camels are mild... Camels have the flavor!

Money-Back Guarantee!

Try Camels and test them as you smoke them. If, at any time, you are not convinced that Camels are the mildest cigarette you've ever smoked, return the package with the unused Camels and we will refund its full purchase price, plus postage. Postpone This Fair

Someone in our military government blundered in deciding to hold a great German trade exhibition in New York, of all places, next month. The purpose of the exhibition, according to the monthly bulletin of the United States-German Chamber of Commerce, was "to extend and strengthen trade relations between the United States and Germany, which were formerly so extensive and valuable." The sponsors intended to emphasize the need of swift economic recovery in Germany to ease the burden on American taxpayers. For this purpose our unimaginative and insensitive authorities named a Duesseldorf firm to handle the arrangements, put a committee of 11 German industrialists in charge and planned to admit 240 German businessmen to New York to advertise their products on the spot.

The project has run into difficulties that could easily have been foreseen. One of the committee of 11 turned out to have been a leading Nazi propagandist and was dropped from the list. Another, not yet dropped, held a title bestowed by Herman Goering upon Germany's "most highly dependable industrialists." The architect appointed to design the exhibits proved to have been a Nazi Party member from 1933 to 1945. Altogether 102 Germans have been banned out of 231 exhibitors or salesmen whose applications for a trip to New York have been screened up to now.

This is only a faint foretaste of the troubles that are sure to arise if and when this contingent of German businessmen sets up shop in Rockefeller Center. Millions of New Yorkers will be affronted, rightly or wrongly, by the effort to peddle cuckoo clocks and optical goods in their midst and to advertise the pleasures of travel in Germany. It shows about as much understanding as to have set up a flashy show of German goods in the destroyed areas of Rotterdam or Warsaw. Certainly the American people, like all Allied peoples, will have to accustom themselves to buying German and Japanese goods once more; nations cannot be penalized forever for their past misdeeds. But it is neither good business nor good statesmanship to try to sell German goods with all this fanfare, and in the one American city, above all others, where the recent past is not easily nor quickly forgotten. The project should be postponed indefinitely, and German exports should be encouraged by other and less blatant methods.

Party Responsibility

Congressman Rankin's pension-grab bill, which is scheduled for consideration on the floor tomorrow, will provide a severe test of the House leadership. Last January the House courageously amended its rules so that bills approved by the legislative committees, whether constructive or demagogical in their appeal, may no longer be arbitrarily thrown into the ashcan by the Rules Committee. The theory behind this change was that the House is entitled to vote on any measure that is approved by one of its standing committees. We think that theory is sound. Mr. Rankin is not even taking advantage of this change in the rules. He is acting under a 69-year-old rule that had been forgotten until recently. But the effect is the same—to force the highly controversial pensions measure to the floor. This means that the party in control will have to fight fantastic give-away schemes in the open.

The Rankin bill, which would provide pensions of $90 a month to all veterans on reaching the age of 65, cuts across the Administration's program at many points. Its enactment would jeopardize the extension of Social Security legislation. It would probably force the curtailment of other veterans' benefits, including aid to the disabled. It would hold out a promise of ultimately lining veterans' pockets with from 109 to 125 billion dollars, regardless of need—a burden that might bankrupt the Nation. The Administration could not possibly absorb this measure into its program without making hash of it. Consequently, the Rankin bill ought to be fought as vigorously as any other threat to our national stability.

Congressmen will be under strong temptation to pass the buck to the Senate and the President. But that would be a cowardly performance. If the House is going to retain its position as a trusted and responsible legislative body, which can function without a Rules Committee veto, its members must stand up and be counted when the demagogues try to start a stampede. By standing together they can make it evident that they are not unfriendly to the veteran and that the national interest forbids any such outlay as Mr. Rankin proposes. In taking a stand against this raid the leaders have every right to expect loyal support. Indeed, they cannot be denied such support without making a farce out of party responsibility.

North Atlantic Council

The test of any defensive alliance is necessarily how it operates or may be expected to operate in practice. In the text of the North Atlantic Treaty we get little information as to how it will operate, and Secretary Acheson's otherwise persuasive address was not explicit on this point. Probably the reason is that no one can say at this time just how the North Atlantic organization will evolve. The pact is essentially an experiment in collective defense.

Secretary Acheson did emphasize, as does the pact itself, the intent of the signatories to adhere to the framework and the spirit of the United Nations. But whether it will be possible for the North Atlantic alliance to operate within the U. N. framework is another question. Difficulties have been created because the treaty sets up a new organization instead of merely implementing an antiaggression pledge within the U. N. Conflict could scarcely be avoided if the council created by the treaty and the U. N. Security Council should seek to deal with the same dispute at the same time.

In theory, the North Atlantic Council would give way to the Security Council whenever the latter should take the "measures necessary to restore and maintain international peace and security." But who is to decide when the Security Council has so acted? Obviously the decision would have to be made, in the case of a dispute involving the treaty area, by the new council to be set up under the pact. The result would be a regional body sitting in judgment upon a council entrusted with the primary responsibility for the maintenance of world peace.

This anomaly has come about, of course, because of the impotence of the Security Council. If that peace-enforcing agency were operating as was contemplated at San Francisco, there would be no occasion for the adoption of a North Atlantic Pact. The fact that Russia has forced the hand of the Atlantic powers in shaping an antiaggression system that cannot be immobilized by the Moscow veto should not blind us, however, to the very real problem of integrating the machinery set up under the pact with the machinery of the U. N. If friction and frequent clashes are permitted to occur, the inevitable tendency will be to supplant the U. N.—the only real bridge between the antagonistic East and West—by the North Atlantic alliance. We should then have two organized worlds with scarcely a mitigating influence upon their hostility.

One other interesting factor about the council to be set up under the pact is that it preserves the veto. Article 9 simply gives each of the signatories a representative on the council that is to implement the treaty. Unlike the Rio pact, it provides no voting requirements and thus leaves the presumption that decisions are to be made by unanimous agreement. Fortunately, however, action against an aggressor in the treaty area would not necessarily await unanimous action by the council. Each of the signatories would be bound to assist any other signatory under attack "by such action as it deems necessary." Presumably the council would then concern itself with concerted action.

Article 9 calls for immediate creation of a "defense committee" which shall recommend to the signatories the part that each should play in resisting any armed attack. The most logical outcome of this effort would be the creation of a single defense system for the members of the alliance. If that step is taken, a more effective instrument than a council of unspecified powers and procedures will have to be created to control the new defense mechanism and to make action certain. In this respect, as in various others, the treaty must be regarded as a momentous experiment. Having launched a bold venture, statesmen on both sides of the Atlantic ought to work toward building on this military foundation a real and constructive partnership.

Plugging Leaks

Although there probably has been little of military value in the recent leaks of "secret" defense information, Congress is on the right track in probing the source of the leaks. It scarcely can be news to Moscow that the United States has strategic plans for use against Russian cities in the event of war. Nor is there anything very startling in the publication in the report of the Atomic Energy Commission of the location of major atomic installations; these sites had been publicly announced and the knowledge was freely available. But there is a great deal of potential damage in what appear to be releases intended to influence congressional action on military legislation. Not only are these calculated to stampede Congress into an emotional vote, but they also frighten our friends and are good grist for the Russian propaganda charges of warmongering. The Air Force, in particular, has been guilty of jingoistic breast-beating—egged on, perhaps, by some adroit knifing by the Navy.

The Defense Department itself has taken a meaningful step toward stopping this foolishness by combining all public relations in the Office of the Secretary of Defense. Secretary Forrestal and his successor, Louis Johnson, are to be commended for their appreciation of how scattered public relations perpetuate and exacerbate divisions. The individual services have been conducting a publicity war among themselves. As long as each service has its own uncontrolled propaganda machine, unified thinking is discouraged and partisanship is whipped up.

The centralization of public relations need not imply any return to secretiveness. Continued emphasis on declassification of information is essential. But the criterion of good military public relations must be the interest of the defense establishment as a whole rather than what antics will help an individual service get appropriations. Messrs. Forrestal and Johnson could make their order even more effective by letting it be known that anyone guilty of leaking unauthorized information will be hauled up promptly for prosecution.

Sales Tax Or Else

Since some solution of the District's financial problem has to be devised, House District leaders are drafting a new revenue bill for early introduction, and there is said to be a good chance that a revised version of the rejected sales tax may be passed. To appease opponents of the sales tax the new revenue bill may provide for some increases in property and liquor taxes and lower income tax exemptions than were provided in the bill recently defeated.

Apparently a number of Congressmen who have heretofore fought the sales tax have experienced a change of heart, as they well may in view of the unacceptable character of alternative revenue-raising proposals. Of course, property taxes could be increased sufficiently to balance the District budget. But, as Representative Bates has pointed out, the tax bills of property owners were increased about 30 per cent between 1947 and 1948 by boosting the tax rate and raising assessments. And if the requirements of the present deficit were to be met from real estate levies, 1950 taxes would be nearly doubled within a three-year period. The result would be "an automatic increase in the rent of every tenant in the District," in the opinion of Mr. Bates, since the Rent Control Board is permitted to make allowance for increased costs due to tax increases. We venture to predict that many low-income families would be harder hit by increases in property taxes than by a 2 per cent sales tax, exempting food and possibly a few other necessities.

The income tax, too, could be broadened, as proposed by Representative Klein, and the rates increased sufficiently to yield most, if not all, the required revenue. But Congress has repeatedly rejected similar proposals and the House action last week in rejecting the latest effort to broaden the income tax base indicates that the Eighty-first Congress is as obdurate as its predecessors in refusing to levy a fair income tax that would apply to everyone living in the District. Congress could also add 18 million dollars to the Federal contribution as suggested by Senator McGrath. But there is no reason to suppose that it would seriously consider such a proposal. Nor do we think a contribution of such size justified, although a strong case exists for increasing the amount of the Federal payment sufficiently to offset the loss of revenue from tax-exempt federally owned property within the District. At the present level of taxes it is estimated that the Federal Government would have to pay 16 million dollars to the District if its holdings were taxable. As a last resort the District might be empowered to borrow funds to cover capital outlays.

It is up to Congress to decide which of these methods of raising revenue or what combination of methods shall be approved. Prompt action is imperative for the present situation is intolerable. Washington is a wealthy city, quite capable of financing its own government, if it were not hamstrung by its dependence on a group of legislators who know how to say no, but seem incapable of saying yes to any reasonable plan for supplying the District Government with new revenue. That additional 18 million dollars is needed to insure efficient administration of public agencies, adequate policing, protection of public health and a host of other services that cities of comparable size and less wealth are able to provide.

Congressional Privilege

Representative John A. McGuire of Connecticut apparently regards his election to Congress as a ticket of immunity for law violation. When a car in which Mr. McGuire was a passenger was stopped by a District policeman for speeding last week, Mr. McGuire attempted to use his rank to dissuade the officer. Subsequently Mr. McGuire and the other occupants were haled to the precinct station when it was learned that in addition to speeding the car was operating without a tail light. Mr. McGuire's retort to this entirely proper procedure was: "Any policeman who did such a thing in my home district would find himself on the coldest footbeat in East Goshen the next morning." We think the people of Mr. McGuire's district and his home city of Wallingford ought to know the brand of intimidation he practices and the contempt in which he seemingly holds the laws. We also think that the arresting officer, Traffic Pvt. Joseph E. Slattery, deserves a commendation for standing his ground in the face of such rank abuse of congressional prerogative.

APPOINTMENT

The long, green hair of the willow tree
Touches the murmuring river;
Out of its shade you come to me,
Sweet and cool by the willow tree
You stand; the sun's full quiver
Empties its arrows, golden, bright,
Upon you, in the dappled light.

Weeping green tears upon the wave
The mourning tree is stirred
With sudden flames of red; its grave
Reluctant cloisters over the wave
Are lit by a scarlet bird
That wings its brilliant flight to where
I wait for you in the shining air.

McGuire And The Law

My attention was called to your March 17 article re the case of Representative John A. McGuire and his friend who were detained by police and fined for a traffic violation.

The police, as well as the lawmakers, are bound by their duty and oath to preserve the law and see that it is maintained without either fear or favor. The law is not a matter of personal opinion; it represents the will of the people, who pay the wages of their officials in the Government, supposing that said officials will support and enforce the law faithfully as real men of good character who have respect for the law.

A. R. BROWN.
Washington.

Being a Representative who is paid by the people makes Mr. McGuire no different from any businessman who is paid by a company for his services. Instead his position carries a moral obligation to be an example, respecting and holding our laws in the highest esteem. A traffic law is made for the protection of all, just as our laws against murder and stealing, and should be obeyed.

CAROLYN L. BROWNING.

At least one must give Congressman McGuire credit for being brutally frank. He as much as said that in his home bailiwick he would have a policeman sent to Sibera for arresting him!

When a Congressman sticks his neck out to the extent of wanting to fire a policeman for doing his duty to someone else who broke the law, then I think it high time to point out that a ticket to Congress is not a blank check to intimidate lesser public servants if their less illustrious paths cross the politician's

"Something For Nothing"

In your editorial of March 17 on the Pyramid Clubs, you refer to the gambling instinct as the "something-for-nothing" instinct. Why not admit that the instinct to get something for nothing is very human and universal. Whether you are buying your radio at wholesale, getting a parking ticket fixed, or laying two bob on a nag, admittedly, you are merely trying to improve your economic welfare. If this does not make sense, then neither does your attitude on gambling.

Really, why don't we face the facts? Gambling, as we have it, is a huge, illegal business enterprise, because there are hundreds of thousands of human beings who are going to gamble. You might as well try to stamp out sex. Then why don't we harness this very human activity for the good of the community, and at the same time take care of the situation on taxes?

"Suffering" Landlord

Twelve years ago my landlord, then and now a Government employe, purchased 12 new row houses at $9250 each, with a down payment of $1000 each, a total investment of $12,000. Not one of those houses has been vacant for as much as one day. The legal rentals have averaged $86 a month (I shall not include in my figures the "key bonus" of $250 nor the bonus which accompanies the monthly rental check.)

The tenants have long since bought these 12 houses for the "suffering" landlord. He is his own agent, and the few slight repairs have been made by him while on leave from his Government job. I, like others, have had some papering and painting done at our own expense, because he will not spend a nickel while the Government is "confiscating" his property. Recently, identical houses in this row have been sold by other owners for $16,000 and $17,000.

My landlord's investment of $12,000 is now worth approximately $200,000. Where else may one reap such an enormous profit? Now, I read that a Senate Banking Committee wants my "abused" landlord to receive an additional 10 per cent on an investment that has already yielded 43 per cent a year for 12 years!

Oh, the power of lobbies!

Educational Raids

According to a recent statement by the President, education is the best weapon against communism.

Yet only three nights ago I overheard a man complaining bitterly because his daughter, a brilliant student who had planned all her life to finish college and teach school, had been recruited, along with other top students to work in a Government agency as soon as she finishes high school. He thought there should be some way to stop the Government from enticing immature girls and boys away from college, and taking only the ones with the highest grades who are the very ones that should be encouraged to seek higher education.

Civil Rights "Sellout"

We note in your news columns of March 16 the story of Senator Howard McGrath's unwarranted abuse of Mr. Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Twenty-four branches of the Maryland State Conference of NAACP branches, representing 50,000 citizens in the State of Maryland, deeply resent this attack by Senator McGrath on our leader. We regard it as a personal rebuff to every thinking citizen, regardless of race, color, or creed, who believes in civil rights for all citizens.

Three weeks ago our State organization asked Senator McGrath for a conference. But he never even answered our communication.

The Democratic Party's own Senators on the floor of the Senate, branded the present compromise with the filibusterers as "the biggest sellout in the history of the country." Our leader, Mr. Walter White, had the courage to tell the whole truth, which Senator McGrath could not stand.

Varga And The Senate

Is it not perhaps significant that Varga, the Russian economist, chooses to recant his former doctrine of the unlikelihood of an American collapse just at the moment when the United States Senate lapses into irresponsibility? How can this country avoid economic breakdown if so essential part of the machinery for keeping it under control as its upper House remains disorganized and futile?

Community Centers And Point IV

A little over a year ago I began work on a plan which I hoped would combine two results: (a) the provision of help of a kind which would motivate people to help themselves, and (b) the creation of conditions which would bring about good will and methods of cooperation permanent enough to outlast the assistance.

This aid would necessarily have to have a dynamic quality and it would have to reach people; in other words, aid which would include some of the vitality of free enterprise at its best, and the human quality basic in democracy.

It seemed to me that two methods of aid have been used with success in this sense: That used by the Quakers, who won the Nobel prize for peace, and that worked out by the Institute of Inter-American Affairs—a successful variation of the pattern being used now by Nelson Rockefeller in South America.

In both of these groups the community center has been found to be the very kernel of the success of the programs. These centers may be varied almost infinitely to fit the regions they serve: They may be basically health centers, as in parts of South America; or, as with the Quaker centers in Germany may provide washing and sewing machines, trained assistance to a technically sophisticated group, and aid to the mothers, who must be wage earners, with help of children.

In illiterate countrysides of China they may be primarily teaching and agricultural centers. Their success presupposes a well trained but not a large American staff for guidance, and a thorough preliminary study of the project studied in relation to the environment. The investment of money and equipment is comparatively small, as the work once started is taken over and carried on by the people in the regions helped.

The conscience of the world is rightfully uneasy about the fate of children still suffering because of the war. If, in the areas where this problem predominates, the centers described above included some follow-through care of children (and this, if for no other reason—the protection of our own future) this aid would have a lasting benefit.

The late Dr. Harry Stack Sullivan, of Washington, wrote that if peace and world agreement become realities, they must be based upon the existence of "innumerable interlocking communities."

The ECA which has done such fundamental and outstanding work could be the irreplaceable stepping stone to the fourth point of Mr. Truman's program. Using a basic technique, which would consist of material investment and dynamically directed community planning—a combination shown by successful experimenters already mentioned not to be overburdened by money or personnel needs—the ECA might well go down in history not merely as the reviver of industries but the pioneer creator of far-flung peaceful areas.

Our scientific know-how includes many facts about human relationships and how they fit into the agricultural or industrial picture. It is this knowledge which will help make our aid stick—our assistance remembered.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

Good Guys

A VERY BIG issue is concealed in the local hotel apartment to which Mon C. Wallgren hurriedly limped when the State of Washington chose another Governor and made him a lame duck. It lurks there, as it were, behind the bland, uninteresting surfaces of the ordinary and the average.

Nothing could be less revealing than this issue's hiding place—a dreary hotel sitting room that is obviously a temporary roost, good enough for a lame duck, but to be deserted when the lame duck has been made whole again. No clew is offered here except perhaps the crimson enamel cigarette case boldly inscribed, "I swiped this from Harry S. Truman." Lying on its conspicuous table, the knick-knack mutely hints there is a blessed hand by which lame ducks are healed.

Nor is Mon Wallgren much more revealing than his surroundings. In any county building, or State capitol, or congressional haunt, you could duplicate this plump, neatly tailored, nearly gray-haired politician with the round, smooth, eupeptic face, unravaged and unilluminated, of a middle-aged man satisfied to be securely fixed in the middle-income brackets. All about him is commonplace, except the hurt note that creeps into his voice when he discusses the decision of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, that he is unfitted to be chairman of the National Defense Resources Board and a member of the National Security Council.

THE INNER WOUND makes him revert, again and again, to rather wistful recollections of his service on the Truman War Investigating Committee, when "there were countless numbers of things we had to be right on top of all of the time." Those days, he implies, equipped him for the vast responsibilities which he was offered by the President, and then was refused by the hard-hearted Senators. Those days, he admits, were when he and Truman, traveling, working and relaxing together, became cronies. They were good days.

The hidden issue comes a little closer when he talks more of his past. The first turning point of the Wallgren career was the great Galveston flood of 1900 which "washed his family right out of Texas into Puget Sound." His father set up a jewelry store in Everett, Wash. And there Wallgren grew up, became a great joiner in the booming '20's, experimented optimistically with large but unsuccessful enterprises, and made his living in his father's store. The second turning point was the depression. It knocked the spots out of the jewelry business, and Wallgren rather desperately ran for Congress as a Democrat in 1932.

"I yielded to my friends," he says, using the comically hackneyed phrase, as he uses all hackneyed phrases, with an air of simple sincerity.

In the career thus almost accidentally begun in the first Roosevelt landslide, he achieved success without distinction. He was one of the ruck of Congressmen, one of the ruck of Senators, one of the ruck of State Governors. Defeat came to him in the end, as defeat comes to most politicians, on last November 2. He was not heart-broken. He frankly hated the responsibilities of the governorship. And on the very next day, there was the President's telephone call, inviting him first to Key West and then to Washington. It was a happy ending, and now he is honestly puzzled to know why the story has taken a sudden, very different turning.

AS HE TALKS about these things, one begins to see Wallgren as he is—good friend, good fishing and poker companion, amiable without being uncomfortably witty, kindly without being alarmingly large-spirited, easy-going, easily pleased, fitted for politics by the habit of joining. If his character seems a little blurred, why, so are his convictions. In the same breath he hints he is a fire-eating progressive, and plaintively remarks that "civil rights ought to have been compromised—it was the Southerners that made the trouble for me." Take him all in all, he is not a bad man. But in the language of our times' great poem on mediocrity, he is merely:

"—An attendant lord, one that will do
To swell a progress, start a scene or two,
Advise the prince; no doubt an easy tool;
Deferential, glad to be of use
Politic, cautious and meticulous;
Full of high sentence, but a bit obtuse;
At times indeed almost ridiculous—
Almost at times the Fool."

There are thousands of such men, in all sorts of offices, in American politics. They have their uses. They are the necessary rank and file. They are the ones whom everybody calls "good guys." There was a simpler era when good guys could even be made President with reasonable safety. But in these dark years, the fate of the world, the future of humanity, rest upon the untrained shoulders of this country. In these years, when men are being chosen for the highest tasks of government, good guys are no longer good enough. And here is our big issue, unearthed at last from its concealment in the Wallgren apartment.

Catholics Here Join War Victim Drive

Roman Catholics in the 81 parishes of the archdiocese of Washington yesterday joined in the Nation-wide drive for five million dollars for the Bishops' Fund for Victims of War.

The one-week campaign will end on Laetare Sunday, March 27. Goal for the drive in the Washington archdiocese is $75,000, the Rev. E. Jerome Winter, pastor of St. Stephen's Church, 25th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw., and chairman for this area, has announced.

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, yesterday appealed to Catholics in a letter read at all masses to "give of our abundance and even of our necessities" to save the millions of victims of the war.

"On Laetare Sunday please make an offering representing a real sacrifice, for these millions whose agonies are continuous, whose needs can only be met by your gift of love," the letter said.

Children of the archdiocese have been collecting money for the Bishops' Fund since Ash Wednesday, when Pope Pius XII spoke to them in a special radio broadcast from the Vatican.

The campaign is an annual appeal for money to continue world relief work of Catholic overseas agencies—the War Relief Services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference and the Bishops' Emergency Relief Committee.

Funds raised will be used for shipment of food, clothing, and medicine, to victims of war, and for a program of aiding resettlement of displaced persons, both in the United States and other countries. Last year the Washington goal of $60,000 was oversubscribed.

Set For Tuesday

Negro School Hearing May Be Public

Annapolis, Md., March 20 (AP). The chairmen of the State Senate finance committee and the House ways and means committee said today they are considering making a hearing on Negro education in Maryland open to the public.

The joint hearing, set for 3 p. m. Tuesday, was originally planned as an executive session with the press and public excluded.

But Judge Morris A. Soper, chairman of the board of trustees of Morgan State College who is to testify Tuesday, urged that the hearing be opened.

He said in a letter to the legislators that "we have nothing to say which should be withheld from the colored people or the public in general."

Reached by phone, Senator Sothoron (D., Prince Georges), head of the Senate group, commented:

"I have not given any thought to the change so far, but if Judge Soper and Mr. Pumphrey want an open hearing, it's all right with me. I thought they wanted it closed."

Delegate Pumphrey (D., Prince Georges) is head of the House ways and means committee. He said "there is no deep, dark purpose of ours in holding this session closed," and that the committees simply wanted to give Judge Soper the same privilege extended recently to Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland.

The Maryland General Assembly, meanwhile, moves into high gear Monday in an effort to forestall a legislative logjam before adjournment in two weeks.

Annapolis, Md., March 20 (AP).—The General Assembly moves into high gear Monday in an effort to forestall a legislative logjam before adjournment in two weeks.

Day and night sessions are scheduled in both houses this week, the last of the 90-day session in which bills may be introduced without suspending the rules.

A total of 1111 bills have been tossed into the hopper since the Assembly convened in January. A total of 245 have gone through the mill and passed both Houses. Governor Lane has signed 77 of these.

Final adjournment deadline for the 90-day session will be Monday, April 4, at midnight. Legislative leaders hope they can clean up the agenda and go home on Saturday, April 2.

A Son for Eddie Cantor —But Not the Comedian

New York, March 20 (AP).—Birth Notice: To Eddie Cantor and his wife, Ida, a 9-pound son.

It happened today at the Jewish Hospital, Brooklyn, but for this Eddie Cantor, unlike the comedian of the same name, it was the first child.

For years Comedian Cantor has poked fun at himself on his radio programs about fathering five daughters and no sons.

Brooklyn's Eddie Cantor also is in the radio business. He owns a small retail store.

Mayors of U. S. Hold Conference . . .

Welsh, of Grand Rapids, Mich., conference president; Mayor Lucien Borne, of Quebec, president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors. Rear: Mayors W. Cooper Green, of Birmingham, Ala.; Joseph E. per cent of our people, the urban population, elect only 25 per cent of the members of our State legislatures. This is a far cry," he said, "from the kind of democracy we are trying to preach to others.

"People will not tolerate to eternity a situation wherein their vote may be one twentieth as important as the vote of one who happens to live in an agricultural area.

Tea Party Migh Be Useful

"We once had a little affair known as the Boston Tea Party. Well, a few more Boston Tea Parties in some of our States might serve a useful purpose.

"There will never be any long-range program for home rule, for financial stability of our cities, or for full and complete local responsibility of our cities," he said.

Mayor Welsh said cities are often dominated by unsympathetic county governments, too. "County people are suspicious of 'city slickers,' but city people have a sympathetic ear for the problems of rural residents," he said.

In contrast to the attitude of State governments, the National Government and Congress has shown "a sympathetic understanding" of the problems of the cities, he said.

Foreign Visitors

Emil Vinck, former vice president of the Belgian senate and an international authority on municipal government, Mayor H. E. Stokke of Oslo, Norway, and Mayor Lucien Borne of Quebec, are among the conference's guests. Another guest expected from abroad is Ernst Reuter, lord mayor of Berlin.

Senator Vinck said that to remedy its housing shortage Belgium is trying to lower building costs by some 40 per cent to attract private investment. If it cannot be lowered that much, he said, then the government should assume the difference.

"It is my opinion," he said, "that housing should be considered public utility service, just like schools, police and fire brigades."

Oslo is also having its housing problems, Mayor Stokke said. "The first major task of the city today is to solve the housing problem. All parties are agree to this, the only problem is how to go about it," he said.

First Day of Spring Brings Cyclists Out in Force

The Washington Post

ago yesterday, when the mercury rose to 81 degrees.

Today will be a little more springlike, the Weather Bureau predicted. It will be mostly sunny and warmer, with a high temperature around 73 degrees.

If the Weather Bureau can't do much about spring beyond recording it, the National Capital Park Service and Department of Agriculture are going to make a try at one aspect of it—preserving the blossoms of the Japanese cherry trees around the Tidal Basin for the Cherry Blossom Festival April 1, 2 and 3.

Should the trees bloom this week, the blossoms will be vanishing at the time of the festival, so under the direction of Horace D. Wester, Parks Service plant pathologist, and with the cooperation of Dr. Paul C. Marth of Agriculture's Plant Industry Bureau, the trees will be sprayed with thousands of gallons of plant hormones.

Looking back at the outgoing season, the Weather Bureau produced many figures from the record, but declined to speculate whether the "unseasonable" weather of the past meant anything about the future.

The winter average temperature of 40.5 degrees compares with a normal average of 36.2 degrees. But February, which broke all records, averaged 43.8 degrees, against an average of 35.3 for the month. The January average was 42.6 degrees, compared with the normal 33.4 degrees.

Hottest day of the unseasonable season was February 15, when the mercury hit 77 degrees, an all-time record for that date. It was not the high mark for any February, however, for in 1930 the temperature reached 84 during that month.

The January high was 77 degrees on the 28th, while the highest in March so far was 70 degrees on the 6th.

The winter's coldest here was chalked up only six days after the season began, on December 27, when the Weather Bureau thermometer dipped to 14 degrees. Since then, the month-by-month low points were 21 on January 30, 23 on February 2 and 3, and 23 on March 1.

The warmer-than-usual winter brought slightly more snow than usual, the Weather Bureau reported, and also more total precipitation. There were 13 snowfalls during December, January and February, totaling 15.8 inches, as compared with an average for the period of 15.4 inches.

More Precipitation

Precipitation — which includes melted snow, sleet and fog moisture as well as rain—totaled 12.45 inches during the same period, against an average of 10.14 inches.

Washington's balmy winter, which contrasted with the extreme cold and heavy snows suffered by the West, also contrasted with past winter seasons here, notably that of 1904-05. Then, the average temperature for the season was 29.9 degrees and the low was 2 below zero on January 31, 1905.

What gave us our mild winter? Well, said the Weather Bureau, there was not too much wind, and what there was blew mostly from the south. We didn't get much of the usual cold air masses from Canada over the East. Back beyond that, the explanation becomes too complicated to go into, said the Weather Bureau.

Cut in Milk Price Started

"Somebody might be getting a little ahead of the gun. They might be fooled if the Virginia commission doesn't agree to it."

Derrick denied a report that dairy representatives had met recently with Producers' Association officials and agreed on the 50-cent cut in prices to be paid to producers. However, two dairy officials said the producers had "unofficially agreed," subject to Virginia Milk Commission action.

Follow Virginia

The Virginia Milk Commission sets prices for that State. Dairies serving the District and the suburban Maryland area generally have followed the prices approved for the Arlington-Alexandria area.

Dairies which have asked the Virginia board for the price cut are Chestnut Farms, Thompson's and the Alexandria Dairy Products Co.

The reductions announced by Embassy for today and by Thompson's for April 1 apply to all grades of milk, both delivered and sold wholesale to stores. While the dairies do not set the retail store prices, these usually follow wholesale price changes.

Supply 66 Per Cent

The three dairies asking the price reduction in Virginia together supply more than 66 per cent of the milk consumed in metropolitan Washington, according to recent figures. Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy, largest distributor of the three, supplies about 47 per cent.

Herman A. Schulteis, vice president of Chestnut Farms, said his dairy always reduces prices when the producers' price goes down, and will do so this time if the commission authorizes the cut.

Officials of the Lucerne Milk Co., a division of Safeway Stores, which sells about 11 per cent of the milk consumed in the area, will study the competitive situation before making any commitments, a spokesman said. The dairy usually has met competitive prices.

Also indicating similar probable reductions, on a "when and if" basis was Otto Phillips, general manager of the Wakefield Dairy, who said: "We'll follow the market, but we'll wait on the Virginia commission before we announce any decrease."

Early Pact Approval by Committee Forecast

build up their own military forces to a strength deemed adequate to fend off any attack. The value of the supplies to be requested for this program has been informally estimated at one billion to two billion dollars.

Just how this bill will be handled in the Senate appeared to be in more doubt than Vinson suggested for its course in the House. Senator Connally indicated that he hoped it would be handled by his committee in view of its close relation to foreign policy, although it will be up to the leadership to decide whether to route it through the Foreign Relations or the Armed Services Committee, which also has an obvious interest in it.

One viewpoint that will figure in the Senate debate on ratification of the treaty in relation to forthcoming legislation to implement it with arms was emphasized again yesterday by John Foster Dulles, United States delegate to the United Nations Assembly and an influential Republican spokesman on international affairs.

Dulles, who told the third National Conference on Churches and the World Order in Cleveland March 8 that he did not believe the Soviet government planned war, but warned against tactics in Scandinavia that would seem to bring an offensive threat to Russian borders, spoke yesterday during the first of eight State Department national broadcasts on the United States in world affairs.

Replying to a question by Richard Harkness, National Broadcasting Co. Washington correspondent, Dulles, who joined in the discussion from a New York studio, said:

"The Atlantic pact, like most everything else, depends on how it is actually used. The pact can be operated in such a way that it is clear to all that it is a purely defensive organization. On the other hand, military planning under it might seem to be offensive and suspicious to ill-informed people, such as those in the Kremlin, who might think it provocative of war.

"I am not so much concerned with the language of the pact as I am concerned about what will be done under it. I hope and believe that actions will make it clear that the pact is only defensive. If so, I think that it would work for peace and will strengther the United Nations."

The program dealt with "The United States and Collective Security" and included Dr. Philip C. Jessup, newly appointed Ambassador-at-large for International Conferences, and Dean Rusk, Assistant Secretary of State for Political Affairs, who spoke from Washington. All three of the speakers emphasized the close tie between the treaty and the United Nations, and, as Rust put it:

"Our main problem is not the United Nations Charter, but the attitude of the principal members of the United Nations toward the Charter. Some of us want to support it in every possible way. Our problem would be much simpler if Russia would do the same."

Dr. Jessup, who, like Dulles and Rusk, has served as a delegate to the United Nations, insisted that "failure" was not a word that he could "accurately or conscientiously apply to the overall U. N. picture," but he did "not hesitate to say that the attitude of the Soviet Union is the main reason why the United Nations hasn't been allowed to develop as it should."

"The fact is," Dr. Jessup added, "the Soviet Union hasn't yet begun to cooperate with the United Nations. Behind its Iron Curtain, it is manufacturing fear. Its purpose is obvious—to create and keep up a state of tension."

All three cited peaceful economic recovery as the primary goal and Rusk said 'lack of assurance about the day after tomorrow has been holding them back." Without "security and hope," Jessup pointed out, "a man can't put his heart into his work."

Recovery Called Good

Dulles thought that "by uniting their strength they can and ought to become a great citadel of freedom and well-being." Later Dulles observed, "the Soviet use of the veto power has so far made it impracticable to develop, for everybody, the security system that the Charter contemplated." He also emphasized the importance of the treaty as "a logical step in the unification of western Europe," which "must come, if western civilization is to survive, and it must be firmly rooted in peaceful cooperation."

Rusk described the treaty as "a powerful deterrent to war," and Dulles said:

"It is obvious that the treaty doesn't attempt to take away from Congress the right to declare war. On the other hand, foreign countries can, by attacking, make war. . .

"When the treaty says that an attack upon one country is an attack upon all, the President should, I suppose, treat an attack upon one of the other nations in the pact as an attack upon the United States, and use the inherent right of self-defense to repel that attack. . .

"The pact would . . . in my opinion, not serve its purpose if it left it doubtful that there would be action from us if an armed attack occurs upon one of the other parties . . . The treaty does not usurp the power of Congress. It does not obligate Congress to declare war. But it does mean that if an attack occurs within the North Atlantic area, and the Security Council cannot handle it, then the United States has a duty to act to repel the attack and to resore peace. I should imagine we would do that anyway—in view of our experience in the past 35 years."

CORRECTION

Due to a typographical error, The Washington Post yesterday gave the address of James J. McDonald, charged in Municipal Court with false pretenses, as 65 K st. nw. Police said they confiscated check forms and falsified identification forms in his home. McDonald's address is 65 K st. ne. The Washington Post regrets the error.

American Smelting Net Sets Record

New York, March 20 (AP).—American Smelting and Refining Co. and consolidated subsidiaries today reported 1948 net income was a record $38,926,816, equal to $13.47 a share.

This compared with $36,773,231 or $12.65 a share, for 1947.

The company's fiftieth annual report said the increase over 1947 was "due directly and indirectly to the higher prices of metals."

Noting that marked increases were made in wage scales and transportation costs during the war, and that taxes also were greater, the report said a substantial decline in prices "would greatly reduce the amount of metals produced, as many mines would then be unable to meet present costs."

The company's refinery production for 1948 included 510,425 short tons of lead, 462,252 tons of copper and 142,163 tons of zinc (not including zinc content of shipments of concentrates, zinc dust, fume and slag to others). The report said comparative figures for the previous year were 559,865 tons of lead, 473,577 tons of copper and 135,432 tons of zinc.

Japanese Mother Has 22d Child at 43

Tokyo, March 20 (AP).—The 43-year-old wife of a Hokkaido farmer has given birth to her twenty-second child.

The Kyodo News Agency said this was the motherhood record for Japan but it was understood a French woman had 23 children.

"If 23 is the world record, I will beat it," said Mrs. Yoko Takahasi, whose first child was born in 1925. Her family includes two sets of twins.

District Officials Hold Out Hope for Pay Raises

District personnel officials yesterday held out continued hope that Congress will approve a retroactive pay raise putting District workers on the same salary levels with Federal employes.

Budget Officer Walter L. Fowler, chairman of the Personnel Board, declared without qualification, "I still have confidence Congress will pass the pay raise."

"I don't think Congress will let the District workers down. I haven't lost faith yet and I feel most of the District workers still think a way will be found to provide the funds," Fowler said.

This confidence was indicated in continuation of the status quo in the personnel office during the week in spite of the defeat of the sales tax, counted on as a District revenue-producing measure.

Fowler said there was no noticeable drop in applications for jobs nor any substantial increase in resignations. Previously, however, he had reported a steadily mounting exodus of District workers to more lucrative positions in the Federal Government or in private business.

After the sales tax defeat, Police Chief Robert J. Barrett issued a general order urging policemen not to quit because of the "unfavorable" news and also expressed hope that the pay boost would still be adopted.

Arlington Woman Burned in Blast

Charlottesville, Va., March 20 (AP).—An Arlington woman, wife of a University of Virginia student, was seriously burned here today when an explosion demolished or damaged more than a dozen trailer homes in a student veterans' housing project.

The blast sent a laundry boiler flying 150 yards into a frame apartment building.

Mrs. Robert Parrott, 21, of Arlington, was in the university hospital suffering second-degree burns and lacerations. Her husband, 23, a naval veteran and a university junior, was treated for burns and released.

Mrs. Parrott was said to have been lighting an oil stove when the blast occurred. The shock upset the heater and her hair caught fire when she fell into the flame.

Her husband pulled her to safety but was burned on the hands in putting out the flames in her hair. Their trailer was destroyed.

Other trailer houses damaged in the explosion belong to students who were out of town for the weekend.

Charlottesville Policemen J. F. Quick and M. J. Payne said it was lucky the laundry was unoccupied at the time, because no one could have survived the blast inside the building.

The housing project is known as Copeley Hill. An estimated 1000 persons, including University of Virginia students and their families, live there.

Under the supervision of Copeley Student Mayor Edmund P. Dandridge, of Pittsburgh, Pa., students went to work soliciting contributions to repay the losses incurred in the explosion.

By nightfall, more than $700 had been contributed. The entire student body of the University of Virginia will be asked to contribute Monday.

The explosion occurred shortly after 8 a. m. At least 15 buildings in addition to the laundry were damaged by flying debris. Windows and china were broken in other nearby homes. The blast was felt a mile away.

The hot-water boiled ripped a light pole into two pieces 75 feet from the laundry, then hurtled into the one-story apartment house.

A baby, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Long of Danville, Va., had been removed a few minutes earlier from the room where the boiler finally buried itself, police said.

University of Virginia President Colgate W. Darden, jr., after making an on-the-spot check, said the explosion apparently was caused by failure of an automatic safety valve on the laundry boiler.

Darden said the equipment was new and had been installed in the laundry—a stationary trailer type building—only three weeks ago.

Injured Man's Parents Go to Chalottesville

Robert Parrott, a varsity baseball player and a third-year student at the University of Virginia, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Parrott, 4203 N. 4th st., Arlington.

He is a graduate of Western High School here and served four years in the Pacific as a member of a Naval Air Corps ground crew.

He and his wife, the former Miss Patricia D'Ancona of Chicago, were married only six weeks ago. Parrott's parents left Arlington for Charlottesville immediately after they received news of the explosion.

Hospital attendants in Charlottesville said Mrs. Parrott's injuries included lacerations about the face and severe chest burns. In the fire, they said, her dress and hair ignited.

Nats' Good Pitching, Coan's Hard Hitting Win, 6-1

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

ORLANDO, FLA., March 20.—Joe McCarthy, who can clam up tighter than any other major league manager when he is of a mind to say nothing, bordered on the loquacious today. He appeared happy at the whole idea of taking the Red Sox into the pennant race and taking his chances with them.

"We ought to do very well," he said, "and Cleveland doesn't scare us. It's nice to know who you have to lick, and we're glad its Cleveland."

POVICH

That sounded a bit confusing inasmuch as when last seen against the Indians. McCarthy's Red Sox were blowing the American League pennant in a play-off game.

"That's not what cost us the pennant," said McCarthy. "And anyway, the Indians had no business being that close to us in the last week. Ray Scarborough beat us out of the pennant on September 28."

Well did McCarthy remember the date and Scarborough's six-hit pitching job that beat the Red Sox and forced them into the ill-fated play-off with Cleveland.

"Scarborough's pitching didn't help us. But his hitting hurt us most . . . remember? he singled with the bases full to get the two runs that beat us, 4-2."

BEATING CLEVELAND was one of the easiest things the Red Sox did most of the season, said McCarthy. "We knocked 'em off the first six times we played them despite all that bad pitching we were supposed to have. The big turning point came on our last trip into Cleveland.

"We were leading the league and Joe Dobson was beating the Indians' ears off and outpitching Feller. Dobson should have stuck to his pitching. Up at bat, he was hit on the wrist by one of Feller's fast balls and was all through. We lost in extra innings, and Dobson, our best pitcher, was pretty useless the rest of the season.

There wasn't much doubt in McCarthy's mind about which was the best club in the league last season. "We were 11 games behind the lead and at one point Cleveland showed 16 more games won than we did, and at that they barely got home in a play-off game. We're not going to get off to that bad a start."

RIGHT NOW, the only uncertain position on his club is right field, said McCarthy. Naturally, Ted Williams would be in left and Dom DiMaggio in center. If Rookie Walt Dropo takes over the first base job, then Bill Goodman, a .310 hitter could be moved into right field where he has had experience, or it may be Stan Spence, the former Nat.

Spence had his worst hitting year in the majors last season with the Red Sox, but McCarthy shoulders some of the blame for that, personally. "A lot of it was my fault. I played Spence at first base because there was nobody else, and it was a strange position for him. He got off to a bad start and didn't recover.

"Around first base, Spence did a lot of stretching and used muscles that hadn't been brought into play in his years of outfielding. He developed soreness and it cramped his batting style. He always was a good hitter, and now he's back in the outfield. He still figures in my plans."

THE MAN WHO WILL figure more in McCarthy's plans, though, if early impressions are not a delusion, is tall Tex Hughson, the stuff-throwing righthander who has bounced back from an arm operation and a spell in a Class B Texas league. The faint image of Hughson in a return to his former skill is enough to send McCarthy into a spasm of delight.

"It looks like magic the way Hughson has come back," said McCarthy. "He's throwing the ball as fast as he ever did . . . No sore arm pitcher could do that. To me it means he's ready again to win a lot of games, perhaps 20 or more. His control is still off but I don't care about that. He never had any control troubles."

McCarthy's first successful act when he took over the Red Sox last year was to make friends with temperamental Ted Williams. They now get along famously. Williams, of course, is famous for being the game's best hitter and McCarthy is famed for having won more pennants than any other man in the business. A little more fame in terms of a Red Sox pennant in 1949 is their idea at this time.

Reds' Homers Produce 7 Runs, Beat Yanks, 9 to 2

Tampa, Fla., March 20 (U.P.). Sparked by a grand slam home run by Catcher Ray Mueller in the fourth inning today, the Cincinnati Reds easily defeated the New York Yankees, 9-2, before 4893 fans.

Singles by Grady Hatton, Hank Sauer and Virgil Stallcup off Righthander Frank Hiller preceded Mueller's blast. Another home run—this by Shortstop Virgil Stallcup accounted for three more Red runs in the seventh. Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati starter, was the winner, while Hiller was charged with the defeat.

Joe Di Maggio and Shortstop Phil Rizzuto were left behind in St. Petersburg.

My Story . . . By Joe Louis

Joe Louis Spent His Childhood Days Just 'Pickin' Cotton and Eatin' Good'

MY MOTHER says I was a worse crybaby than any of her others. I would holler longer and louder when she had to whip me, or when I'd stub my toe. She remembers I was 11 months old before I got around on my own legs. That was slow for a Barrow. My brothers and sisters walked sooner. I didn't ail much. My only sickness was earache when I was 6 or 7 years old and I could always eat hearty. I never tried athletics as a boy; had no hankering for it. First time I ever did was a little while after we moved North. I won the shot-put throw in a field meet at Belle Isle when I was about 12 years old.

When I got to be champion the writers made a lot of how hard it was to get me to talk. My mother said she could have told them I was no different when I was a kid. She said I couldn't make my words come clear like my brothers and sisters. When I went to school the teacher made me say my words over and over, and by-and-by I got stubborn, I guess, and wouldn't say them at all. My mother says I came home and told her I wouldn't go back to school because they made me say my words over. Other kids didn't have to do that.

IT GOT to be my habit not to talk much, even out of school. My mother says I was different from the other Barrows that way. I played by myself. I hunted join-y snakes. Down there they said if you cut these little snakes apart in the swamps, they would join together by themselves and be a whole snake again. I was too young to work in the crops, then, but I fed the chickens and the hogs, and sometimes I picked a little cotton.

* * * * * * * * * * * *

Since childhood, eating has been one of Joe's favorite sports. Here he samples fried chicken while training for his title fight against Jimmy Braddock 12 years ago

When I was about 6 years old we moved into another sharecrop shack deeper in the Buckalew Mountains. It was a little place you won't find on maps. It was Mount Sinai, just a few miles from the house where I was born. Somehow what I remember most was how cold I used to get. We didn't wear shoes much and we kept our good clothes for Sundays. We had only kerosene lamps in the shack, and at night it would look broody. I liked to be alone. I fussed when my mother made me sleep with my brothers, three in a bed.

IN Mount Sinai, I think, our shack was a gray plank house on the Waltons' plantation on the road to Waverly. My older sister Eulalia, would walk me and my younger sister, Vunies, to the school in Mount Sinai Baptist Church. I had got in the habit of stammering by then, and I wouldn't talk much because other kids made fun of it. When Eulalia walked back home, Vunies would go into the school, but I'd skip.

I would go in the swamp for join-y snakes. In summer I knew a swimming hole and places to fish. I played a little baseball, but not much. I liked to play in the cotton with little Pat Brooks. He was my age. We got along good when his daddy married my mother. We liked to lay in the cotton when it went to the cotton gin. The mules would go slow down the dirt road and we would bounce on the cotton in the cart. On hot days we would fill a bucket at the well, and me and Pat would catch hold of the handle and carry cold water into the crops. The older children, and my mother and stepfather, would drink the water out of the dipper. Those tin dippers had long handles. They cost only 5c at the store. Sometimes I washed the floor for my mother. I liked for her to tell me I did it good.

MY MOTHER thought I might be good at music, I don't know why. Only thing I ever played on down there in Alabama was a "juice" harp. I wasn't good at it. All the kids played "juice" harps, even the white Langley twins. Their father owned most of the land around there. When I was in the Army and went into Chambers County for a visit in the old places I called on Mr. Langley and he told me one of the twins was a flier. He had been shot down, and the Japs had him in a prison. I never did learn if he ever got back home again.

Some people think I spend too much time now in pleasure. Maybe so. But when I was a kid in Alabama there wasn't much a sharecropper's boy could do for pleasure. Soon as he got old enough he worked in the fields, sunup to sundown. Nights you stayed around the house and went to bed early because all hands had to be up again for the next day's work. The most pleasure I remember from my Alabama days was driving into Camp Hill on Saturdays with my stepfather. Camp Hill was a town with stores along the main street.

MY stepfather gave us lots of father talk but he'd let us go pretty far before he put a hand to us—and he'd put it to his own Pat quick as he would to me. He was left-handed, I remember, and he could really lay it in there. We ate good on the farm—lots of corn, potatoes, bacon and chicken and fish. We never starved. But what I remember about those Saturday nights waiting out in the wagon, he would bring Pat and me cheese and crackers, and that made a kind of a holiday. We had to stay in the wagon. He was strict about that. Didn't want us getting into trouble.

Kids who lived down there in the back country didn't have much, but they kept happy. We never saw a movie 'til we came to Detroit. The best times we had was egg hunting around Easter and the main thing was to hang up your socks by the fire come Christmas. We knew about Santa Claus but we didn't have Christmas trees like they do up North. What you'd find in your stocking would be apples and oranges and big red peppermint candy.

Masterson, Thompson, Scarborough Tame Bosox

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., March 20.—The somewhat astonishing Nats, plainly unawed either by the pennant-minded Red Sox or by Tinker Field's largest crowd in history, compounded a convincing 6-1 victory today.

Before 4119 spectators who jammed the stands and rimmed the playing field, Clark Griffith's bargain-counter chattels took on the expensive Bostonians and whipped 'em good.

They whacked Ellis Kinder, one of the Red Sox better pitchers, for four runs in the third inning to win the ball game, and the only run Boston scored was a tainted thing.

Somehow, the Red Sox managed to outhit the Nats, 11 to 8, but not when it counted, and five of their blows were scratchy affairs indigenous to Florida's humpy infields.

Walter Masterson, Forrest Thompson and Ray Scarborough were slightly wonderful. In his three-inning stint, Masterson pitched one-hit ball, walked nobody and allowed no runs. He struck out Johnny Pesky, Ted Williams and Vern Stephens in succession during one spell of brilliance.

Scarborough also threw a three-inning runless job at the Red Sox after they managed to get a lonesome run off Southpaw Thompson in the fifth inning.

Gil Coan, the Nats' spring hitting terror, was in character again today. He opened the game with a two-bagger, you might say as usual, and added a single and another two-bagger before he was finished.

The Nats thus rolled up a two-game winning streak and brought to three wins and three defeats their record in the Grapefruit league. Coan's first-inning two-bagger to right field was wasted, but his single in the third wasn't. It was a liner to left that scored Al Evans, who was on second base by dint of a ground-rules two-bagger to the scoreboard in left field, a far piece.

Kinder was in deep trouble in that inning. Previously he had walked Masterson, and following Coan's blow Al Kozar singled Masterson home. Eddie Stewart rapped a two-bagger to right for the third run of the inning and the fourth scored on Yost's infield out.

The Nats' final two runs were the gift of Maurice McDermott, the hard-throwing, wild-throwing rookie southpaw who came to the Red Sox via Scranton and Borneo. He issued four walks in the seventh after Coan opened with his two-bagger to center.

Boston got its solitary run in the fifth after Stephen beat out a dinky roller to Yost. Doerr singled and with two out, Batts moved the run home with a drive to Kozar who fumbled the ball which was scored as a hit.

THE CROWD SMASHED the previous record of 3546, notched in 1939 when Detroit played at Tinker Field . . . the game had a sensational note in the second inning when Eddie Robinson looped a single into left field, his first hit in the Nats' six games . . . Coan's tremendous batting pace upped his spring hitting average to .524. He shows 11 hits and 21 times at bat . . . the Red Sox could have left Ted Williams in Sarasota with no loss whatsoever. In four times at bat he struck out twice, tapped to the pitcher and raised a pop fly to shortstop.

24,517 See Cubs Top Tribe

Los Angeles, March 20 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs downed the Cleveland Indians, 3 to 2, in 10 innings today before 24,517 fans, only several hundred under the exhibition record here.

Bob Feller twirled the first three frames for the Indians with Bob Lemon going the next six. Roy Welmaker took over in the tenth.

Pinch-Hitter Harry Lowry led off against Welmaker with a double and went to third on a wild pitch. The next two batters were intentionally passed to load the paths. Then Frankie Gustine smashed his third single of the game to send Lowrey across.

Fighter Dies As Kayo Result

Toledo, Ohio, March 20 (U.P.).—Welterweight boxer Art Jackson, 18, died today after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage in a training fight Friday night.

Jackson was kayoed by his sparring opponent, Charles Cotton, 19-year-old former Golden Gloves champ, with a right-hand blow to the head. Cotton was training for a six-round bout scheduled in Toledo on Monday. Jackson was taken to Mercy Hospital where he failed to recover consciousness.

Petro, Oliver Fight Tonight

Gunning for a match with Jimmy Cooper to decide who's boss of the District's featherweights, Danny Petro comes back to Turner's Arena tonight to take on Dewitt Oliver of San Antonio, Tex.

The Petro-Oliver is one of four eight-rounders on the Monday night bill, but the most important as far as Petro and Matchmaker Gabe Menendez is concerned.

Next to Cooper and Middleweight Joe Blackwood, Petro is the best drawing card in Washington, and Menendez envisions a good house with Petro sharing top billing.

If the loquacious lefthander from Alexandria dumps Oliver and if Cooper gets by one more indoor test Menendez is planning for him, the two will probably be paired for a District title fight at Griffith Stadium in June.

Since his comeback, Danny has flattened three straight opponents, each in two rounds. Oliver comes here with a record of 17 victories in 22 bouts in his youthful career as a pro.

In another eight, Art Llanos, who had his 75-fight victory streak broken by Cooper here recently, is pitted against Lou Yonkers, hard-hitting Roanoke (Va.) bantamweight. Another featherweight tussle, also an eight, involves Red Gaddis and Burt Wicks, local lads. In the final eight, Johnny Arduini, Petro's stablemate, challenges Jerry Karthricht, New York bantam.

Frank Thomas Is 'Critical'

Birmingham, Ala., March 20 (AP). Frank Thomas, 50, University of Alabama athletic director, and one of football's most famous coaches, was reported in critical condition tonight at South Highlands Infirmary.

Coach Thomas entered the hospital Friday for treatment of a circulatory ailment which has restricted his activity for almost three years.

His physician, Dr. Joseph Hirsch, said Thomas suffered a heart attack Saturday night. Hirsch said tonight he had noted a slight improvement in Thomas' condition.

"But," the doctor added, "he still is critically ill." Coach Thomas has been hospitalized several times in the last two years.

He gave up in 1947 the head football coaching job he had held for 16 years, but has continued as athletic director.

During his 15 seasons as tide mentor, his teams piled up 115 victories against only 24 defeats and 7 ties.

Thomas became Alabama coach in 1931, replacing Wallace Wade who had gone to Duke. He immediately became highly successful with his Crimson Tide teams. The most famous of which beat Stanford in the 1935 Rose Bowl with Dixie Howell throwing to Don Hutson.

Thomas' later pupils included Harry Gilmer, star of Alabama teams from 1944 through 1947, who now is with the Washington Redskins.

Middlecoff Shoots 71, Holds Lead in Jacksonville Golf

Jacksonville, Fla., March 20 (AP). Cary Middlecoff kept a healthy distance ahead of the field as he turned the three-quarters pole in the Jacksonville Golf Open today.

The finals will be played tomorrow.

The front-running Memphis golf professional-dentist was one under par with 35-36—71 over the 6282-yard Brentwood municipal course. His total for the three rounds is 205—three strokes ahead of his nearest competitor.

A strong wind from the east held most of the scores close to par today but the weather was warmer than yesterday.

Glenn Teal, 29-year-old Jacksonville pro, set today's pace with 33-33—66 and pulled into a second-place tie with Errie Ball of Oak Park, Ill., at 208. Ball had 36-33—69 today.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, the year's top money winner so far; the ever-popular Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Albuquerque, N. Mex., were bunched at 209.

Mangrum and Harrison needed 72s and Snead a 71 in making the third round today. Ellsworth Vines of Iowa City, Iowa, matched Teal's 33-33—66 and came from way back to 210. Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., and Dave Douglas of Wilmington, Del., also had 210.

Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., continued to pace the amateurs. He had 212 for the 54 holes, putting up a 71 today.

Bobby Locke of Johannesburg, South Africa, was one of seven entrants at even par 216. This gave him a twentyfifth-place tie and a tough battle in tomorrow's 18-hole final round to make the money list.

Caps Run Special Train to Playoffs In Philadelphia

Washington Caps rooters may go to the opening game of the Basketball Association of America playoffs in Philadelphia Wednesday night in a special excursion train.

The Eastern Division champion Caps meet the fourth-place Warriors in Philly Wednesday and at home Thursday with a third game, if necessary, here Saturday.

Paul Rothgeb, Uline Arena manager, announced last night that round trip train fare plus a $2.60 ticket for the game will be made available at $10.10 each. The Caps' special departs from Union Station Wednesday at 5 p. m. and returns immediately after the game. Reservations will be taken at FR. 5800 from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. today.

Circus Booked at Uline's Next Week

Caps Will Be Homeless if They Beat Philly

THE CAPS COULD relieve the Uline Arena management of an embarrassing predicament by being eliminated in the first round of the BAA playoffs which start in Philadelphia Wednesday . . . If the crippled Eastern champs survive Round One, they are faced with the prospect of playing their Round Two home games on the road because the Shrine Circus moves into Uline's for a week on March 28, a day before the second-round playoffs are slated . . . Of course, Owner Mike Uline could shift the games to the National Guard Armory, but after all those unpleasant things he said about the armory last year it's debatable whether the big plant would be at his disposal . . . Center Kleggie Hermsen required a couple of stitches on his hand as an aftermath of his scuffle with Irv Rothenberg of the Knicks Saturday. Former Cap Rothenberg, incidentally didn't take his one-punch knockdown lying down. He wanted to continue the rumpus with Hermsen in the dressing room after the fight, but was restrained by teammates . . . Jack Nichols, who didn't participate in the six-player turmoil, was the most serious casualty. He twisted his knee during the excitement and it was still very stiff last night. He'll be o. k. by today, however, he's certain . . .

Appropriately enough, the referee is Claudio Villar, whose native Spain was a neutral in World War II. . . . Rudy Dusek, who's been promoting wrestling at Uline's for the past several months, throws in the towel after tonight' show. Things have been so tough for Rudy at Uline's that he had to go over to the opposition at Turner's last week and wrestle for a payday. . . . Bob Margarita, Georgetown's new football coach, thought his prayers had been answered and that he had discovered a passer the other day when he saw a fellow throwing a football 60 yards during a Hilltop practice. But when he called the pitcher over he learned the passer was none other than Joe Sullivan, his young backfield coach who was a star halfback at Dartmouth last year.

Peggy Kirk Wins Titleholders Golf; Berg, Kirby Tie for 2d

Zaharias Finishes 4th, 5 Off Pace

Augusta, Ga., March 20 (AP).—Peggy Kirk won the Titleholders today, her first major women's golf tournament, with a record-writing 299.

She was paired with Dot Kirby of Atlanta, the leader after yesterday's third round. Dot wound up in a tie with Patty Berg, Minneapolis, defending champion. They had 301s.

On Miss Kirk's final 18 she not only smashed Babe Zaharias' Titleholders' record of 304 for 72 holes but she came within a stroke of tying the Babe's second round mark of 71. Mrs. Zaharias set both her marks in 1947. Mrs. Zaharias finished fourth today.

Peggy Shoots 72

Peggy shot a 72 today.

Miss Kirk is the two-times winner of the Ohio State championship, in 1947 and 1948. She qualified for the National Amateur in 1946, 1947 and 1948. Last year she was an alternate on the Curtis Cup team.

For Miss Kirby today's round was just another case of being second best. She has been that in a dozen-odd tournaments. The loss to Peggy Kirk was extra bitter since the Atlantan also broke Babe Zaharias' tournament record.

Miss Kirby shot a one-over-par 76 today on the 6627-yard Augusta Country Club course. Her back nine score did not live up to her par 37 going out.

Patty Top Professional

Miss Berg's runner-up tie at 301 made her the top professional in the tournament. Her final round was a 72, by far her best of the competition.

Mrs. Zaharias jarred her old record. A 73 in the final round gave her a record-tying total of 304.

With the exception of Dot Kielty, Long Beach, Calif., and little Louise Suggs, Carrollton, Ga., those front-runners represent all the pre-tournament favorites. Miss Kielty got a 77 today for a 306 total. Miss Suggs, who was badly off her game in three out of the four rounds, came in with a 78 for 308.

Finishing next in order were veteran Estelle Lawson Page, Chapel Hill, N. C., a 76 for 311; Marjorie Lindsay, Decatur, Ill., an 80 for 313; Betty Bush, Hammond, Ind., an 80 for 319, and Helen Sigel, Philadelphia, an 82 for 319.

Citation Has a Brother And He's Good Looking

Lexington, Ky., March 19 (AP).—Citation has a brother.

The colt was foaled tonight at Calumet Farm to Hydroplane II, dam of the 1948 champion 3-year-old. The sire is Bull Lea.

Calumet Manager J. Paul Ebelhardt said the colt "greatly resembles Citation," a full brother. He described it as "one of the best looking ever foaled at Calumet."

Kentucky Starts After NCAA Crown

By Murray Rose

New York, March 20 (AP).—What a difference a week makes!

Seven days ago Kentucky's feared Wildcats were confidentially preparing for an unprecedented sweep of the National Invitation Tournament and the NCAA championships.

The Nation's No. 1 college basketball team was rated an even-money favorite to cop the NIT and no worse than 2 to 1 to complete the double slam.

But today a poised, ball-hustling crew from the University of San Francisco held the NIT title and Kentucky no longer was figured a cinch to win the NCAA crown.

San Francisco's all-junior five, a 20-to-1 long shot when the tourney got under way a week ago Saturday, captured the NIT by nipping Chicago, another overlooked quintet, 48-47.

While the Dons prepared for a big victory celebration, Kentucky got set for the Eastern NCAA playoffs in the Garden tomorrow and Tuesday night.

The Wildcats, now aiming to defend its NCAA title, go against Villanova's high-scoring squad in the second game of the double bill. Illinois' Big Nine kings, and Yale's Ivy League champs will clash in the opener.

The two winners will tangle Tuesday night for the right to meet Oklahoma A. & M.'s smooth Aggies for the NCAA championship in Seattle March 26.

Oklahoma A. & M. The Aggies, improving with every contest, won the Western NCAA finale by shellacking Oregon State, 55-30, at Kansas City last night.

Kentucky's Olympic partners, the Phillips Oilers, also met disaster.

The Oakland Bittners whipped the Oilers, 55-51, to win the National AAU crown and break Phillips' six-year hold on the championship.

Art Cook Paces D. C. Rifle Victory

The District of Columbia rifle team, composed of stars from all the rifle clubs in this area, yesterday defeated the Baltimore City Rifle Club, 4206-4154, at the N.R.A. range. The annual meet started in 1938, and to date the Washington team has won seven and Baltimore four.

High scorer for the event was Olympic smallbore rifle champion, Arthur Cook, with 295 out of a possible 300.

Martin's Ties Sugar Radio, 1-1

Martin's Bakery held Sugar Radio to a 1-1 tie yesterday to throw the Washington Suburban Soccer League into a first-place tie between Sugar Radio and OSIA; both teams have finished their schedule for the second half only one point in front of Maryland Sports Club. The Maryland team still has two games to play. In yesterday's only game

St. Teresa's Wins CYO Title

St. Teresa's defeated St. Martin's, 30 to 29, for the CYO junior basketball league title at Catholic U. yesterday afternoon. The score was tied up at 13 to 13 at half time and was close all the way.

In the Intermediate League, St. Dominic's downed St. Joseph's, 45 to 40 for the crown. St. Dominic's led 25 to 16 at half time. Our Lady of Lourdes took the unlimited championship by defeating St. Anthony's 56 to 46.

Stott Wins National Capitol Bowling

Lindsey Stott of the Cameo team in the men's major district league won the ninth annual National Capitol Open bowling last night at the Brookland alleys with a 1035. Stott rolled one game of 192 on his way to victory, and the $200 first prize. Perc Wolfe had a 1018 for the $100 second place prize.

Toms Auto Wins County Park Title

Toms Auto took the third and deciding game of the championship series from Grotto Grill last night, 31 to 28 for the Montgomery County Park basketball league title. Johnny Shumate led Toms with 16 points.

Boston Takes Second In National Hockey

Boston, March 20 (AP).—Boston's Bruins clinched second place in the National Hockey League tonight by trouncing Toronto's Maple Leafs 7-2 while Detroit's first place Redwings edged the Montreal Canadiens 2-1. The Boston victory, achieved before a sellout 13,900 Boston Garden crowd gave the Bruins a one-point margin over the third place Canadiens.

Hal Shaw, 31, Makes Comeback After 11 Years Out of Boxing

Amateur boxing tournaments, such as the District AAU championships, which continue tomorrow night at Turner's Arena, occasionally uncover some ring oddities.

Take the case of 31-year-old Hal Shaw.

Tomorrow night's program lists a senior division welterweight quarter-final bout between Hal M. Shaw, unattached, and Leon Daughtry, Liberty A. C. Daughtry, one of the best-known District amateurs, is a favorite to win the D. C. AAU title just as he has dominated the Golden Gloves for the past two years.

And Shaw—who is he? His name rings the bell with a lot of the town's business people who know him as the credit manager of one of Washington's larger automotive supply houses. There are others who remember him as a classmate at Southeastern University where he obtained a master's degree in accounting.

Few people know, however, that the 31-year-old native of Wilson, N. C., was something of a whiz kid a decade and more ago among the prep school and amateur boxers of the Carolinas. The 6-footer won the State high school 108-pound championship as a freshman in 1933. Two years later he was a lightweight finalist in the North Carolina interhigh championships.

In 1938 he reached the finals in two Golden Gloves tourneys, the eastern Carolinas event and the Piedmont Golden Gloves, and received offers of boxing scholarships to several colleges.

Although he has been out of the ring for 11 years, Shaw can't get the sport out of his system and he started working out at the Y two months ago after he decided to take his final fling by entering the District AAU tourney.

Upon being asked why he had entered, Shaw drawled, "why, I just though I'd like to get in there and mix it up with the boys again, though maybe I should know better at my age."

You never know who'll be fighting in the amateurs.

Philly Rockets Will Disband

Philadelphia, March 20 (U.P.).—The owners of the Philadelphia Rockets ice hockey team announced today they will disband the club next season an dseek suspension of their franchise in the American Hockey League.

Peter A. Tyrrell, president and general manager of the Philadelphia Arena, which owns the fifth-place Rockets, said it was "handicapped" by the limited seating capacity of its present building. As a result, the club has been unable to compete "on an equal basis" with stronger teams, he said.

Stags Close With 98-61 Win Over Royals

Chicago, March 20 (AP).—The Chicago Stags trounced the Rochester Royals, 98 to 61, before 14,451 fans tonight as the regular Basketball Association of America schedule ended in Chicago Stadium.

The Stags, winding up third in the Western division, with a 38 to 22 record, meet the Lakers in Minneapolis Wednesday in the opening of the league's playoff.

Rochester won the Western bracket title with 45 to 15 and will draw St. Louis in the first round of the playoff.

Mikan Gets 28; Fulks Held to 18

Minneapolis, March 20 (AP).—The Minneapolis Lakers wound up their regular season in the Basketball Association of America by beating Philadelphia, 91 to 78, tonight.

Although George Mikan tallied 28 points to set the Laker's scoring pace, Arnie Ferrin's guarding of Joe Fulks was the highlight of the game. Fulks was held to 18 points and was disqualified late in the fourth quarter after an argument with Referee Frank Scanlon.

Shotton Says Bums Will Win Pennant

(This is another in the series of articles on the prospects of major league baseball teams.)

By Joe Reichler

Vero Beach, Fla., March 20 (AP).—Burt Shotton is not like most major league managers. He thinks his Brooklyn Dodgers are going to win the National League pennant this season and is not afraid to say so for public consumption.

"Sure we'll win the flag," Shotton answers frankly and unhesitatingly, "why shouldn't I say so when I honestly believe it?"

"I've got nine outfielders right now," he says, "but for the life of me, I can't tell you who my regular trio will be. Not one was outstanding last year. Right now I would guess at Duke Snider in center, and Carl Furillo in right. I'd like to have three men play every day, but I'm afraid I'll have to switch, using certain batters against certain kinds of pitchers. No one appears good enough."

Gene Hermanski, last year's right fielder will be tried in left. Other competing flychasers include Marvin Rackley, the club's leading hitter last season; Dick Whitman, Cal Abrams, Tommy Brown, Mike McCormick and George Shuba.

Three quarters of the infield is set. Gil Hodges will be at first, Jackie Robinson at second and Pee Wee Reese at short. No less than eight aspirants are battling for the regular hot corner job.

Will Keep 10 Pitchers

Right now the betting is that either Billy Cox or Spider Jorgensen will win the position. Eddie Miksis, Bob Morgan, Buddy Hicks and Bob Ramazotti are all in the running. Cox played the position most often last year, and Jorgensen was the regular third sacker in 1947.

Roy Campanella and Bruce Edwards, who handled the chores last year, will take care of the catching assignments.

Shotton intends to keep 10 pitchers. Asked to name his "big five," he said he couldn't do it. It is no secret, however, that Shotton is counting heavily on Ralph Branca, Rex Barney, Joe Hatten and Preacher Roe to bear the brunt.

Burt's crying need is for a relief pitcher to replace Hugh Casey. He has the pick of holdovers Harry Taylor, Hank Behrman and Erv Palica and 11 good looking newcomers in selecting his remaining six.

Swiss Find U. S. Team Too Rough, Retire in Huff

Garmisch, Germany, March 30 (U.P.).—Davos ice hockey team of Switzerland leveled a "foul play" charge against the United States Amateur Hockey Association team today and refused to finish their match with the Americans.

Jack Riley of Medford, Mass., the American captain, tried to pursuade the Swiss to return, but they slammed their dressing room door in his face and returned to their hotel.

The United States team led, 3 to ., at the end of the first period when the Swiss squad, resenting the "rough" play of their opponents, left the ice.

Berserk Buffalo Bagged by Cattleman Jack Webb

"Out here at 101 Ranch," says Jack Webb, of Marland, Okla., "buffalo are still 'roaming.' So when a friend asks to park one with us, I'm not too surprised. Once in the corral, this buffalo went berserk, jumped the board fence, breaking a hole through which he bolted. This being a quiet neighborhood, I grabbed my Marlin .32 special and brought him down before he did any damage...but with regret."

An old rodeo man, Mr. Webb used Marlin firearms in the "101 Ranch Show" for many years. "I've got a beard like a buffalo's," he adds, "but Marlin Blades shave me fast and clean. Save me money, too." Single or Double Edge —12 for 25¢; Economy Packs 25 for 50¢, 60 for $1.

The Election of November 2, 1948 GAVE NO MANDATE FOR SOCIALISM

The President and those who support his legislative program have objected to the substance of my previous editorial, which appeared under this headline: "Now is the Time to FIGHT SOCIALISM in Washington."

In that editorial I explained how Washington is poised to follow the disastrous policy of forcing industry to skimp on new plants and new equipment. That policy landed Britain in the numbing embrace of the Socialists. I cited the experience of Britain to show how such skimping on industrial tools can bring a nation to economic stagnation . . . and Socialism.

The President, in his recent Jackson Day speech, brushed aside this warning . . . "They are again trying to frighten the people with the old worn-out bugaboo that Socialism is taking over in Washington." Senator Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania asserted that I was guilty of "warfare against any reasonable effort to keep our system of free enterprise working."

These criticisms may be sincere. But they are not well-founded.

I want to show why they are not well-founded by basing this editorial on Washington rather than Britain.

In Washington the Administration has proposed a legislative program, the key parts of which would clearly put the country far on the road to Socialism. Let us see how.

There are two steps in the process:

FIRST: The government by its taxation program undermines private industry so that it cannot provide itself with the necessary new plant and tools.

SECOND: The government itself steps in to provide the plants and equipment that it has blocked industry from getting. That is Socialism.

Here is how Washington is promoting Socialization of the steel industry—and of other industries.

Steel has been expanding its capacity and improving its equipment chiefly by plowing back its profits. During the last three years it has spent $1.4 billion for new plants and new tools. That was more than the companies had available from their own earnings. But profits provided more than half of that money—more than $700 million. The remainder came from loans and from depreciation reserves set aside out of the earnings to replace worn-out equipment.

Profits must continue to provide the funds needed to pay for the bulk of the steel industry's necessary expansion. That is because private citizens, their income slashed by heavy taxes, have not been willing to buy steel stocks even at prices ruinously low for the companies and their present stockholders. The stock market currently prices the mills and other facilities of the nation's principal steel-producing companies at far less than fifty percent of the cost of reproducing them.

Let us take another example. Profits are essential to expansion in the electric light and power industry also. This year private companies are planning to buy $2 billion worth of new plant and equipment. To do that without going overboard in debt, they must sell to the public some $300 million worth of common stock. A squeeze on their profits would make that sale virtually impossible.

For tens of thousands of small business enterprises profits afford virtually the only practical source of funds for new equipment and expansion.

In the face of these and many other examples that might be cited, what is the most effective way to prevent industry from re-equipping itself and expanding its capacity to meet our essential needs?

Obviously, it is to cut down profits. And that is what the Administration is trying to do. The President has declared that steel prices are too high, and is demanding that Congress raise taxes sharply on all corporations.

There you have the first step toward socializing industry.

Next comes step two. Have the government supply the tools and equipment which, by taxation, it prevents industry from getting.

The Administration has proposed legislation to carry out this second step. It is called the "Economic Stability Act of 1949," for short, the "Spence Bill."

This bill gives the President the power to provide industrial facilities—in steel, power, or any other industry—where he finds that a shortage is hampering or is likely to hamper the economy.

True, the bill says that the government is not to construct new plants if private companies will do it through government loans, on terms prescribed by the President. That may be just one step short of complete socialization. But it is only a short step. And the Spence Bill authorizes the government to take that step.

By itself, the Administration's "Stability Act" sounds harmless enough. It would have the government build plants only as a last resort. But it provides also that if private enterprise cannot turn out all the goods the country needs, the government can and should step in and provide the equipment to do it.

Now, take that power together with an Administration tax program that undercuts the ability of private enterprise to supply the new plants and equipment it needs out of its own earnings. That combination promotes government ownership and operation of industry.

And that is Socialism.

The American people, of course, have the right to live under any system they choose—Capitalism, Socialism, Fascism, Communism, or what-have-you. But before Socialism or any other "ism" is imposed upon us from above, the people should know the facts. If this editorial shall have contributed in some small degree to that end it will have served its purpose.

The election of November 2, 1948 gave no mandate for Socialism.

Several Senators Back Griffin for Assistant Secretary

BENNETT GRIFFIN, the manager of the Washington Airport, has the backing of several Democratic Senators for appointment as Assistant Commerce Secretary for Air.

Another possibility for the little cabinet post is GRANT MASON of the Air Forces. At AF, Mason was an assistant to Cornelius V. Whitney who will be the new Commerce Undersecretary.

JOHN EDELMAN has CIO support to succeed John Gibson as Assistant Labor Secretary. He's the able Washington representative of CIO's Textile Workers of America.

JOHN W. ASKEW is a good bet to be appointed comptroller of the Postoffice Department. John J. Haggerty is retiring from the key post after years of distinguished service. Askew is the assistant comptroller and he's reported to have the suport of Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson for the promotion.

REPRESENTATIVE ST. GEORGE (R., N. Y.) has introduced a bill which would make eligible for pensions those former members of Congress who had at least 12 years of service before August, 1946.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has issued an order which will allow Atomic Energy employes to hold public offices such as constables, deputy sheriffs, and other law-enforcement posts in the States where they are employed.

HAROLD HINTON of The New York Times will remain on at the Pentagon for a temporary period to advise Louis Johnson, the Defense Secretary-designate, on public relations. He resigned last week as chief of public relations for the Office of National Defense.

WILLIAM A. JUMP: An annual award will be made in memory of this late and great public servant. It will be made to the Federal employe under 32 years of age for exemplary achievement and leadership in public administration. The age limit was set out of recognition of Mr. Jump's special interest in outstanding and promising young people.

A memorial fund to finance the awards is being collected by a committee whose chairman is W. A. Minor, assistant to the Agriculture Secretary. Other members are Mr. Jump's Agriculture colleagues such as Earl W. Loveridge, T. Roy Reid, Ralph S. Roberts, Frank H. Spencer, Claude R. Wickard, and M. L. Wilson.

RESIDENCE RULE: Civil Service wants it relaxed. The present rule requires appointees to departmental jobs here to prove one year of residence before appointment. In a letter to Congress, the commission proposed that it be allowed to give probational appointments to those who can't prove residence—but only those who can are appointed.

The present law is particularly annoying to girls who marry when they become eligible for appointments. They must claim the States of their husbands and most of them can't prove residence in them for a year. A person who moves from one State to another also is hamstrung by the law.

JOB NEWS: Civil Service has an exam coming up for warehouse examiner. Salaries, $2974 to $3727 to start . . . Another exam on deck is for general mechanic ($2350 to $3024) to fill jobs in a dozen agencies here . . . A test is being given today for the 130 people here who applied for the printer-proofreader test . . . The librarian exam will be given Wednesday. . . . A total of 177 applicants were rated eligible on the recent cameraman and platemaker test.

The Bureau of Standards will have to fire, on Civil Service orders, its war service and temporary laboratories mechanics in grades SP-7 and 8 in the field of electronics, machine shop and general . . . A new test for substitute postal clerk and carrier in the city postoffice will be given soon. You must apply before April 6 to take this exam . . . Fort Belvoir, Va., is taking applications for railroad foreman and brakeman, warehouseman, saw reconditioner, fork lift operator, tool crim attendant, stream washrack operator, and stock binner.

Miniature Poodle Takes First Over 800 Dogs in Armory Show

By Gene Jones—The Washington Post

DOG SHOW—Little Ronnie Blaszek, 5, of 3517 O st. nw., liked them all at the National Capital Kennel Club's annual dog show at the Armory yesterday. Here Ronnie is pictured with sad-looking St. Bernard, Gaylord Baron Hel-Vik, and schnauzer, Markle von Stortsborg. The St. Bernard was entered by Wallace P. Hellems, of Falls Church, and the schnauzer by Col. K. Johnston, of Fairfax, Va.

A miniature poodle, Champion Snow Boy of Fircot, last night was adjudged best dog in the show at the annual National Capital Kennel Club dog show held at the National Guard Armory.

The 4-year-old winner was handled by Henry H. Stoecker and is owned by the Blakeen Kennels of Stamford, Conn.

Other top winners in the show were: Sporting group, Champion Rock Falls Cavalier, English setter owned by William T. Holt, Richmond, Va.; Hound group, Champion Son of Flick, whippet hound owned by William Berigtold, Baltimore; Working group, Champion Kilburn Ideal, a Doberman pinscher owned by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Shelton, Pottstown, Pa.; Terrier group, Champion Chief Bar Maid, wire fox terrier owned by the Benrook Kennels, Barrington, R. I., and Toy breeds, Champion Little One of Will-Pom-Ken, pomeranian owned by Miss Burneice F. Lovelace, Baltimore.

More than 800 dogs were entered in the show, which took nearly 10 hours to judge. Eight judging rings were kept in continuous operation as some 2000 spectators looked on.

As early as last Thursday the dogs began to arrive here by plane, train and special car for the show and judging. With them came collars, sweaters, bibs, heating pads and special diet formulas.

Hours before the judging began yesterday, whiskers were trimmed, hair clipped and brushed, toenails filed, noses powdered and ears greased.

For most handlers, however, preparations began many weeks ago when they put their show dogs under special rules of diet, exercise and training. The goal, they say, is just the point where the dog is alert but not excited, well-fed but not fat.

And, they insist, anybody can raise show dogs. W. Paul Hellems, who lives at Meadow, and Lee blvd. in Falls Church, Va., raises St. Bernards. Although he admits the seven full-grown dogs he and his wife keep at their home make a cozy little family, the cost of feeding them is small. A pound of horsemeat a day for each dog is plenty and at 17 cents a pound he thinks it's worth it.

U.S. Conducts Tax Checkup On Pyramids

Internal Revenue Gets Information About Winners for Scrutiny Later On

The Bureau of Internal Revenue is informing itself of the identity of pyramid club winners and the amount of their winnings. The information will be filed for comparison with income tax returns.

Eldon P. King, special deputy commissioner, yesterday revealed the bureau's interest in the latest get-rich-quick-and-meet-interesting-people fad.

With a new income tax worry, pyramiders are now under official inspection from four fronts.

Local police have declared the pyramid clubs "lotteries," and illegal. The United States Attorney, with the same belief, has presented the facts to the grand jury, which will hand down its decision today. And Saturday information concerning pyramid clubs was declared "unmailable" by the Solicitor of the Postoffice Department.

King said that 64 deputy collectors, special bureau intelligence units and revenue agents throughout the country are watching the pyramid clubs closely.

These men would learn of pyramid club winners from the newspapers and magazines (although the Postoffice ruling makes it illegal for such publications to mail any issue containing such information), and from "keeping their ears open," King said.

Many pyramid club winners already have refrained from revealing the amount of their winnings for fear of arousing the curiosity of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

One bureau spokesman said that field agents had standing instructions to look out for sweepstakes winners and those who win the daily double at racetracks.

Pyramid winnings would not have to be reported until March, 1950, since the clubs themselves did not start in Washington until after January 1, 1949.

Benning Rd. Viaduct Set For Extension

Construction Work Cost Range Put at $850,000 to $2 Million

Extension of the Benning rd. viaduct over the Minnesota ave. ne. intersection is being planned by the District Highways Department.

A model of the project is being completed and working plans have been started although no funds have been earmarked for the structure as yet. The construction is expected to cost from $850,000 to $2,000,000, depending on what plans are finally adopted.

The present proposal calls for an extension at the same height as the viaduct with a gradual drop after it crosses the intersection. In the center will be a two-lane ramp permitting eastbound cars to descend to Minnesota ave. from Benning rd. and enabling westbound vehicles to get on the viaduct from Minnesota.

Citizens' associations and merchants of the area have complained often of traffic jams at the corner and Highway Department officials feel that widening of Benning rd. by removing streetcar tracks in May will funnel even more cars into the crossing.

After the working plans are finished, the Highway Department will discuss the project with the Federal Public Roads Administration in the hope that some Federal aid may be obtained for the construction.

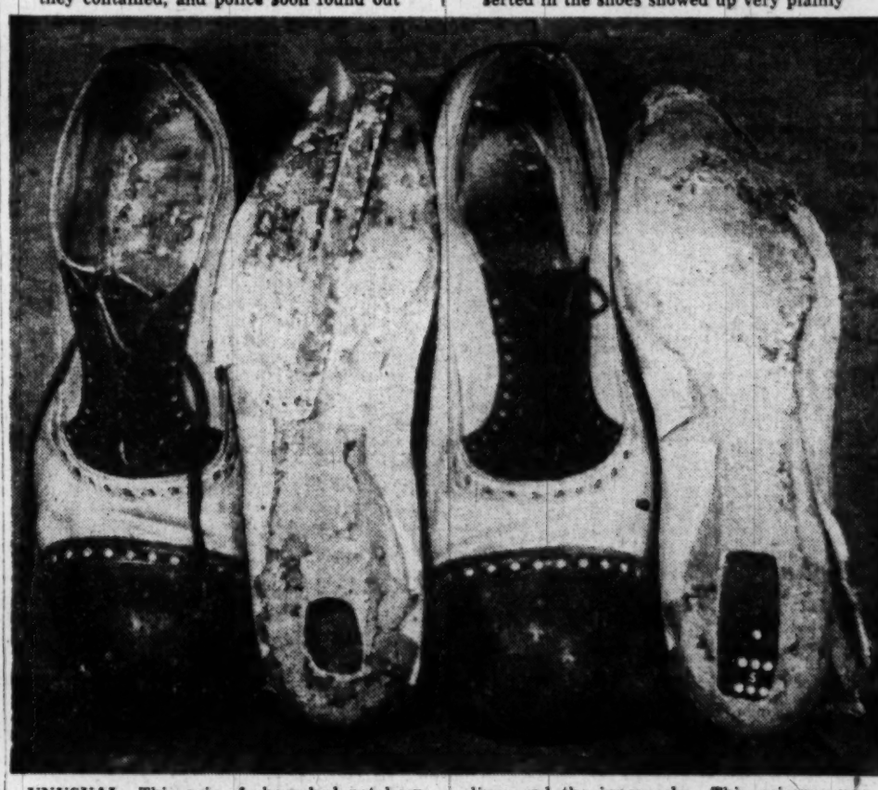
Science Marches Into D. C. Jail

By Henry Ronland—The Washington Post

NO FOOLING—This picture story is fair warning to anyone toying with the idea of smuggling a hacksaw into District Jail in a cake, or in a shoe. A new X-ray machine will show any metal object worn or carried. Demonstrating the machine are (left to right) Custodial Officer James Mothershed, Lieut. Paul H. Preston and assistant superintendent of the jail, Sam A. Anderson. They are pictured at the X-ray booth

HELPFUL—A friend of a prisoner brought this pair of shoes to the jail. This is what they contained, and police soon found out

NO CHANCES—When the shoes were X-rayed, the heavy file and sets of hacksaw blades inserted in the shoes showed up very plainly



UNUSUAL—This pair of shoes had not been tampered with. Instead, a shoe liner had been made and the hack saw inserted between the liner and the inner sole. This prisoner was missing no bets. If the hacksaw failed—note dice in shoe heel at right

D. C. Driver Takes Wrong Lane, Foils Holdup Here

One Back-Seat Bandit Caught as Police Stop Car; Second Man Flees

A motorist with two holdup men in the back seat of his car escaped unrobbed and uninjured early yesterday, when he deliberately drove in the wrong lane of traffic so he would be stopped by a policeman. He was.

As a result, one of the bandits was in police custody last night, while the momentary arrest of the other was expected.

The motorist, Payton B. Langley of 1620 Rhode Island ave. nw., and his companion, Elizabeth S. Thacker of 1631 Euclid st. nw., had just gotten into Langley's car, parked near 14th and E sts. nw., about 1:30 a. m., when they were approached by two men, one of whom brandished an automatic pistol at them as the two jumped into the car, police said.

Give Orders From Back Seat

From the back seat, the men ordered Langley to follow their directions and as he started driving, demanded to know how much money he had, according to police.

Langley obeyed their orders, but when he neared 12th st and Maine ave. sw., he saw a policeman, later identified as Pvt. Eugene P. Smith, of the Fourth Precinct, standing at the curb, so he quietly pulled into the wrong lane of traffic, police said.

Smith signaled him to stop, and started toward the car. As he did so, the two hold-up men jumped from the back seat and started to flee on foot. One of them was apprehended a block away. Identified as Julian R. Swain, 20, a Marine stationed at the Naval Gun Factory, he was charged with assault with intent to commit robbery. The other man is still at large.

Four Admit Hold-Ups

Meanwhile, police said, four men, arrested after a chase late Saturday night, which followed the holdup of a market, admitted four additional hold-ups between them yesterday.

The four men are Glenn A. Anderson, 19, of 1026 Kenyon st. nw.; Ernest V. Willingham, 22, of 1314 10th st. nw.; Clinton L. Kilpatrick, 22, of 1314 10th st. nw., and Johnnie Hogan, 28, also of the 10th st. address. Each is being held under $10,000 bond on a charge of robbery.

Police said Anderson, Kilpatrick and Hogan were identified at a special line-up yesterday as the men involved in two recent holdups. The victims in those cases were George A. Mantzournis, proprietor of a lunchroom at 1717 7th st. nw., who was robbed of $120 March 9, and Mollie Garson, proprietress of a store at 2226 18th st. nw., who was robbed of $30 March 8, police said.

Anderson, Kilpatrick and Willingham were identified as the men involved in the hold-up of Walter Fields in his restaurant at 1700 New Jersey av. nw., March 18, when $67 was taken, police said.

In addition, according to police, Anderson, Kilpatrick and Hogan admitted they held-up a store at 1249 5th st. nw., March 10, where $400 in cash was reported taken.

Three Other Robberies

Three other robberies, all pocketbook snatchings, were reported to police late Saturday night. None of the thieves have been apprehended.

Marian Thorworth, 70, of 1320 Park rd. nw., said she was knocked to the ground and robbed of her pocketbook, containing $2, while walking near New Jersey ave. and Pierce st. nw. She was taken to Garfield Hospital but released after no apparent injuries were found.

Mrs. Ruby Jennings, 34, of 25 M st. nw. reported her pocketbook, containing $20, was snatched while she was standing at the corner of 1st and M sts. nw. Mary Agnes Poe, 48, of 336 K st. sw., said a young boy snatched her pocketbook, containing 28 cents, while she was at Delaware ave. and M st. sw.

Man Wounded By Bullet in Street Brawl

Marine Hit by Tool In Another Fight: Police Arrest Three

One man was wounded and another narrowly escaped being shot when a 50-year-old man fired a .22-caliber rifle several times during a street brawl at 5th and F sts. ne. yesterday morning.

The injured man, Samuel Howell, 35, of 500 F st. ne., was admitted to Casualty Hospital with a bullet wound in his right arm. His condition was reported as satisfactory. The man who was narrowly missed by a bullet was Elmer M. Carroll, 28, also of 500 F st. ne., police said.

Police charged a third resident of the F st. address, Daniel Greenfield, 50, with two counts of assault with a dangerous weapon. They said the three men had gotten into an argument inside the house and had moved out into the street to finish it.

In another altercation yesterday, Herbert Thomas, 45, of 239½ 4th st. sw., received a fractured skull when he was struck on the head with an ax. He was admitted to Emergency Hospital in critical condition. Police charged Kenneth Gerringer, 44, of 914 5th st. ne., with assault with a dangerous weapon.

Marine Cpl. John L. Homan, stationed at the Marine Barracks here, received a skull fracture shortly before midnight Saturday when he was struck over the head with an iron tire tool, during an altercation in the 1600 block Kalorama rd. nw. He was admitted to Garfield Hospital in undetermined condition, police said.

Association to Hold Forum on Tuesday

Civitan Buys Building for Boys Club

By Phillip J. Austensen
Post Reporter

The communities of Bethesda and Chevy Chase in Montgomery County are rapidly moving toward realization of a project that has long been the dream of local leaders—a boys' club.

The Bethesda Civitan Club last week took the bull by the horns. It undertook to buy the Bethesda Methodist Church building at St. Elmo ave. in the Woodmont triangle. The building will be remodeled into a boys' club.

Civitan has paid $5000 of the $25,000 purchase price and is pledged to pay the remainder. The building is expected to be vacated the last of July.

Other service clubs and organizations in the community have been interested in the project and have agreed to aid in raising the annual $15,000 operating fund through popular subscription.

Among those who attended a luncheon meeting of the Civitan Club last week to plan this new service to youth in the community were former County Commissioner Wesley I. Sauter, president of the Rotary Club; Alfred M. Rinaudot, president of the Chamber of Commerce; John Sadler, president of the Lions Club; Police Inspector James S. McAuliffe and County Manager Irving G. McNayr.

It is planned to engage a director early in June to begin the task of recruiting members of the club. Local merchants and citizens have promised materials and labor for the remodeling job.

President William K. Hodges of Civitan has named the following committee to run the project: William Holmes, Walter Moorman, John Cerniglia, the Rev. William Creighton, Paul Stallsmith, John Smith, William Wohlfarth and Dr. Bruce Benjamin. All members of the club will have an active part in the organization and administration. Other organizations also will be invited to take part.

Membership in the National Boys Club of America, Inc., will be sought.

Montgomery County police at the Bethesda substation are ready to aid in the formation of the club and in any subsequent activities that require their assistance.

Pastor Deplores Non-Churchgoing Millions in U. S.

America faces a moral crisis with 70 million persons "unchurched and 30 million church members in name only," the Rev. Lyle V. Newman declared yesterday.

Mr. Newman, national director of city evangelism of the Disciples of Christ, spoke at a meeting of laymen and clergymen from 19 Disciples churches in the Greater Washington area at Ninth Street Christian Church, 9th and D sts. ne. The meeting launched a one-week visitation evangelism campaign.

The project is part of a Nation-wide "Crusade for a Christian World" being conducted by the denomination. One of its goals is the addition of 900,000 new members before Dec. 31, 1950.

Church members will meet at their churches today through Thursday for dinner and instructions before making calls on prospective church members. Disciples' ministers will meet today through Thursday at 10:30 a. m. for progress reports at Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park rd. nw.

Civic Group Barn Dance

The recently formed West Kensington Civic Association will sponsor a country square dance at the Meadowbrook Recreation Center on Beach dr. in Chevy Chase at 8 p. m. today. The event will launch the group's community social activities program for the season.

Shrine Circus Parade Set For Saturday

The Almas Temple Shriners will parade in downtown Washington next Saturday afternoon in full regalia to announce the coming of the eighth annual Shrine Circus to Uline Arena Monday, March 28.

Julius B. Gay, general circus chairman, will announce the details of the parade following a committee meeting today. The parade, he said yesterday, "will pack all the color of a New Orleans Mardi Gras, plus the circus trimmings, and with thousands participating."

The show, consisting of 38 acts and 24 displays, will run for 13 performances. School children not only will get in at reduced rates, but will be let out of school for matinee shows if they buy tickets from parent-teacher groups.

Tickets, priced at $1.20 to $3, are on sale at Lubar's, 13th and G sts. nw., the Almas Temple, 1315 K st. nw., and at Uline Arena, 3d and M sts. ne.

Amputee Faces 5 Charges After Chase by 4 Police Cars

A youthful amputee was charged with five traffic offenses here yesterday after a hectic, high-speed chase involving four police cars from three separate jurisdictions.

Booked at the Eleventh Precinct was James J. Evans, 19, a laborer, of 1147 Stevens rd. Police said he was trapped at a roadblock in Prince Georges County after a five-mile chase that at times reached speeds of more than 75 miles an hour. He was charged with leaving after colliding, driving at an unreasonable speed and three separate counts of passing stop signals.

The pursuit started on the 1100 block of Sumner rd. se., where Evans' light pickup truck reportedly sideswiped a cab driven by Colquitt H. Yearley, of 1222 Sumner rd. Park Policemen Dave Kushner and Charles E. Gwyn, cruising nearby, were flagged down by Yearley, who pointed out the fast-disappearing truck.

As the speed of the chase increased, Kushner radioed for help, and within a few minutes two District scout cars and a Prince Georges cruiser were converging on the evasive Evans.

The pursuit ended on South Capitol st. near Indian Head rd. when the Prince Georges cruiser blocked the road and cut off Evans' only means of escape.

The youth, who told police he lost his right leg in a motorcycle accident about a year ago, was accompanied by two other men, neither of whom was charged. They were not identified by police.

Cairo Club Hearing, 2 Others Set by ABC

District Alcoholic Beverages Control Board will hold three hearings this week including one charging the Cairo Club, 1615 Q st. nw., with outside advertising in a residential district.

The night club hearing will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m. in the Municipal Center. The establishment, which has a Class C license, faced a similar charge previously.

On Thursday, the board will hear a charge of making a sale on Sunday against Rose Altman, trading as the Municipal Meat Market, 1312 B st. se., Class B license.

The third hearing will be to hear protests against a transfer of a Cass A license held by Alex Browdy, trading as Browdy's Liquor Store, from 1416 14th st. nw. to 1918 Allison st. ne.

Sherman in New Post

Norbert F. Sherman, purchasing agent for the Mayflower Hotel, has been appointed purchasing agent for the Hilton Hotels Corp., it was announced yesterday.

Sherman has been on the staff of the Mayflower for 18 years and its purchasing agent since 1945. He is 38 and lives at 4604 Drexel rd., College Park, Md.

Fire in Manhole

A flash fire in a manhole at 18th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw., baffled pedestrians and motorists just before 7 o'clock last night.

The flames were caused by a short circuit in an electric street light cable beneath the street, firemen said. Three pieces of fire apparatus responded to the alarm and extinguished the blaze quickly.

Blood Donations Asked

Christianity Can Stop Reds, Pastor Says

The "get out and get them" spirit of Christianity is the only thing that can stop communism, the Rev. C. Stanley Lowell yesterday told his congregation at Wesley Methodist Church, Jocelyn st. and Connecticut ave. nw.

Mr. Lowell asserted that arms and alliances will not stop communism because "bullets have never been able to stop ideas."

"President Truman recently called for a program to raise the standard of living among the world's underprivileged. He did not do this because he is a do-gooder. He did it because he has begun to suspect that communism can never be stopped by arms," the Methodist minister said.

Even material aid cannot halt communism, Mr. Lowell asserted, adding that its "fanaticism" can only be met by the "joyous abandon of true Christianity."

Church Leader Flays Racial Prejudice

Racial prejudice was denounced as a "cruel and silly thing" here yesterday by Wilbur LaRoe, jr., former moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

"There is nothing more cruel in all the world than to let the color of skin divide us," he declared.

He spoke at a service sponsored by the Interchurch Fellowship, an inter-racial and inter-denominational group, at Fifteenth Street Presbyterian Church, 15th and R sts. nw.

He asserted racial discrimination is worst in British South Africa and the Christian United States, adding "there is no greater sin in the world" than denial of brotherhood.

He was especially critical of the District of Columbia for what he termed the denial of the dignity of man—the main issue, in the world today.

Persons all over America wonder why residents of the District cannot vote, why they judge men by the color of their skins, why the city is second in the Nation in robberies and murders and first in grand and pretty larcenies, he said.

Using as his theme, "History Is Prologue," an inscription on the National Archives Buildings, he asserted District residents hold the obligation of seeing the next chapter in civilization's book is better than the prologue.

While a United Nations is struggling to be born we can "almost see it shoved to one side" as the Western bloc lines up against the Eastern bloc, he said. He called the Atlantic pact a "defense and perhaps a potential battle line."

There can be no reconcilliation with communism with Christianity, he said, calling communism an ideology which reduces the dignity of man to the point of a cog in the service of the state.

He classed race prejudice along with liquor, gambling and broken homes, which he said will wreck society unless curbed. He also declared civilization is helpless without the direction religion gives.

Dickey to Start April 1 With Ohio Firm

James W. Dickey, 35, Washington attorney, will become vice president and general counsel of the Cleveland Chain & Manufacturing Co. at Cleveland, Ohio, on April 1.

J. W. Dickey

Dickey will retain his association in the Washington law firm of Dickey, Knight, Foley, Olverson and Lindsey, which he founded when he returned from the service three years ago. He lives at 8 W. Lenox st., Chevy Chase.

He will also continue to serve as one of the District's two commissioners on uniform State laws, and trustee of the District's legal aid bureau.

A native of Piney Woods, Ala., Dickey came to Washington in 1934 to work for the Federal Housing Administration. He studied at American and National Universities, and served for four years in the Army Air Corps.

Nursery Schools Of Area to Hold First Meeting

Representatives of 35 cooperative nursery schools in Greater Washington will meet Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. in Pierce Hall, 16th and Harvard sts. nw.

This first joint meeting has been called by the Montgomery County Council of Cooperative Nursery Schools and the Federation of Cooperative Nursery Schools of Northern Virginia.

Two delegates and a teacher from each of the schools in the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia will attend, and join in the discussions of membership in the schools, the role of the teacher, and the financial structure.

Milk Fund Benefit Play Set Tuesday

A musical play, for the benefit of the Ladies of Charity Milk Fund, will be presented by the Players of the Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick Tuesday at 8:45 p. m. at the Mayflower Hotel.

Proceeds from the affair, to which the public is invited, will be used by the charity toward reaching this year's $1000 goal. Each year thousands of undernourished children in Washington are furnished milk from the milk fund.

Kenneth Johnson Gets Post at Columbia U.

New York, March 20 (NYHT).—Kenneth D. Johnson, general counsel of the National Security Resources Board, has been named dean of the New York School of Social Work, Columbia University.

Johnson has had a distinguished career as a Government official in the War Department and an officer in the Army. Until his release from active duty as a colonel, in July, 1946, he was a legal adviser to the American Military Government in Germany. Appointed special assistant to the Secretary of War in December, 1946, he served as an alternate member of the special commission selected by President Truman to study the Federal employe loyalty program.

U. N. Jeep Attacked

Seventeen new credit unions were established in Metropolitan Washington during 1948, bringing the total number of credit unions in the District Credit Union League to 123, the league's annual report shows.

Committee and officer reports were made at the fifteenth annual meeting of the Credit Union League at the Hamilton Hotel, Saturday. Officers elected at the meeting were:

James W. Grant, president; L. Lowell Johnson, vice president; Harold Dotterer, treasurer, and Miss Barbara Ryan, secretary. Julius Allen, Paul R. Ashbrook, Arthur A. Gladstone, Madeline M. Guinnane, W. A. Hussong, Charles L. Morton, Elbert Y. Olney, W. T. Parker and R. W. Petersen, elected directors.

Howard U. Gets $25,000 for Cancer Study

•Award of $25,000 for continuation of cancer teaching and control work at Howard University here was made public today by the National Cancer Institute, of Bethseda, Md.

The grant will enable the university to expand its present cancer program in both basic and clinical cancer research, said Dr. Robert S. Jason, professor of pathology and vice dean of the university's School of Medicine.

An initial grant of $25,000 was awarded the university by NCI in February of last year. This money, Dr. Jason explained, was used to set up and operate a combined cancer detection and diagnostic clinic at Freedmen's Hospital which was geared into cancer teaching courses at the university. The clinic opened last July 15.

The Howard University award was the sole local grant among 17 cancer teaching projects totaling $261,416 approved by the Public Health Service Institute.

In another group of cancer grants approved by NCI and made public today the Maryland State Health Department, Baltimore, was awarded $20,674 to finance a cooperative field study in cancer. Heading the field study project are Drs. W. Ross Cameron and Howard W. Jones.

The Maryland grant was among nine awards totaling $170,205 which were approved by NCI for cancer control projects in six States, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

George Bright, Spanish War Hero, Dies

Hopewell, Va., March 20 (AP).—George Washington Bright, Medal of Honor winner in the Spanish-American War, died at the age of 70 today at the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Richmond.

The congressional decoration was awarded Bright for his exploit in clipping the cable connecting Cuba and Spain at Cienfuegos during the conflict of a half-century ago.

He was a native of Portsmouth, Va., but resided here since 1923 and followed his trade as a carpenter. He became ill only recently and was taken to the hospital.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Catherine W. Bright, of Hopewell; three daughters, Mrs. George Marlik, of Hopewell, Mrs. Frank Wartham, of Prince Georges County, and Mrs. E. H. Clatterbuck, of Butterworth, Va.; a son, Harry J. Bright, of Prince George, and a sister, Mrs. Emily D'Young, of Portsmouth.

A graveside military funeral service will be conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. in Blandford Cemetery, Petersburg.

Arthur Thomas Grasso

Arthur Thomas Grasso, 24, son of Mrs. Florence Grasso of 504 Carroll ave., Takoma Park, Md., died Friday in Memphis, Tenn., of injuries suffered when an electric light pole on which he was working crashed to the ground.

A native of the District, Mr. Grasso had been an employe of the Memphis Light, Gas and Water Division, since his discharge from the Navy in September, 1948. An aviation machinist mate first class when he was discharged, Mr. Grasso had served in the Navy since Sept. 13, 1942.

He attended the Takoma-Silver Spring Junior High School prior to his Navy service.

According to a member of his family, Mr. Grasso was moving electric wires from a light pole which was to be removed to make way for a new highway into Memphis, when the pole broke below ground.

Besides his mother, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jean Grasso of Memphis, whom he married four months ago; six sisters, Miss Gloria Grasso, Miss Clorinda Grasso, Miss Betty Grasso, Mrs. Emelia Shannon, all of the Carroll ave. address; Mrs. Violet Sykes, 10106 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, Md., and Mrs. Flora Miller, 9721 Sligo Creek Pkwy, Silver Spring; and three brothers, Frederick Grasso, Anthony John Grasso, and Richard Grasso, all of the Carroll ave. address.

Pfc. E. V. Freeman

Reburial services for Pfc. Edward V. Freeman, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie G. Freeman of 1320 Rhode Island ave. nw., will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at Arlington National Cemetery.

Pfc. Freeman died in Naples, Italy, on November 30, 1943, from battle wounds received a week before.

A native and lifelong resident of Washington, he attended Cardozo High School, where he was in his senior year when he entered Army service on February 2, 1943. He served with the 530th Quartermaster Regiment.

He is survived by his parents.

D. D. Morgan Funeral Rites Today in Tulsa

Funeral services for Dudley Diggest Morgan, 53, Washington native and Oklahoma oil man who died of a cerebral hemhorrage Saturday, will be held in Tulsa at 3 p. m. today. Burial arrangements have not been completed.

Founder and president of the Morgan Oil Co. and a director of the Oklahoma Natural Gas Co., Mr. Morgan was the son of the Dr. James Dudley Morgan, a prominent Washington physician, and Mary Abell Morgan.

He was the great-grandson of A. S. Abell, founder of the Baltimore Sun.

Educated at Georgetown Prep and Harvard, Mr. Morgan entered the oil business in Oklahoma shortly after the first World War, during which he served as a naval lieutenant.

He was a prominent figure in District tennis circles before he moved to Oklahoma and maintained a membership in the Chevy Chase Club until his death.

In 1924 he married the former Rosalind Hollow of Oklahoma, who survives him, along with three children and two brothers.

His daughter, Rosalind H. Morgan, 1403 30th st. nw., is employed at the Central Intelligence Agency here. The other children are Meredith Morgan, a student at Briarcliff College, N. Y., and Dudley Digges Morgan, jr., who is attending a private school on the West Coast.

His brothers are Edwin F. A. Morgan, Glyndon, Md., and Charles Carroll Morgan, 1 Quincy st., Chevy Chase.

Pvt. W. W. Jackson

Reburial services for Private Wilber W. Jackson, 18, who was killed in Italy in 1943 while driving an ammunition supply truck, will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in Arlington Cemetery.

Private Jackson was born in Hardeville, S. C., and came here at the age of two months with his mother, Mrs. Essie Jackson. He attended Cleveland School, and Shaw Junior High School, and worked as a chauffeur and in a meat market before joining the Army in December, 1942.

At the time, according to Mrs. Jackson who owns a cleaning store at 1509 7th st. nw., Private Jackson gave an incorrect age to get into the service without her consent. Mrs. Jackson is the only close survivor.

Pedestals Are Slim Pickings

Women Want Equal Pay, Not Some Sir Walter's Seat on a Street Car

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

DELEGATES for the National Woman's Party Convention, set for April 1, 2, 3, are arriving here—Professors, lawyers, artists, professional women. Their convention has one main purpose—ensuring the adoption of the Equal Rights Amendment by Congress before July, 1949, the end of the anniversary year of the first equal rights meeting at Seneca Falls.

Though women have achieved political equality with men, civil equality remains unwon and there are more than a thousand discriminatory measures detrimental to the feminine sex in these United States.

And since equal rights are too often confused with dixiecratism and civil rights, it's a good idea to state again the amendment's text: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex . . . Congress and the several States shall have power, within their respective jurisdictions, to enforce this article by appropriate legislation . . . This amendment shall take effect one year after the date of ratification."

24 Senators Are Coindorsers

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE was won in 1919, equal nationality rights shortly after. Since 1923 the Equal Rights Amendment has been presented to every Congress. In those dark days only a few legislators encouraged the move. Now 34 Senators, under the aegis of Senator Gillette, are coindorsers and, in the House, Representative Katharine St. George has gathered over an hundred cosponsors among her colleagues.

On March 14, without a dissenting vote, the Equal Rights Amendment (which, incidentally, was included in both Democratic and Republican party platforms and has been endorsed by the President) was reported favorably to the U. S. Senate by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

This is an important triumph and on par with Mme. Pandit Nehru's United Nations victory. In December, 1946, the brilliant Indian lady won her fight—a resolution for all members of the U. N. to carry out the terms of the charter—equal rights for all. Later, the equal rights clause was drafted into the Declaration of Human Rights.

Pedestals Unwanted

BESIDES those intent on keeping women in low-paid brackets, strictly out of competition, there are the unrealistic few claiming they want to protect women, keep them on a pedestal.

Pedestalling today is pretty slim pickings. It consists mainly of such nebulous privileges as having men remove their hats in elevators, permitting women to proceed them through doors and, ever so rarely, give up his bus or streetcar seat. Anita Loos, in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," wrote: "A kiss on the hand is all very nice, but a diamond bracelet lasts forever."

In January the U. N. Commission on the Status of Women adopted a report giving unqualified support to the principle of equality rights for women. Korea and the Philippines have incorporated equal rights in their constitutions. This spring the republics of the Western Hemisphere adopted, for the first time in history, treaties on equal rights for women. All except the United States undertook to establish equal civil rights for women.

The National Woman's Party Convention Committee is chairmanned by Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, with Mrs. Mildred Palmer as hospitality chairman and Mrs. George Mesta as chairman of the public relations committee. The convention will be formally opened at 8 p. m. April 1 in the crypt of the United States Capitol before the Monument to the Pioneers of the Women Movement. The main address will be by Senator Gillette. There'll be a banquet on April 2, a fellowship luncheon on April 3.

MRS. CHARLES F. BRANNAN (left), wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, and Mrs. John J. Hildreth, chairman of the 1949 Presidential Inauguration, and Mrs. Hildreth

At United Nations Club

Reception Saturday to Honor Mr. and Mrs. Melvin D. Hildreth

Melvin D. Hildreth, chairman of the 1949 Presidential Inauguration, and Mrs. Hildreth will be honored at a reception on Saturday, March 26, at the United Nations Club. The White House and Cabinet will be represented at the reception which is being given by friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hildreth.

Mrs. Woodrow W. Grim is general chairman for the event. Preliminary plans were discussed yesterday by Mrs. Grim, Mrs. Charles F. Brannan, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, Mrs. H. J. Miller, Mrs. John J. Sparkman and Mrs. Richard Harless.

A tea dance for the younger set will be held between 5 and 7:30 o'clock at the club with Mr. and Mrs. Hildreth and their son, Richard, as guests of honor. The reception will follow and then dinner and dancing. Officers and members of the various Democratic organizations in the city will take a prominent part in the evening's activities.

Heading the list of speakers for the dinner will be the Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, the Administrative Assistant to the President, Donald S. Dawson; Senator John J. Sparkman and Senator Claude Pepper.

Honorary chairmen of the dinner-reception are Thomas P. Morgan, jr., A. L. Wheeler, Walter H. Maloney and Arthur Clarendon Smith. Mrs. Kenneth C. Royall is chairman and cochairmen are Dr. Minerva L. Martin and John L. Graves.

Mrs. Irving M. Binder, the former Miss Ruth Martha Wottitzky, wore white satin and carried roses and lilacs for her wedding yesterday afternoon. Rabbi Harry J. Kaufman performed the ceremony at Beth Sholom Synagogue and a reception followed. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wottitzky and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice H. Binder. On return from their wedding trip to Florida Mr. and Mrs. Binder will live in Washington

Fete for Senora de Corominas

SENORA DE COROMINAS, wife of the president of the Governing Board of the Organization of American States, will be honored by the Pan American Liaison Committee of Women's Organizations at a luncheon Thursday (March 24), 12:30 p. m., at the United Nations Club, 1701 19th st. nw.

Speakers will be Mrs. Bruno Thomae, wife of the chief engineer of the commission to inspect materials for the Argentine railroads in the United States, and Senorita Digna Munoz, a Chilean journalist.

Mrs. Thomae will tell of her social work in Patagonia where she is vice president and secretary general of Nahuel Pau, an organization to help needy children.

Senorita Munoz has spent many years in working for economic, social and political advancement of women. Since 1940 she has served in the Labor Department of Chile as inspector for agriculture, mines, industry and commerce; and in 1946 she was commissioned by her government to study the work of women in the United States. In 1947 she was granted a scholarship by the Women's Bureau of this country to study the economic and social status of women in Latin America. She is now teaching Spanish here and writing a book.

Among the honor guests will be Senora de Lleras, wife of the secretary general of the Organization of American States; Mrs. William Manger, wife of the assistant secretary general of that same organization; Mrs. Tom Connally, wife of the Senator who is chairman of the foreign relations committee; Mrs. Dennis Chavez who has recently returned with her husband from an extended tour of Latin America, and Mrs. Homer Ferguson, wife of the Senator.

Gamma Phi Beta Alumnae Elect Mrs. R. C. Callander

At its recent meeting the Washington Alumnae Chapter of Gamma Phi Beta unanimously elected Mrs. R. C. Callander of Alexandria, as its president.

Other officers elected for the coming season were: Vice president Miss Patricia O'Laughlin, of Arlington treasurer, Miss Cecelia Buckner, of Takoma Park; recording secretary, Miss Dorothy Sacks, of Chevy Chase, and corresponding secretary, Miss Mary Jane Reiney, also of Chevy Chase.

Mrs. Callander was also elected to represent the chapter at the Province VIII conference in Winter Park on the weekend of March 27.

Infectious Colds Spreading Here

SPECIAL REPORTS SHOW COLDS ON INCREASE!

As miserable colds continue to spread through many neighborhoods, mothers today are advised to follow these simple health rules:

Live normally. Avoid excesses. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Avoid crowds. And if anyone in your family does catch a cold, always remember . . .

The best-known home remedy you can use to relieve distress of colds is warming, comforting Vicks VapoRub!

STARTS INSTANTLY . . .

The moment you rub it on throat, chest and back, VapoRub starts right to work to bring relief. It Penetrates into upper bronchial tubes with special medicinal vapors. It Stimulates chest and back surfaces like a good comforting poultice.

WORKS FOR HOURS . . .

And . . . VapoRub actually keeps up this wonderful Penetrating-Stimulating action for hours—keeps working to bring relief even while you sleep! It relieves coughs, soothes irritation, and relieves muscular soreness and tightness. Often by morning the worst miseries of the cold are gone!

But remember . . . you get this special Penetrating-Stimulating action only when you use Vicks VapoRub! So for children and for grown-ups, always be sure you relieve distress of colds with the one and only Vicks VapoRub.

How to Care for Mahogany Furniture

Please tell me the proper way to take care of mahogany furniture. I have used a colored (mahogany) wax on it, but when I dust, regardless of the cloth I use, it seems to leave a tint of powder like consistency. Would it be better to use a furniture polish? Also, what type of cloth should I use?

C. G.

In applying either wax or furniture polish to furniture it must be applied very thinly and then rubbed long enough so that all the oiliness disappears. If the furniture has not been rubbed to a hard dry gloss, lint and dust adhere to the surface, causing the difficulty you are now having. Apply wax or furniture polish to furniture only three or four times a year. Between applications, frequent vigorous rubbings with a soft, lint-free cloth to remove surface dust and to polish it will keep it fine. Probably all you need to do to your furniture to get a hard dry finish is to rub it until the oiliness is all gone. If you feel there is too thick a layer of wax on it now to be rubbed down well, remove the present wax by using a liquid cleaning wax, rubbing while wet, then apply a very thin coat of either wax or a good grade of furniture polish. Furniture polish doesn't leave as heavy a protective coating of wax on the wood, as polishing it with wax, but is fine for the surfaces of pieces which do not receive hard wear. For a polishing cloth, you could use much worn and washed pieces of silk, rayon or linen cloth. Or, use lintless furniture polishing cloths which are sold where housewares are sold.

Could you tell me how to clean crocheted pieces at home other than washing? It seems to me I have heard you could clean them with something—maybe corn meal. I hope you can help me.

A. C.

An old time method for cleaning small lace doilies and such things was to put them into a fruit jar with corn meal or corn starch, cover the jar and shake it. To have more cleaning effect you could mix carbon tetrachloride into the corn meal before placing it into the jar.

On the Party Front...

By Norma Lanum

CONGRESSIONAL Club members—sometimes known as Congress' "better half"—donned new spring hats and brought their husbands, and in many cases their children, to a reception yesterday honoring Vice President Alben Barkley.

All told, about 300 members and friends of "official Washington" dropped in at the stateley clubhouse on Massachusetts ave. to shake hands with the country's number two executive.

"Buzzy" and "Candy" Cain, who came along with their parents, Senator and Mrs. Harry Cain, were probably the youngest of the congressional offspring there to meet the Vice President.

The Congressional Club president, Mrs. Ralph E. Church, wife of the Representative from Illinois, headed the receiving line. Then came the Vice President and his chic daughter, Mrs. Max Truitt. The club's other officers, together with their husbands, completed the queue.

Many of the guests remained on the second floor where tea was served to the accompaniment of the red-jacketed Marine Corps Band.

Among those glimpsed there were Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. George V. Allen in a group with Representative and Mrs. Mike Mansfield, and also the Hawaiian Delegate and Mrs. Joseph Farrington. Former Ambassador to the Philippines and Mrs. Emmit O'Neal were there with their daughters, Lydia and Mary.

And others were Representative and Mrs. George Grant, Senator and Mrs. Owen Brewster and Count Nicholi Rochefort of Paris who is lecturing in this country.

All the Supreme Court and Cabinet members and their wives had been invited and also ECA Administrator and Mrs. Paul G. Hoffman, Senate Chaplain and Mrs. Frederic Brown Harris, House Chaplain and Mrs. James Shera Montgomery, Senate Parliamentarian and Mrs. Lewis Deschler, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Roy, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Duke, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Callahan, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Frederick, Rear Admiral and Mrs. George W. Calver, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Galloway, Andrew J. Kramer and Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Dillon, and many, many more.

Mrs. Carroll D. Kearns, wife of the Representative from Pennsylvania, was chairman of the affair and she had assisting her Mrs. Clinton P. Anderson, wife of the Senator from New Mexico; Mrs. Raymond Baldwin, wife of the Senator from Connecticut; Mrs. John W. Bricker, wife of the Senator from Ohio; Mrs. Clifford Davis, wife of the Representative from Tennessee and Mrs. Clark Thompson, wife of the Representative from Texas.

Mrs. John C. Kunkel, wife of the Representative from Pennsylvania, and Mrs. William Reed headed the hostess committee. They were assisted by the club's past presidents Mrs. Jamce C. Byrnes, Mrs. Porter Dale, Mrs. Will M. Whittington, Mrs. Daniel A. Reed, Mrs. Edward R. Burke, Mrs. John Taber, Mrs. Harold H. Burton and Mrs. Clifford Davis.

The floor committee, which was chairmanned by Mrs. S. Otis Bland, wife of the Representative from Virginia, also included Mrs. Walter F. George, wife of the Senator from Georgia, Mrs. Sterling Cole, wife of the Representative from New York, and Mrs. Harold D. Cooley, wife of the Representative from North Carolina.

For Spring's new distinction a woman chooses The Jacket Dress

Washington...

Dress with jacket . . . with a beautifully composed, a perfection-to-the-smallest-detail air about it. This is spring's first fashion, with very little if any competition. And little wonder . . . for it is an ensemble, complete in itself. Then, when you wear the dress alone . . . it is another fashion, equally assured. The jacket dress . . . for morning . . . or afternoon . . . for town . . . for travel . . . perfect choice for Washington.

All in print, chessmen on dark ground . . . a wide-lapeled jacket, smartly cut . . . a slender dress. Navy, black, brown. Sizes 16 to 44 . . . . . $69.95

All in black or navy rayon crepe—a dress, a full-length redingote, with self-tab trim in checkerboard motif. By I. Doctor. Sizes 18 to 44 . . . . . $79.95

Black or navy, combined with print—dress and bolero, beautifully styled dress with polka-dot bodice, gracefully gored dark skirt. Bolero lined in polka dot which shows at collar and cuff, too. Navy, sizes 18½, 44. Black sizes 14½ and 38 . . . . . $135

Mary Haworth's Mail

Young Wife, Whose Husband Has Chosen Navy As His Career, Is Distressed by People's Hostile Reactions to Her Friendly Overtures

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My mother told me in my early teens that I would never be liked; that those who met me would either hate me or love me. She would never explain the remark, but it seems she surely spoke the truth.

It seems that I bring out the very worst in other people. My slightest comment seems to stir up rage and contempt, and I simply cannot understand it, because I try to meet people at least halfway in friendship. Although all my invitations are accepted, none are reciprocated.

Being the eldest in a family of seven, I was obliged to meet responsibilities much earlier than the average youngster, and I have been told that I am unfeminine because I do not gossip about other folks' business or shortcomings.

She's Sensitive, But Civilized

I LIKE people, hence my inability to fit into groups is "hard to take." My husband has chosen the Navy as his career, thus we move often and encounter new people, which complicates the problem. More and more I am staying to myself, reading, sewing and listening to the radio—and I am 27, not middle-aged.

I have tried to discuss the problem with my husband, my pastor and our doctor, and each has expressed the same opinion—that I am attractive, neat and have a nice personality. But these are men's opinions, and I hunger for friendly get-togethers with women. Being sensitive is part of the trouble, I'm sure; but I don't have tempers and I don't probe into others' affairs. Can you help me understand the problem, and give me insight to correct it? C. J.

Due to Mother, She Fears Women

DEAR C. J.: It seems your problem is not with people generally but with women specifically; and that in relation to women you are inhibited from normal give-and-take due to a fixated notion that women despise you.

Also it seems pretty plain that the difficulty goes back to a "rejected" status (or conviction of same) in relation to your mother, who probably treated you to an uneven mixture of plaintive interest and irritable censure—with the result that you are always, unconsciously, fearfully anticipating critical reactions from all women.

Your mother was sounding off, speaking for herself, airing an edgy personal sentiment as if it were fatal prophecy, when she pontificated once that you would never be liked; that people would either love or hate you. The essential meaning of her statement is that (1) you and she weren't really congenial spirits, and (2) that she assumed everybody would have extremes of "feeling" about you, too, as she often had—veering between sentimental care and sharp hostility.

Women Aren't Very Kind to Each Other

YOU SAY that as the eldest of seven children, you were obliged to meet responsibilities at a tender age. This suggests that your mother's burdens were heavy, too, and doubtless she expected more "help" from you than any child could give, and was habitually sharp with weariness, so that rage and contempt seemed to be her characteristic emotional pitch—and you felt it was all aroused by and aimed at you.

Perhaps you were the special goat—in large broods there is usually one,—but then again, it may be that she was equally thorny with the others at times. In any case, your dynamic fear of woman's disapproval was deeply fixed before reason dawned. And because you are afraid of women, yet eager for friends, you doubtless rub them the wrong way to start, with nervous mannerisms that create a strain.

However, about women: They're seldom ideally nice to each other; and to get on with them normally, in numbers, you've got to be robustly indifferent to their meows. Indeed, the general run of "best friends" are apt to be catty and selfish as often as kind; and women with savvy take this for granted without being frightened. But in your state of mind, you need a few sessions with a good psychiatrist to drain off anxiety, revive self esteem and get squared off for balanced living. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

Chilean Counselor Comdr. Talman, Fiancee

The honor guests were Senator de Rodriguez's brother, Comdr. B. L. Edes Talman, U.S.N., and his bride-elect, Miss Rosalyn Rust.

Bread for Filling

If you have accumulated quite a lot of bread and are afraid it will mold before you want to use it for filling, put it in a bag and keep in the refrigerator until ready for use. It will keep splendidly in an electric box for a number of days without changing the quality.

ERVIN LASZLO, 16-year-old Hungarian pianist who will make his Washington debut Thursday evening in Constitution Hall, enjoys some American food with his mother at a Washington restaurant. Ervin has grown three inches in the 11 months he's been in America, eating American food, and towers over his tiny mother

Ervin Laszlo Is a Self-Made Man

The Care and Feeding of a Genius

By Sonia Stein

Suppose you had a son so talented that he made his piano debut with the Budapest Philharmonic at the age of 9, and at the age of 15 won first place in the International Music Competition at Geneva in competition with more than 400 musicians aged 15 to 35.

Suppose your son was so talented that at the age of 15 when he made his American debut in New York one critic called him the most remarkable young pianist he'd encountered in 20 years in New York and others called him unrivalled and peerless.

Would you treat him like a genius, coddle him and make him sit with his gifted hands folded when he wasn't practicing?

Mrs. Steven Laszlo, whose son Ervin—now 16—will make his Washington debut Thursday night in Constitution Hall, doesn't coddle her son a bit. She wants him to have as nearly normal a life as possible—as nearly normal a life as a boy who spent a year hiding from the Nazis in occupied Budapest can have.

Ervin has many outside interests. He enjoys sports and could be trained as an athlete, his mother says. He doesn't row or play tennis because he finds that his fingers get stiff when he does—but that's something he found out for himself, and is not something his mother forbade. He spends a good deal of time at Madison Square Garden watching the boxing, basketball and skating.

He pursues his daily lift with singular disregard for his hands, not even bothering to wear gloves in cold weather.

Although developing pictures is not noted for its salutary effect on the hands, Ervin has his own dark room and develops all of his own pictures, which include, for example, such trick shots as three Ervins seated around a table, playing cards with one another.

On tour, he photographs the points of interest. In Washington two weeks ago, en route to Texas for a concert, Ervin took pictures of the Lincoln Memorial and the Capitol, and one of his mother and himself together which he accomplished with a delayed action shutter.

Because Ervin's father spent two years on the Russian front as a slave laborer and is now in Havana—the closest he can get to his family because of immigration regulations—Mrs. Laszlo must be mother and father to her son.

And yet she lets him make his own decisions. Even in his music she lets him go his own way, with a minimum of supervision, although she is his practice supervisor, too. She started to teach him when he was 5 and in six months he had progressed beyond her and began to study with the famous Dohnanyi.

Now, except for occasional periods of study with Georges Enesco and Rudolph Serkin, he works alone. He relies on his mother's criticism and wire recordings of his practicing, to tell him what phases of his work need more polishing.

Ervin and his mother go to concerts together and "he is always so polite to me, as if he were a young man with his girl," Mrs. Laszlo says. As far as bringing up Ervin to be unspoiled, she says, "He makes everything so easy."

"I have never had to argue with Ervin; he has always behaved just like a grownup. In fact, he's the man of the family," she says.

And it's true. During the years when Mr. Laszlo was a slave laborer on the Russian front, where he lost his foot in a land mine explosion, Ervin took care of his mother. Even when the streets were being strafed by machinegun fire, Ervin would take the pitiful mixture of flour, yeast and water his mother had mixed to the baker—since they had no heat or gas in their apartment—dodging in doorways to escape the strafing, when his mother, ill from malnutrition, couldn't leave the house.

Mrs. King to Be Hostess At Zonta Silver Tea

The Zonta Club of Washington will sponsor a silver tea at the studio of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth King, 1518 28th st. nw., from 4 to 6 p. m. Saturday, March 26, for the benefit of the club's scholarship fund. Mrs. King has arranged an exhibition of her own paintings for the tea. Guest of honor will be Mrs. Louise Wang, Zonta's scholarship student who is working at George Washington University for her master's degree in physiology.

Australian Baritone Sets Benefit Recital

Wilson Ewart, Australian baritone, will give a recital at Pierce Hall, 16th and Harvard sts. nw., Monday, April 4, at 8:30 p. m. for the benefit of the European Children's Fund of the Business and Professional Women's Club of All Souls Church, Unitarian. Tickets are available at the church office.

Mr. Ewart has toured through Australia and New Zealand as a radio and concert artist under the auspices of the Australian Broadcasting Commission and the New Zealand Broadcasting Board. Among his engagements in concert and oratorio he sang opposite Maggie Teyte in Alfred Hill's Maori legend "Hinemoa," taking the leading role of Tutanekai in a performance by the Royal Philharmonic Society of Sydney. He is a specialist in Scottish folk songs.

On the staff of the Australian embassy in Washington, Mr. Ewart has made his home here for a number of years.

This New Coffee Flavor Makes Early Morning Angels
It turns Bears into Dears... it's a wonderful, wonderful spirit-lifting success
Yes, it's "angel-making"—this wonderful new Chase & Sanborn blend! "What's in it?" people ask!
The answer is Selecciones (pronounced seleck-see-o-nays). That's the Spanish for selected... some coffees selected mainly for perfecting body... others selected mainly for perfecting flavor. The flavor coffees in this heavenly new blend are hand-selected 1-2-three times!
1. Hand-selected from shade-grown, pedigreed trees.
2. Hand-selected at the peak of ripeness.
3. Hand-selected before and after curing.
No wonder it's so delicious. Try it! If you don't think it's the best coffee you ever tasted, just send us the unused portion and we'll give you double your money back. Get your pound today! (It's vacuum-packed, of course.) And long live your houseful of early morning angels!
WONDERFUL COFFEE IN 2 SECONDS
Chase & Sanborn's new Instant Coffee Product costs about a penny a cup... No pot... no grounds... no waste... no wait!

One on the Aisle—

Betty Hutton's A Real Honey

By Richard L. Coe

THE RISK OF WRITING about Betty Hutton is that a guy's likely to find he's come up with that lush, rickety prose you find in the fan magazines.

Don't get me wrong. The fan magazines have their place, as my wife always tells me when she gets out of the hairdresser's; she always returns with a charming nugget about one of Destiny's Kids. But, after all, we try to have a little tone around here and the obvious extremes are to be avoided.

But Betty is the sort you'd go to extremes about. On the screen Betty's made brass respectable and her vitality is too well known to discuss. She's made a real niche for herself and the youngsters love her.

After spending a couple of hours with Betty I'm happy to report I'm sold on the girl. She's strongly outspoken, direct and sensible, besides, of course, being quite an eyeful.

We got to talking about Ethel Merman, an equally outspoken lady whose ruthlessness with any player who tries to steal a scene while she's working is pretty well known. The first time I'd seen Betty was with Ethel in "Panama Hattie" and Betty copped a good deal of applause. "How'd you and Ethel get along?" I asked.

"Swell," was Betty's instant reply. "I know Ethel's supposed to be unenthusiastic about sharing her scenes, but she certainly never held me back. Besides, if I were a big-time musical comedy star, I'd insist on the best of everything for myself. I never tried fooling around while Ethel was working and she sure was fine with me."

So, despite another lady performer's feud with Ethel, I'm inclined to go along with Betty's realistic approach and respect for musical comedy's Queen Ethel.

The Hutton exuberance is natural. The rigors of a quick trip from the coast and lack of sleep didn't dampen her when she spoke of what's closest to her heart, her family.

Theda Bara's Next

For the rowdy lass of the movie comedies is frankly hipped about being mama to Ted Brisken's two babies, Lindsay, almost 3, and Candy, almost 2. She's taken several years from her movie work to get them started in the world and she's dynamite about what she wants for them.

"I didn't have an easy or happy childhood," she remarked, "so, by golly, I want my kids to have the finest childhood possible. My sister Marion and I started working early and we led a pretty rough life, tracking around the country. I guess, too, that got the wild oats out of me early, for as long as I can remember I've wanted to settle down just the way Ted and I have done. It's wonderful to be able to buy them the things Marion and I couldn't have as children and I'll always be grateful that we're able to start our youngsters out with happy childhood memories."

Paramount has two epics coming along for Betty. With Victor Mature she's done a musical, "Red, Hot and Blue" and, with Buddy De Sylva as producer, she's working on a life story of Theda Bara, prompted by her success as Pearl White in "Perils of Pauline."

I know this sounds like something out of a fan magazine piece by Floribelle Flowers, but I'm sure Betty's secret of success lies within her inherent honesty. You just can't help admiring this and it comes out on the screen.

TONIGHT finds drama editors of our illegitimate town with travel orders in opposite directions . . . The Barter Theater will be playing its "Hamlet," with Hume Cronyn, in Arlington's Washington-Lee High School, for which you can get tickets at the Willard Hotel's bureau . . . Over in Baltimore, at Ford's, Judith Anderson will be doing her enthused-over "Medea." . . . Mondays are easier traveling nights for Ye Ed, so he's off to Baltimore, postponing the Barter's "Hamlet" until Thursday night at Arlington Farms, for which you can get seats downtown at Lubar's. . . . You might call that a preliminary recommendation.

"ARENA" ACTRESS: June Weaver, who'll appear in the Arts' Club "arena," or "central" staging production of J. B. Priestley's "Dangerous Corner," tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday nights in the club rooms at 2017 I st.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—The first group of British factory workers who are being sent here by the ECA to compare manufacturing processes, sailed from Southampton last week on the Queen Mary. Leonard Ray, a 58-year-old foundry worker, was selected to sail with this first group. . . . This was his first time aboard a ship. When he boarded the Queen Mary a guide offered to show him around the vessel. But Ray already knew what he wanted to see first: he headed directly to the prow of the ship, and stared in admiration at the anchor. "Does an anchor fascinate you?" the foundry worker was asked. . . . "This one does, he said, 'I cast it."

Charles Boyer, who has closed in "Red Gloves," was the victim of a backstage robbery after he left. His dressing room was rifled . . . Such is the state of the Theater: 184 members of Equity responded to a casting-call for the Equity Library Theater's production of Ibsen's "Lady From the Sea," which has only eight parts. And the actors receive no pay for this . . . Richard Frankensteen, the former union leader who ran for the Mayoralty of Detroit, said in New York last week that he will run again . . . Jerome Zerke, the society photographer, plans to spend the summer in Europe after a Guggenheim Fellowship, photographing seventeenth century chateaus throughout the continent.

Robert E. Sherwood, who is putting the finishing touches to "Miss Liberty," the musical for which Irving Berlin is writing the score, went to New Haven last week to see the try-out performance of "South Pacific." At a party Sunday night, Sherwood, a daring baritone, began to sing some of the Rodgers & Hammerstein songs from "South Pacific." Howard Lindsay removed his hands from his ears long enough to ask: "Why do you sing songs from a rival show? Why don't you sing the Berlin tunes from your show?" . . . "Sherwood's no fool," Russel Crouse explained. "This is his way of murdering the opposition."

When Ingrid Bergman discussed with Rossellini the movie they will make in Italy next month, he told her that there would be no script—that the director and the star would create the dialogue before each scene. "We'd be writing it together," he said. Miss Bergman beamed: "That's wonderful. I've always had a desire to be a writer—to speak my own lines."

Postlude

Applause Rings Out For Melton

By Paul Hume

James Melton sang his first Sunday recital in Washington in several seasons yesterday afternoon in Constitution Hall.

His devoted audience thus had the chance to compare their idol's appearance in cutaway and striped flannels with his more usual evening dress. They seemed to like him equally well in the less formal outfit. What's more, they filled the house.

Applause rang out precisely the same way for Wagner's Prize Song, items by Caldara, Donizetti, Franck, Grieg, and Arensky. Encores came early and often, and almost became the rule of the day. Melton's voice, his smile, his program, all seemed unchanged and unchanging. Carroll Hollister played as he has in the past, without feeling, but without using music either. Perhaps there's a connection.

For Meltonians it was a grand, warm occasion. For lovers of singers it was something else. The two did not seem to conflict, and that's nice. Going back to the applause, why should it change from number to number? The singing didn't.

Applause Rings Out For Melton
By Paul Hume
James Melton sang his first Sunday recital in Washington in several seasons yesterday afternoon in Constitution Hall.
His devoted audience thus had the chance to compare their idol's appearance in cutaway and striped flannels with his more usual evening dress. They seemed to like him equally well in the less formal outfit. What's more, they filled the house.
Applause rang out precisely the same way for Wagner's Prize Song, items by Caldara, Donizetti, Franck, Grieg, and Arensky. Encores came early and often, and almost became the rule of the day. Melton's voice, his smile, his program, all seemed unchanged and unchanging. Carroll Hollister played as he has in the past, without feeling, but without using music either. Perhaps there's a connection.
For Meltonians it was a grand, warm occasion. For lovers of singers it was something else. The two did not seem to conflict, and that's nice. Going back to the applause, why should it change from number to number? The singing didn't.

BIDS AND PROPOSALS 6

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Procurement Section, National Bureau of Standards, 620 11th st. nw., Washington 25, D. C., until 2 p. m. March 31, 1949, and then publicly opened, for the installation of piping and heat exchanger in Building No. 96, as described in the specifications and drawings which may be obtained from the Procurement Section, National Bureau of Standards.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Procurement Section, National Bureau of Standards, 620 11th st. nw., Washington 25, D. C., until 2 p. m., April 5, 1949, and then publicly opened, for Precision slotted line and probe carriage for impedance measurements, as described in the specifications which may be obtained from the Procurement Section, National Bureau of Standards.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE, Washington, D. C., March 21, 1949. Sealed proposals in triplicate will be received at this office until 10 a. m., Friday, April 1, 1949, and will be opened immediately thereafter, in the presence of such bidders as attend, for producing in the City of Washington, District of Columbia, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1950, copies of drawings of pending applications and patents, trade-mark applications, and of foreign patents, papers, and exhibits by photographic or other process. The prices named will be considered in connection with the ability of the bidder and his plant to do and deliver within a specified time first-class work, and, prior to the determination of an award, such preliminary investigation as to the qualifications of bidders and efficiency of plant will be made as the Department shall deem necessary. A low bid, unsupported by satisfactory evidence as to ability to perform the work in agreement with the terms of the proposals and contracts to be awarded, will be rejected. All bids accepted and contracts awarded subject to an appropriation by Congress to meet the expense. Lack of commercial standing on the part of the bidder or inadequate facilities or plant with which to perform the work specified will constitute good and sufficient grounds for the rejection of such a bid. Bidders whose work has been unsatisfactory in the past or bidders who are not complying with the provisions of the Walsh-Healey Act, Public, 846, of the Seventy-fourth Congress, may be eliminated from consideration on that ground. Specifications and specimens, with forms of proposal, will be furnished on application to the Executive Officer of the Patent Office. All bidders are invited to be present at the opening. The right to reject any and all bids, in whole or in part, is hereby reserved. All plates used in color work or half-tone work to be the property of the Patent Office. The number of colors used in the color work to be in accordance with the drawings as furnished. All work of current issue (Class A) to be performed in the District of Columbia. LAWRENCE C. KINGSLAND, Commissioner. Mar. 21

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE, Washington, D. C., March 21, 1949—Sealed proposals (in triplicate) will be received at this office until 10 a. m., Friday, April 1, 1949, and will be opened immediately thereafter, in the presence of such bidders as attend, for producing during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1950, by planographing, or other process, copies of drawings of the weekly issues of patents; and for the reproduction of exhausted copies of drawings and specifications, etc., by planographing. The prices named will be considered in connection with the ability of the bidder and his plant to do and deliver within a specific time, first-class work, under the conditions above, except that no specific number of pages can be estimated for producing or reproducing by the color process of photoengraving, copies of drawings of patents on plants. Under these same conditions, producing by half-tone process, copies of drawings of patents on plants. Prior to the determination of an award, such preliminary investigation as to the qualification of bidders and efficiency of plant will be made as the Department shall deem necessary. A low bid, unsupported by satisfactory evidence as to ability to perform the work in agreement with the terms of the proposals and contract to be awarded, will be rejected. THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Theoretically, You Have The Right of Way

Egged on by L. Bickford of 2521 Connecticut ave. nw., I have just completed some legal research which reveals that pedestrians (hear, hear!) have some rights.

A pedestrian in an "uncontrolled" crosswalk has the right of way over vehicles. Motorists are supposed to stop, if necessary.

A similar theory governs "controlled" crosswalks, which are run by policemen or traffic lights.

If a pedestrian begins his journey on a green light which is not countermanded by a "Don't Walk" sign, he has the right of way—even against turning traffic, and even if the light changes while he's en route.

The pedestrian is supposed to hustle to the nearest safety island, and wait there for the next green light, or if there is no safety island he's to proceed to the far curb. In either case, he theoretically retains the right of way until he's out of danger.

But he's not advised to press the point when he encounters a motorist who cares to dispute it. Automobiles are seldom killed in these encounters; but we do lose an alarming number of pedestrians.

Of course if you should ignore the crosswalks, and jaywalk across the middle of the block, then you've lost your right of way, and you're just looking for trouble.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Black mother cat and two kittens." (Emerson 8768, evenings.)

"Four kittens, ready for delivery in about 6 weeks; select one now." (Union 7744.)

"Extremely healthy cross between cocker and English setter, 1 year old, needs space to run." (Falls Church 7780.)

CONFUSION, REVISITED

The other day I described the snafu over segregation which is preventing the Interior Department from turning over its local golf courses to the District Recreation Board.

In addition to the segregation issue, the same tweedle-dee tweedle-dum theme runs through a second point of issue—money.

Discussions between Interior's Assistant Secretary C. Girard Davidson and the Recreation Board's Harry Wender run like this:

Davidson: I can't turn the courses over to the Board, because the Board admits it has no money to operate them, or buy out Leoffler.

Wender: Of course we're not sitting on a bankroll of several hundred thousand dollars—and for that reason we're not asking for control of the courses now. We're asking that Leoffler's renewal be limited to one season, so that we can get Congressional authorization for the transfer, meantime.

Davidson: The season is starting. Somebody has to prepare the courses for play—and we have a commitment to Leoffler. So we're giving him a 5-year renewal.

Wender: The commitment shouldn't have been made in the first place. And even if it was, Leoffler's contract stipulates that it can be canceled by the Secretary of the Interior.

Davidson: I've already said that Leoffler's operations will be reviewed at the end of this season, and if his work is not satisfactory, the contract will be canceled.

Wender: Then why give him a 5-year contract? Why not make it for 1 year?

DREAM SCHEME

When some setback I receive
And Fortune's face stops beaming,
Then I take some annual leave
And catch up on my dreaming.

VAGRANT THOUGHT

With Diesel and electric locomotives rapidly replacing the old steam engines, will the kids still call them "choo choo" trains?

GIVE 'EM "TIME" AND THEY MAY COME TO "LIFE"

The President says this is a new Congress, so let's be patient with it for a while and maybe it'll do a better job.

That sounds fair enough. Let's give 'em until the end of next year.

Listen to Bill Gold's "This Is Washington," the District Line on the Air, Monday through Friday, over WTOP, from 10 a. m. to Arthur Godfrey time at 10:30.

MMM! AREN'T THESE ROLLS DELICIOUS?
THEY'RE THE KIND I LOVE FOR BREAKFAST..... AND NEVER GET!
I THINK I'LL PUT WHAT'S LEFT IN MY POCKETBOOK TO TAKE HOME!
WINNIE!! PLEASE! PEOPLE WILL SEE YOU!
NONSENSE!! WE PAID FOR THEM!
WE'LL NEVER BE ABLE TO COME IN HERE AGAIN!
OH, STOP BLEATING! YOU'LL BE THE FIRST TO EAT 'EM WHEN WE GET HOME!!

BARNABY

This statue Barnaby made of Mr. O'Malley means the pixie is REAL to him, Ellen. The boy needs companionship.
Maybe YOU could spend more time with him— read out loud to him, say—
Okay. I'll suggest it. Maybe fairy tales will help him to understand fairy godfathers are just imagination.
I'd like that, Pop. Say, Mom, Mr. O'Malley says would you please do him a favor? This is the first day of Spring.
Oh dear! NOW what?
This is the day he takes off the ear-muffs I gave him. He wants you to put them in moth-balls until next year, please—

Dulles' Talk Angers Acheson

By Drew Pearson

Secretary of State Acheson is boiling mad at John Foster Dulles for making speeches criticizing the North Atlantic pact.

Pearson

Acheson blew up when he read Dulles' speech in Cleveland before the Federal Council of Churches lambasting the State Department for inviting Norway to join the pact while under Russian pressure. Dulles warned this might provoke Russia into attacking.

When Acheson read this he remarked: "Dulles just can't get over the fact that Dewey lost the election and he isn't now Secretary of State."

Capital Capsules

Tempting Senator Morse—The Democrats have tried to tempt independent Republican Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon to quit the Senate. The bait is a lifetime job as U. S. Circuit Judge on the West Coast. Senator Magnuson of Washington was sent as emissary to Morse with the offer, but the forthright Senator from Oregon refused to be kicked upstairs, telling Magnuson that the Democrats would have to beat him at the polls if they wanted to get him out of the Senate.

North Carolina Blood Is Thick—Senator Clyde Hoey of North Carolina is on the Senate Expenditures Committee, now engaged in probing alleged political favoritism inside the RFC whereby former Congressman Frank Hancock of North Carolina used his brother-in-law, Ernest Howard, inside the RFC, to arrange Government loans for clients. This has netted various fees for Hancock. Although Senator Hoey is taking no part in the Senate investigation, his committee is. And during the investigation Senator Hoey showed up as guest of honor at a luncheon given by Mrs. Ernest Howard, who is the wife of one man under investigation and the sister of the other—Frank Hancock.

Stronger Than Pacts—There's been plenty of publicity attached to the fact that Norway has stuck its neck out by rebuffing Russia and agreeing to a mutual defense pact with the United States. Unpublicized, however, is the fact that Norway is also quietly building up friendship with the United States through exchange of students . . . About 600 Norwegian students are now studying in the United States and, in reciprocity, the University of Oslo is conducting a summer course for American students. The Norwegian teachers instruct in English, and this summer student exchange is helping to create a friendship even stronger than treaties . . . Interested Americans can get details from the Norwegian Embassy in Washington. They have until March 25 before the enrollment deadline closes.

Watch the Warship—The American Embassy has warned the Chinese Nationalist government to keep a close eye on the American warships that were turned over to the Chinese navy at the end of the war. Ambassador Stuart doesn't want any of our warships deserting to the Chinese Communists. A couple of weeks ago a British cruiser that London had transferred to the Chinese suddenly went over to the Communist side.

Education Problem

Frank W. Abrams, chairman of the far-flung Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, has spent 32 years in the refining business—highly successful, plodding years, not too exciting as measured by outside standards. Beginning as a junior engineer in Standard's Eagle refining plant, Abrams slowly worked his way up.

And having reached the very top of the world's largest oil corporation, he began to get ready to retire the other day, and began to realize how exciting life can be.

He got contaminated first of all by sitting down with some university students who were graduating from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Then he met with teachers and students of other colleges, began to study their overcrowded condition and their financial needs.

As a result, Frank Abrams has become a quiet, consistent crusader for education, and in so doing has posed an important question to the Nation: "Can corporations contribute to colleges and universities?"

Under current court rulings they can't. If they have a business interest in sending some of their men to a certain college, or if a college is working on a technical problem of value to a corporation, then a corporation can contribute. But the courts have held, thus far, that a corporation cannot help a college simply for the purpose of aiding general education.

However, Abrams, pointing to the fact that the enrollment of American colleges has recently increased 60 per cent, against a general population increase of only 9 per cent, claims that corporations should be permitted to contribute to colleges.

"The peace, prosperity and security of this Nation may depend as much on the way we treat our teachers and our religious leaders as it does on any single influence," says Abrams. "We must offer them more than bread and butter and a chance to do good.

"The American people insist that the legal persons which we call corporations have responsibilities to society," he adds. "In our view, the American people are right."

At any rate, Abrams has decided to make a test case of his theory before the courts and see whether it is permissible for corporations to make contributions to general education—there being no strings attached to influence the university's way of teaching.
